Cats Can Be Too Big.
French-German Pact.
Russia Bobs Up.
1,250,000 Crimes.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE HEADS OF big corporations might visit the lion house in New York's Central Park zoo, and sympathize with the lions.

The house is plagued with rats, and the gigantic "cats" in the cage are so big, the rats are too quick for them.

An ordinary cat as big as a lion's paw could kill the rats quickly. Lions cannot.

Regular cats will not stay in the cages because they dislike the smell of lions and fear their size.

SOME OF OUR biggest corporations are unable to attend to small matters in their business, and suffer heavy loss in consequence. Lions, in spite of the fact that they are big cats, are unable to look after their own rats. It is possible to be too big for efficiency.

WITH GREAT BRITAIN and America getting ready for a solemn London conference, French and Germans were really attending to business in Paris. The result must have made Britons thoughtful.

"The chancellor of the German state expressed a desire to establish direct contact with the French government" so runs the official announcement.

Then "the head of the French government SPONTANEOUSLY replied that he viewed with satisfaction such an interview."

FRANCE SEEMS to have said to Germany "I have my heel on your head. Will you let me keep it there quietly or shall I press down hard?"

Under the circumstances Germany could only reply "Keep it there."

But such a thing as a real reconciliation, and friendship between Germany and France, is conceivable. If that came about France with her great air fleet and submarine fleet, combined with Germany, could say to England "Your English channel, once so important, is now meaningless, you must do as we tell you."

In that case Britain would probably turn to an alliance with this country. Plenty of possible complications ahead.

THE ADMINISTRATION hopes that lending money to Germany and encouraging other nations to do the same will help our farmers by stimulating trade and German wheat buying. That reminds you of the cowboy who said when he heard of oxtail soup, "That seems like going a long way back for soup."

RUSSIA CAN undersell us, and Germany may buy from Russia. It may be true, as suggested by a former head of our Farm Board, that American farmers must meet competition with co-operative farming. A small American tractor backing around the corners of a small field cannot compete with a Russian government tractor that goes six miles in a straight line and six miles back, a program that includes planting 30,000,000 acres of wheat as part of one government enterprise, two and a half times the total wheat acreage of Kansas.

RUSSIA CONTINUES to interest the world more and more. The president of the British Timber Trade Federation, after investigations in Leningrad and all Russian lumber centers, says officially, "There is no forced or convict labor in Northern Russian lumber ports."

He found new and better houses, conditions as compared with the days of the Czar "greatly improved."

The chairman, Mr. Tetsall, head of a great English firm, confirms the statements made by one of the best-known American lumber men.

READ AN EXTRACT from a message sent from Moscow by Walter Duranty, who represents Mr. Adolph S. Ochs:

"In Europe there are gloom, panic, listlessness, or the first angry mutterings of despair, and unemployed by the millions. Here in Russia there are hope, energy, the fury of creation and strong leadership toward an appointed goal."

In industry Russia shows enormous gains for this year over 1930.

It might be worth while to send one of our commissions to Russia to see whether, by any possibility, they know something that we do not know.

DR. ABRAHAM J. RONGY, chairman of the Greater New York Committee on Health Examination, publishes unpleasant facts in the current issue of American Medicine.

Dr. Rongy urges that legalized birth control information be supplied to all that want it in order to discourage criminal operations to prevent childbirth. He declares that 1,000,000 such operations are performed every year by physicians in the United States, and 250,000 by others not physicians, and the cost to the victims is one hundred million dollars.

The money is not important, but the horrible suffering and many deaths are important.

GEORGE BERNARD SHAW has gone to Russia with the brilliant Lady Nancy Astor and some others, saying that he stayed away from New York "to keep away from reporters."

On the other hand if all the reporters should keep away from Mr. Shaw for six months how

Builders Charge Union Threats

RACKETEER METHODS HINTED

Electrical Contractors' Agent Accuses 2 Labor Leaders Of Intimidation Tactics

Two labor union officials were charged with attempting to intimidate independent electrical contractors and prevent them from bidding on big jobs, in a statement today by Robert C. Carmack, manager of the Allegheny County Electrical Contractors' Association.

Carmack charged that William G. Shord and M. P. Gordon, of Local Union No. 5, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, recently threatened to declare any member of the association "open shop" if he should bid on large contracts such as the county airport.

Carmack's statement marks the climax of the controversy over electrical bids in which the Board of Public Education took part on the ground that a combine existed to stifle competition in bidding on such contracts.

ACCUSE LABOR LEADERS

The statement said in part:

"The discussion regarding the recent award of the Airport contract for electrical work by the county commissioners, and the difficulties experienced by the Board of Public Education, of the City of Pittsburgh, make it imperative that this association make clearly known to the public its position.

"The association is composed of more than 30 independent American business men who did a gross business during the year 1930 of more than $1,500,000.

"Recently an attempt has been made by William G. Shord and M. P. Gordon, officials of Labor Union No. 5, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, to intimidate various members of this association from making bids on large jobs such as the airport contract under the threat by the same officials that they would declare the shop of the members of this association, so bidding in violation of their order, nonunion.

NO RACKETEERING

"We will not tolerate the introduction into our business of 'Chicago racketeering methods,' nor will we yield to dictation by anyone.

"The members of this association are not interested in any price fixing combine.

"We believe in the American labor movement, and want to employ union labor at union wages but refuse to submit to dictation regarding either the contract on which we may submit bids, the union price to be quoted or any other of these essential business details.

Five Vote Machines Delivered; Total, 11.

The Bureau of Elections received a shipment of five more voting machines today. With the new shipment, 11 machines have been delivered out of the 1,100 due here on or before August 15. Five more are understood to be on the way from the Poole Engineering and Machine Company plant at Baltimore.

THE THREE COUNTY COMMISSIONERS AND ENGINEERS CHECKING OVER PLANS FOR ROADWAY

County Commissioners C. C. McGovern, Joseph Armstrong and E. V. Babcock today on the ramp at the downtown end of the Wabash railroad bridge over the Monongahela, which with the Wabash tunnel the county has planned to acquire for a new through motor traffic route.

RAIN CAUSES TRAFFIC TIEUP

A heavy rain this afternoon caused numerous landslides and hampered trolley and automobile traffic.

Nine-tenths inch of rain fell in 35 minutes, according to Forecaster W. S. Brotzman. The temperature fell from 76 to 65, definitely breaking the heat wave.

The Fourth avenue tunnel of the Penhandle Railroad was flooded and trains were being detoured over the Fort Wayne and Ohio Connecting Bridge.

At Superior and California avenues sidewalks were flooded, blocking Superior avenue trolleys. The by-pass of the Ohio River boulevard west of Superior avenue was blocked.

The water made sidewalks impassable in Seventh avenue from Bigelow boulevard to Smithfield street and wood block paving was damaged for half a square.

Hall Plans New Try At Hawks Record

NEW YORK, July 21.—(INS.)—James Goodwin Hall, New York flier, today planned another attempt to lower the record for a flight between New York and Havana. A checkup on his time from Havana to New York revealed he had failed by seven minutes to lower the record of eight hours 44 minutes, held by Capt. Frank Hawks, for the 1,400-mile course.

Hall, who arrived here late yesterday, clipped 23 minutes from Hawks' New York to Havana record.

Babcock Tiff With McGovern Merely Words

The County Commissioners were discussing the feasibility of leasing a hangar site on the Municipal Airport to C. W. Forcier this afternoon. The following enlightening conversation took place between Commissioner Babcock and Commissioner McGovern, who once floored his associate:

McGovern called the airport a "mudhole" and Babcock replied:

"You take great delight in picking on the airport."

McGovern:

"The Commissioner is indulging in personalities. I don't like to do that, but I'm pretty good at it."

Babcock:

"That's all you have done in public life—knock somebody."

McGovern:

"Well, you're a good target if you want to indulge in personalities."

Babcock:

"Yeh, you'd slug me again with your fist to show your manhood."

McGovern:

"You'll bring that on yourself if it happens."

Chairman Armstrong called time.

The commissioners had just returned from an amicable joint inspection of the Wabash Railroad tunnel and bridge which they propose to convert into a vehicular traffic lane.

Tear Down Barn To Rescue Puppies

OGDENSBURG, N. J., July 21.—(AP.)—Frank Fitz-Herbert and his neighbors began today to tear down a stable to save a litter of puppies, lodged in an inaccessible hole and facing starvation.

Madden, Prohibition Official, Suspended

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP.)—The Prohibition Bureau today made known the suspension of John B. Madden, former assistant administrator at Kansas City.

RIOT BREAKS UP MINE MEETING

SCRANTON, Pa., July 21.—(AP.)—The convention of anthracite miners of District No. 1 broke up in disorder today shortly after noon. It was the second disturbance in as many days.

State troopers and city patrolmen on duty outside the convention hall rushed into the building and quelled the fighting delegates with tear gas bombs. More than a dozen were hurled, stampeding the crowd from the hall.

This action followed the attack by a large number of delegates on Walter Kostrella, of Plymouth, who was the floor leader of the Maloney faction during the trouble yesterday.

The delegates were engaged in a bitter discussion as to whether the public should be invited to hear an address by Senator James J. Davis.

Paddock New Bridge Co. President

L. A. Paddock, 2087 Beechwood boulevard, has been elected president of the American Bridge Company, one of the principal subsidiaries of the United States Steel Corporation.

He succeeds Joshua A. Hatfield, of New York, who died two weeks ago. Paddock formerly was vice president of the company.

It is understood Paddock will transfer his office to New York.

A. L. Davis, general contracting manager, with offices in New York, has been made vice president in charge of sales with headquarters in this city.

Injured Girl Star May Sprint Again

CHICAGO, July 21. — (AP.) — Betty Robinson, Olympic sprint queen whose career was believed terminated by an airplane crash, may run again. Her father said, today, physicians predicted his daughter's leg would mend to the same length as the other.

Mother, Liquor Violator, Swoons During Trial

Falling in a faint today while a prohibition officer was testifying she had violated her parole, Mrs. Mary Johnson, 31, of Erie, was soon revived by attendants and sentenced by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker to serve six months in the Erie Jail.

Mrs. Johnson is the mother of two daughters, 8 and 11, and she told the court she had been selling liquor to support them after her husband deserted her.

The court asked the prohibition officers to take up with the poor authorities of Erie County the question of the children's care, but it was said after the hearing a sister of Mrs. Johnson will care for them during their mother's absence.

MINER SHOT AS SNIPERS FIRE ON 50

Volley From Wooded Hills Scatters Group on Way to Work; 61 Marchers Held

A second ambuscade of miners today brought the strike in the Ohio-West Virginia field to fever heat today. Fifty men were fired on by snipers and one was wounded. In a similar attack yesterday two men were slain.

A third death resulted late yesterday when a striking picket was killed in a clash with men going to work.

WHEELING, W. Va., July 21. — (AP.) — Snipers fired upon miners entering the McKinleyville mine of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Coal Company near Wellsburg today, wounding one of the miners.

The man shot was William Thompson. He was struck in the shoulder.

Fifty men were about to enter the working when bullets began spattering around them, apparently being fired from wooded slopes rising from the mine mouth. About 40 shots were fired.

Meanwhile, five strikers were under arrest at Charleston in connection with the slaying yesterday of two miners at the Raymond Coal Company's mine. Clarence Kyle, 29, and Cyrus S. Spaulding were the victims. Those held are William Goff and John Holston and his three sons, John, Fred and Harvey.

Slaying of Boy Enrages Mine Strikers in Ohio

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., July 21.—(AP.)—Ohio's coal mine strike section seethed with excitement today over the first killing in the many weeks of the strike's disorders. The victim, William Simon, 16, a picket, was shot late yesterday during a clash between working and striking miners at the Gaylord mine near Martins Ferry.

Joseph Peterlin, 43, miner, was arrested and was held in jail here today pending a coroner's verdict.

Several hours later, when a crowd of 500 persons milled about the city jail at Yorksville, in the belief Peterlin was within, Sheriff Duff increased the guard at the county jail to make certain the prisoner would be safe from violence.

MRS. BEATRICE WHOLEAN

Society Leader Gives Bulk of Estate to Niece, Nephew.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP.)—A will by the late Mrs. Mary F. Henderson, dowager queen of capital society, specifically cutting off her foster grand-daughter and leaving the bulk of her large estate to Frances and Henry N. Arnold, of New York, her niece and nephew, was filed today in the District of Columbia Supreme Court.

The will did not mention the amount. It was signed by the 90-year-old widow of Senator Henderson, of Missouri, and Theodore E. Peyser, her attorney, last April 8.

It bequeathed $100,000 to Jesse Shima, her Japanese private secretary. Mrs. Henderson died last week at her summer home in Bar Harbor, Maine.

Mrs. Beatrice Wholean, the foster grand-daughter, last winter attempted to frustrate along ambition of Mrs. Henderson to give the nation a permanent home for its vice-presidents. It was then Mrs. Henderson revealed that Mrs. Wholean was an adopted foundling.

Mrs. Hoover's Uncle Gets Threat Letter

WAHPETON, N. D., July 21.—(AP.)—A man who attempted to extort $75 from W. D. Henry, retired banker and uncle of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, was sought today.

Henry received a letter demanding that he drive into the country and throw the money from his car at a signal. While officers watched he drove, but due to uncertainty regarding the signal, a trailing car was unable to follow closely enough to apprehend the man.

GOVERNMENT ASSISTANCE BARRED IN PROGRAM

President's Plan Submitted To London Conference; Would Extend Credits

By PIERCE MILLER
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—President Hoover proposed to the nations of the world, assembled at London today, that they come to the aid of tottering Germany with a four-point program of relief, which will include the maintenance of existing credits and the conversion of short term credits into long-term credits.

Boiled down, the American suggestions are wholly of a private banking nature, without governmental committment or intervention. Success of the program, of course, is dependent upon the willingness of foreign bankers to co-operate with their respective governments to carry it out.

ESSENTIALS OF PLAN

The essentials of the American program are:

1—There shall be a clearing of the European political atmosphere through "mutual good-will and understanding" on the part of the various nations, but principally between Germany and France and the latter's satellites.

2—Foreign bankers shall maintain their existing credits in Germany, which amount to some $1,200,000,000, of which about 600,000,000 is American.

3—An international commission shall be appointed to examine Germany's financial and economic structure to determine whether "new money" is essential to Germany's rehabilitation.

4—Short term credits to be extended into long term credits if it appears necessary.

CASTLE GIVES DETAILS

Acting Secretary of State Castle, in announcing details of the American proposals, made it clear that President Hoover does not ignore the fact the economic situation in Germany is complicated by European political problems,

Missouri's Reed Scores Debt Plan

DULUTH, Minn., July 21.—(AP.)—Former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, taken ill on a train en route to Duluth Saturday and confined to his hotel Sunday and Monday, left today for the Lake of the Woods country on the Canadian border for a fishing trip.

Reed termed President Hoover's moratorium "sheer foolishness," stating it laid a heavy financial burden on the taxpayers of America "at an exceedingly inopportune time."

Court Scores Actor Fighting Divorce

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—Alan Dinehart, actor and playwright, was taken to task today by Supreme Court Justice Peter Schmuck for attacking the divorce suit here of his wife, Louise, with the claim that he is a resident of Chicago. The court ordered the actor to begin paying his wife $100 weekly temporary alimony and said if payment was not forthcoming speedily the amount would be doubled.

Two Killed as Auto Burns After Crash

NEWARK, O., July 21.—(AP.)—Two women, believed to be from Columbus, O., were burned to death and two men from Missouri were injured seriously in a collision of automobiles on the National highway near Kirkersville, O., today.

1925 Beauty Queen Weds Childhood Sweetheart

OAKLAND, Cal., July 21.—(INS.)—Miss America of 1925, now a Hollywood stenographer, Miss Fay Lanphier, has married her childhood sweetheart, her mother, Mrs. Emily Lanphier, announced today.

The former beauty queen's marriage to Winfield John Daniels, who graduated in engineering from the University of California in May, was kept a secret since June 30. The bride is 25, the groom is 26.

Miss Lanphier was married to Sidney Spiegel, Jr., son of a Chicago furniture manufacturer, for a month in 1928, being divorced at Reno.

After winning her title in Atlantic City, Miss Lanphier appeared in a movie, "The American Venus," and for the past two years has been typing and hoping for another chance in the films.

ARMSTRONG AND COYNE ALLIANCE BELIEVED ASSURED

KLINE HOLDING KEY TO G. O. P. HARMONY

Mayor Supports Oakland Senator, Wants Incumbent To Win Another Term

Despite contrary reports there is an apparent belief among those watching the political trend that the county ticket in the Republican primary will be headed by Armstrong and Coyne as running mates for the two majority places for county commissioner.

It is generally admitted that State Senator James J. Coyne has the support of Mayor Kline and it is believed that the Mayor is sympathetic with the aspiration of County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong to succeed himself.

OPPOSE COYNE

Some of Armstrong's followers are represented as being opposed to Coyne, but the general impression appears to be that when the campaign gets underway "they will go when the wagon comes."

In the county organization it is generally accepted that Burgess John Cavanaugh, of Homestead, is an implacable foe of Coyne's and will support only Armstrong if the Coyne-Armstrong ticket endures.

Other staunch friends of Armstrong such as Miles Bryan, leader of McKees Rocks, and Michael J. Verosky, leader of the Braddock-Rankin district, are said to kindly disposed toward Coyne. The reported opposition to Coyne in Mayor Kline's camp is not taken seriously by competent observers in view of the spanking the Mayor gave a few of his obstreperous lieutenants in the last state fight.

RIDDLE ACUTE

The riddle of the present situation becomes more acute through consideration of the status of County Commissioner C. C. McGovern. Many believe the latter will enter the primary and take State Senator W. D. Mansfield as a running mate for the two majority county commissioner places.

McGovern is keeping his plans to himself, but a number of the unofficial slate makers are of the opinion that he will postpone his fight until the November election instead of running against a combined city and county organization ticket headed by Armstrong and Coyne.

W. L. Mellon left Pittsburgh last night for Canada as planned. So far as most political leaders really knew or would admit, he had not affected the harmony it was predicted he would have a hand in, but the general opinion was that his conference with local leaders had more significance than is now apparent.

AIMEE, MOTHER AT ODDS

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 21.—(INS.)—Relations between Aimee Semple McPherson, dynamic blonde evangelist, and her mother, Mrs. Minnie (Ma) Kennedy, were rather strained today, Mrs. Kennedy demanding a "showdown" as the result of attempts to place her in a psychopathic ward, made by B. F. Clearwater, night watchman at Angelus Temple, where Aimee presides, according to reports.

Declining to offer any further comment on the marriage of Mrs. Kennedy to the Rev. G. Edward (what-a-man) Hudson and the subsequent proceedings, other than that it was "an unfortunate affair," Aimee prepared to officiate tonight at the wedding of her son, Rolf, 18, to Miss Lorna Dee Smith, 20, at the Temple.

Cuban House Votes Machado Retirement

HAVANA, July 21.—(AP.)—The constitutional reforms proposed by Dr. Juan Rodriguez Ramirez, which call for President Machado to give up the presidency in 1933, have passed the House of Representatives.

They were approved last night by a vote of 89 to 0. The program provides for special elections in 1932 to name Machado's successor.

Receiver Named For Coal Company

BUTLER, Pa., July 21.—Attorney Martin A. Reiber was appointed today by Judge James O. Campbell to act as receiver for the Consolidated Coal Company, operating mines in Allegheny, Butler and Indiana counties. C. F. Hosford, Jr., president of the Consolidated said that plans for reorganization of the company are under way.

4 GIVEN TERMS IN MINE RIOT

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 21.—Frank Batista, of Strabane, was held for court today on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, at a hearing of six persons arrested following a clash between members of mine unions in Canonsburg, Sunday. Batista was held when a pair of brass knucklers was found on his person.

John Riska, Toney Semee, both of Strabane; Julius Hollis, of Belle Vernon, and Annie Moroski, of Avella, were sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse in default of $10 and costs. J. Johnson, of Canonsburg, was discharged.

The six were arrested by state police after an attack on a United Mine Workers of America mass meeting by adherents of the National Miners Union. Hearing was before Alderman Morgan McClelland here.

Murray Fights to Drive Reds From Coal Fields

Avowing the intention of the United Mine Workers of America to wipe out Communism and reestablish itself in the bituminous coal industry, Philip Murray, international vice president of the U. M. W. A., today announced an investigation into Sunday's attacks of National Miners Union followers on the Canonsburg rally at which he and P. T. Fagan, district president, were speakers.

Dynamite Stolen In Strike Area

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 21.—Theft of 330 sticks of dynamite from a small shed on the county highway between Slovan and Cedar Grove in the Burgettstown coal strike area was being investigated by county authorities here. The dynamite had been stored there by the R. G. Johnston Company, of Pittsburgh.

Drowned Man's Body Taken From River

The body of a man was found today in the Monongahela River at the foot of South Thirty-fourth street. The victim, about 20 years old, had red hair. One front tooth was missing. The body was unclad. Attaches at the morgue said the man probably drowned Saturday or Sunday.

'PHANTOM' QUIZ TO CURB VOTE FRAUD HERE

Check on Registrations Expected to Keep Many 'Floaters' From Polls

The investigation of phantom assessments being made by Peter J. Connors, under direction of the City Board of Registration Commissioners will have the effect, political leaders believe, of preventing hundreds of fraudulent registrations for the fall primaries.

Many who registered last year under fictitious names and addresses, will fear to make the attempt at the coming registration days, it is believed.

CHECK VOTERS

Others who may obtain tax receipts fraudulently and have their names entered on the registration books, will at once be checked against lists of alleged phantom voters uncovered by Connors. If any are found to have registered illegally, steps probably will be taken to have their names stricken from the lists, it was said.

The commission's investigators are compiling a list, they announced of vacant lots in the First and Second wards which will be used to prevent voters being registered from those places.

Petitions for appointment of registrars will be received up to July 27. The board has announced it would make virtually a clean sweep of old registrars. The first registration day is August 8.

RECORDS MISSING

Particular attention will be paid to those districts in which ballot check lists and voters' check lists were missing following last year's November election. These were the First and Third districts, First Ward; First of the Second Ward and Fourth and Thirteenth districts of the Fourth Ward.

These records, which are supposed to be mailed to the Registration Commission to show which of the voters who registered actually voted, were stolen at the polling places of these districts and have never been found, despite searching investigation by the recount board.

MRS. FOGARTY MAY RECOVER

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 21.—(INS.)—Mrs. Katherine King, in the hospital here with a bullet wound in her left lung, was expected to recover, physicians said today.

As Mrs. Kate Fogarty she sued Gene Tunney for $250,000 in a breach of promise suit, which was dismissed.

According to her mother, Mrs. J. Y. Rankin, with whom she lives, the shooting occurred Saturday night after she and her daughter had played cards and listened to the radio. Her daughter excused herself and went into the room where she was found a few minutes later seriously wounded.

PINCHOT WARNS ON UTILITIES

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 21.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today warned that "the future of Pennsylvania is at stake if, in the future legislative sessions, utilities interests can do what they did during the 1931 session."

In a speech for delivery in connection with the public celebration of the Wyoming Valley Municipal Water Ownership League, the Governor reviewed the opposition encountered by Public Service legislation, repeated previous charges that the utilities had gained control of the mechanism of the Republican Party in the state and criticised the Public Service Commission for "general incompetency." He continued:

"What will happen if the utilities take over the House of Representatives, as well as the Senate, and elect a governor? What chance have the consumers then? What chance has any citizen of Pennsylvania, if the utilities go into the general business of jobbing laws?"

Kline's Boil Halts Welcome to Police

Mayor Charles H. Kline has a new boil on the side of his head, according to Director of Public Safety James M. Clark, who gave the boil as the Mayor's excuse for failing to welcome the Association of Police Chiefs of Pennsylvania in person to their convention, which opened here today. Boils are carbuncles recently endangered the Mayor's life, keeping him in the hospital for weeks.

Woman Renounces Sunday Show Award

LONDON, July 21.—(AP.)—Miss Millie Orpen, who was awarded $25,000 last week in a suit against a movie theater which remained open on Sunday in violation of a Blue Law more than a century old, today renounced the award.

Man Called Liar Promises To Beat Up Beamish

HARRISBURG, July 21.—(AP.)—Richard J. Beamish, secretary of the commonwealth, today received a telegram from John W. Glover, Philadelphia, which asked:

"What hospital do you want to go to when I meet you in Philadelphia?"

The telegram also reiterated Glover's previous charge that Beamish is biased in favor of the Automatic Voting Machine Company, of Jamestown, N. Y.

Secretary Beamish declined to comment on the Glover telegram, which was in response to a statement by the secretary yesterday in which he called Glover a liar in intimating he was biased in favor of the Jamestown concern.

HOOVER URGES BANKERS AID GERMANY

but, he said, these problems must be worked out by the nations concerned.

No governmental loans are contemplated by the American proposals, nor would any government act as "guarantor" for any part of the program. This, it was recognized, would be wholly impossible for the United States, and possibly other governments, because of parliamentary objections.

The American proposals were worked out here at a White House conference which included the President, Senator Dwight W. Morrow and Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, and were laid before the ministerial conference in London today.

Stimson Sees Agreement Prospects Brighten

By OTTO D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service.

LONDON, July 21.—Negotiations promising a satisfactory final agreement on international efforts to save Germany from economic collapse were undertaken today at the seven-power conference of ministers at the British foreign office, it was announced late this afternoon by Henry L. Stimson, United States Secretary of State. He said:

"I am very well satisfied over the result of the conversations ensuing both here and in Paris. The problem has been clarified and there are better prospects for a final agreement."

STIMSON WRATHFUL

The American delegation remained adamant in its refusal to disclose the precise terms of the proposal framed by President Hoover over the week-end and cabled to London for presentation to the conference as an emergency move.

Col. Stimson reverted to "army" language when approached and questioned point blank about the Washington scheme. The only answer he would give was:

"Oh! Go plumb to ——."

The conferees were in session two and three-quarter hours this morning.

At the conclusion of the morning session, the following communique was issued:

"The conference discussed measures of international financial co-operation whereby confidence in German economic stability may be restored in the immediate future as a preliminary to examination of further measures which may be necessary to effect permanent restoration of the German financial situation on a firm basis."

It was said in well-informed quarters that the United States and Great Britain are agreed Germany must have help and are prepared to see that she gets it whether France participates or not.

French Terms 'Rejected,' Hitler Warns Chancellor

BERLIN, July 21.—(AP.)—In a telegram to Chancellor Bruening in London today, Adolf Hitler, Alfred Hugenberg and other leaders of the Nationalist opposition served warning that they will not consider themselves bound by any new political guarantees conceded to France in connection with financial assistance for Germany. The telegram said:

"The whole national opposition formally serves notice that in accordance with its basic convictions it will not regard as legally binding any further conditions entered into with France."

As a further measure to stabilize German finance, the government issued today a new emergency decree increasing taxes 10 to 12 per cent. The decree was made necessary by the drop in government revenues as the result of the crisis.

Many observers took the view that even if a large credit were granted to Germany that the relief brought by it would be only temporary and revision of the Versailles treaty and Young plan would eventually be necessary.

Commons Upholds Government in Vote

LONDON, July 21.—(AP.)—A Conservative vote of censure of the government on account of its agricultural policy was defeated in the House of Commons last night, 278 to 230. The government's defeat on the question would have meant its immediate resignation.

Yacht Sighter After Race Over Atlantic

LONDON, July 21.—(INS.)—The American racing yacht Dorade, nearing the end of her long race across the Atlantic from Newport, R. I., to Plymouth, England, passed the "Lizzard," southernmost tip of England early today. The other nine yachts have not been sighted.

FALL NOW CONVICT NO. 6991 IN NEW MEXICO PENITENTIARY

PRISONER GETS PRIVATE ROOM IN HOSPITAL

Parts With Family Before Starting Term of Year For Acepting Oil Bribe

SANTA FE, N. M., July 21.—(AP.)—Albert B. Fall today became No. 6991 in the New Mexico State Penitentiary—stripped of his citizenship rights in the state which has heaped honors upon him.

The 70-year-old former secretary of the interior was committed last night to serve a sentence of a year and a day on conviction of accepting $100,000 to negotiate a lease on federal oil naval reserves while he was a cabinet member. The commitment marked the end of an eight-year legal battle.

GIVEN STIMULANTS

Bolstered by two heart stimulants administered by his physician while en route by ambulance from his ranch at Three Rivers, Fall was immediately taken to a private room in the prison hospital. Dr. J. H. Gambrell, his personal physician, said:

"Fall is in no condition to be confined. He is unable to take care of himself, is not certain of his feet and requires constant attention."

In response to a telegraphic request from Pardon Attorney Finch in the Department of Justice at Washington, U. S. Marshal Joseph F. Tondri dispatched a telegram notifying him that Fall had been committed. Some speculation was aroused by the exchange of messages.

FEELS WEAK

In his only talk with newspapermen, shortly before the party reached Santa Fe, Fall told the reporters he felt weak.

Newspapermen were barred from interviewing Fall after he was inside the prison. Details were obtained from Warden Ed Swope and Dr. Gambrell. None of the members of Fall's family entered the prison with him. Their farewells were said before Santa Fe was reached. From now on, Warden Swope said, they will have to observe regular visiting hours.

Dr. E. W. Fiske, prison physician, was to examine Fall today to determine whether he is able to undergo fingerprinting, photographing and other prison routine, including outfitting with prison denim and cutting of the hair.

Suitor Again Tried In Girl's Murder

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 21.—(INS.)—Moss E. Garrison went on trial the second time today on a charge of murdering his sweetheart, Hazel Bradshaw, 23. A jury of three women and nine men was selected in five hours. The jury at the first trial disagreed.

Garrison's defense will be that the girl was stabbed to death by a rejected suitor last May. Garrison admits being with the girl the night she was killed.

FATAL OIL FIRE EXTINGUISHED

MT. PLEASANT, Mich., July 21.—(INS.)—Steam forced at high pressure into the 70-foot pillar of fire at the Struble No. 1 oil well today extinguished the flames which have been leaping skyward since late Saturday when eight persons were burned to death and at least 40 others injured.

As soon as the fire was out a geyser of oil and gas spurted upward.

While the successful battle to curb the blaze was being waged at the well, another fight was being carried on at Brondstetter Hospital by sleep-starved doctors and nurses bent on saving the lives of five of the injured who still are in a critical condition.

Weather Conditions.

There was little change in barometric conditions over the eastern half of the country during the last 24 hours, and, as a result, the showery weather conditions continue. Rainfall was moderately heavy in some localities in the Ohio Valley states, but, generally, it was light. Over the western half of the country there was no rainfall and the skies are mostly clear this morning. There were no high temperatures yesterday except in in the far Southwest, and there is no indication of a return of the high temperatures oer this section for the next several days.

River Conditions.

The upper rivers are stationary or rising slightly. The Ohio is falling. Stage at Franklin is 0.6 foot; Lock No. 7, 10.5; Pittsburgh, 10.4; Dam No. 4, 8.8; Dam No. 6, 7.8; Dam No. 10, 8.5, and Dam No. 13, 6.4. The dams are up.

MOORE HEARD IN RAIL HEARING

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP.)—The Insterstate Commerce Commission today estimated that it would have cost $27,189,657,479 to reproduce the country's railroads on December 31, 1930. The estimate was made as an exhibit to be used in considering the appeal of the railroads for a 15 per cent freight rate increase.

Donald Moore, of the General Traffic Committee of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, was among today's witnesses. He said 700 shippers who were members of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce met with the General Traffic Committee and discussed the rate situation. He said no vote was taken, but the majority favored the railroads' plea with reservations that they would not waive the right to protest any adjustment that might be adverse to Pittsburgh.

A resolution the committee adopted was barred as evidence but was permitted to be placed in the correspondence file of the commission.

MISS MAYO PAYS VISIT TO HOME OF CHILDHOOD

Crusading Author Is Feted By New Bethlehem Folk; May Visit Coal Fields

NEW BETHLEHEM, Pa., July 21.—Katherine Mayo, writer of fierce realism, moved the clock back 50 years during the night, and is a child again today.

She is back here—where she spent her childhood, and instead of the painter of the tragedies of "Mother India," the brutalities of crime, and the persistency of the crime-detector as she portrayed Pennsylvania's state police; the cruelties of the Philippines—instead of Katherine Mayo the author-crusader, she is for the day "Kitty" Mayo the child.

GONE HALF CENTURY

Perhaps half a century ago, she left Bostonia Hollow—the estate her father had built adjoining the village of New Bethlehem. The Mayo's moved east. She had spent 10 happy years here. She had been born in Ridgway, a little to the north, and was brought here at the age of two. She didn't return—until late last night.

And today childhood unfolded again.

She said, simply, too:

"Of course these memories of the happiest days of my life—my childhood here—have always run through my mind. I never expected to return. It was the coincidence of meeting Mrs. Will Houghton in New York last winter, at a tea, that made it possible.

"She asked me if I were the the 'Kitty' Mayo that lived here. She asked me if I was I, and of course I was. We arranged then that I should visit her mother, Mrs. F. L. Andrews. And here I am."

TOWN PLANS FETE

Tonight the townspeople whose fathers and aunts and grandmothers knew little "Kitty" Mayo or her father, then a coal operator, will give her the town's best greeting.

First she will speak in the Presbyterian church; later a reception will be given in the First National Bank. She will also spend tomorrow, "just visiting."

U. S. Unable to Find Assets of Capone

CHICAGO, July 21.—(AP.)—The Chicago Herald and Examiner said today that Alphonse Capone, who soon will go to prison, is either "broke" or has successfully concealed his assets.

The newspaper said this was indicated last night by Assistant United States Attorney Dwight Green, in charge of income tax evasions, who said the government was having a hard time finding anything of Capone's to attach to satisfy its income tax bill.

Anne Nichols Has New Play for Fall

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—Anne Nichols, who made a fortune by writing and producing "Abie's Irish Rose," is to return to Broadway after an absence of two years. She plans to produce a play by Ralph Henry Mears this fall called "Band Concert."

SHAW GREETED BY THRONGS IN MOSCOW

Scorns Reporters Despite Appeal by Lady Astor; Visits Tomb of Lenin

MOSCOW, July 21.—(AP.)—George Bernard Shaw reached here today, waved his soft hat at the hundreds waiting for him at the railway station and declined the pleas of Nancy Lady Astor, who also was a member of the British touring party, to see the gentlemen of the press.

The American-born peeress said:

"Oh, but you must see them, George."

Shaw replied:

"I'll see them—definitely and categorically damned."

VISITS LENINE TOMB

He demanded to be taken immediately to the tomb of Lenine, in Red Square.

As Shaw and the party of other notables left the train at the Belorusski station the crowd of workers and peasants cheered him and representatives of the Soviet literary and educational agencies stepped forward with an official greeting. Shaw seemed to be in excellent health despite his approaching seventy-fifth birthday which falls on Saturday.

As he crossed the platform guarded closely by Red soldiers, Shaw was introduced to a young Englishman who has lived here for two years. Shaw asked:

"How do you like it, and do you intend to stay here always?"

The young man replied:

"It's fine, and I do intend to stay here."

He is employed in one of the branches of the revolutionary literature committee.

WOULD STAY IN RUSSIA

Shaw retorted:

"If I were as young as you are I think I should like to stay here, too."

Lady Astor wore a tailored blue suit and carried an armful of roses.

AIR MAIL PILOT DIES IN CRASH

CENTRALIA, Ill., July 21.—(AP.)—F. Edward Hamann, air mail pilot for the Universal Air Lines Company on the Evansville-St. Louis route, was killed early today in a plane crash during a blinding rainstorm near here.

Robert Bachs, a farmer, said he heard the plane circle about his house several times with the motor missing badly.

It was believed the pilot became lost in the severe rainstorm as he was about three miles off the regular air route.

CHINESE HOLD U. S. DOCTOR

PEIPING, July 21.—(INS.)—Officials of the Chinese government today openly violated the extra-territorial treaty with the United States by refusing to turn over Dr. Francis Tucker, American physician, charged with killing a Chinese, to the American consul.

Chinese police took Dr. Tucker to Tsinan over protest of the American consul.

Tucker recently shot and killed a Chinese intruder in his home, which had previously been robbed several times. He thought that the intruder was a burglar.

STATE TO TAKE PART IN BOMB QUIZ HERE

Deputy Marshal Here to Aid Pfarr's Inquiries; Seek N. Y. Investigators

Deputy State Fire Marshal E. W. Faber today joined County Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr in an investigation of incendiary fires and bombings in Allegheny County in the last few weeks. Two special arson investigators from New York also have been requested by Pfarr, he said today.

Faber arrived from Harrisburg this morning and was at once sworn in as Pfarr's aid. The two planned to visit the scene of the bombing of the home of Thomas Conley, independent candidate for justice of the peace in McKees Rocks.

The Citizens Committee of McKees Rocks today mailed a request to Maj. Lynn G. Adams, head of the state police, to send troopers to the McKees Rocks district. Conditions are worse, the committee asserts.

Pfarr's decision to ask aid came following his preliminary investigation of an explosion and fire in a building at 825 Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks, early Sunday. This explosion, believed by firemen to have been caused by gas, caused $5,000 damage to the two-story building owned by Louis Lanza.

Other fires under investigation are the bombing of the home of Frank Passone and the explosion of gas and fire in the apartment house of Emmanuel Fronis, McKeesport.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., July 21.—(AP.)—Five Fayette County persons were arrested here yesterday at the instigation of State Fire Marshal Fred McHollister, local fire department officials and city and county authorities, who have been investigating a number of fires of a supposed incendiary origin in the vicinity recently. They were to be given preliminary hearings today.

In custody were Thomas Baxter, 52, proprietor of a restaurant here which was seriously damaged by fire last Thursday; his wife, Bella, 59; Thomas Rose, John Sarne and James Torch, all of Uniontown.

2 MEN, WOMAN HELD FOR ARSON

A man, his wife and their roomer were held for court today on a charge of arson and conspiracy after a hearing before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan.

C. A. Lippert, a deputy fire marshal, testified to finding a tub, a pitcher, a 15-gallon keg, a 20-gallon keg and a bucket, all filled with gasoline, in their home at 400 Talbot avenue, Braddock, after Braddock firemen had extinguished the fire early Saturday.

He said that Braddock firemen gave him a fuse which they had found leading from one gasoline container to another.

Bail for the three, Samuel Lefkowitz, his wife, Kate, and Andy Peplessky, the roomer, will be fixed by District Attorney Andrew H. Park.

None of them, it was revealed at the hearing, was at home when the fire started.

Senator Reed Quits Capital for Rest

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP.)—Senator David A. Reed, left Washington yesterday for a six weeks' vacation. With Mrs. Reed, the senior Pennsylvania senator started for Marquette, Mich., on Lake Superior. They will remain until Labor Day. Reed gave up his usual prolonged vacation in Europe in order to keep in touch with domestic business and political conditions.

King, Queen to Fly Aboard Los Angeles

LAKEHURST, N. J., July 21.—(INS.)—King Prajadhipok and Queen Rambaibarni, of Siam, were to arrive here today to take a brief flight in the Navy dirigible Los Angeles.

The trip, scheduled for 5 p. m., will be above the Atlantic and probably New York City. The Queen will be the first woman to ride in the Los Angeles.

NINE ARRESTED AFTER PARTY, CRASH

Two Men in Hospital, Third Tells of Being Beaten In Versailles Township

Nine men were under arrest today, two of them still in the McKeesport Hospital, as the aftermath of a party at the Sunny Stop Inn, a roadhouse in State road, Versailles Township, last night.

A tenth man, who, the others said, had not been in their party, was found dead in the place this morning. The coroner's report was that he died of acute alcoholism.

Seven of the men were arrested when their autos collided in Long Run road after the party.

BEAT DRY SUSPECT

One of the seven, Edward Quinn, 34, of 2320 Murray avenue, told County Detective James Reddington that he had been beaten before the auto crash took place, when his friends suddenly decided that he was a prohibition agent in disguise.

William Strachan, proprietor of the inn, was arrested on a suspicious person charge after he told Reddington that he had hired a man to haul 40 cases of beer away from the place after he had discovered James Walsh, 40, of 609 Market street, McKeesport, died in one of his rooms. He feared the police investigation which he knew would follow the death, Strachan said.

NEIGHBOR ARRESTED

The man hauling the beer, Strachan said, was Luther Meyers, his next door neighbor. Meyers was arrested by state police in Westmoreland County and turned over to dry agents later today.

The others under arrest are: Steve Vukelec, David Gray, Samuel Pollock, William Andres, Albert Lang and Roy Jackson, all of McKeesport.

BURTON TO TAKE LONG'S POST

NEW YORK, July 21.—(Universal.)—Announcement was made last night by Ray Long that he would retire October 1 as president of the International Magazine Company and editor of Cosmopolitan Magazine.

He will be succeeded in his present work by Harry Payne Burton, formerly editor of McCall's magazine and at present editor of Physical Culture and consulting editor of Liberty.

Long will become chairman of the board of Richard R. Smith, Inc., a book publishing concern which he founded a year and a half ago in partnership with Smith.

PRANK DELAYS FIRE CHIEF

When Fire Chief Paul Muzzio, of the West View Volunteer Fire Department climbed into his automobile to answer an alarm late last night in West View avenue, the machine would not start, although a few hours before it had been working perfectly.

He tugged. He pulled. Even with the help of a crowd of boys, the motor wouldn't spring to life. Then someone discovered the reason . . . the motor had been fouled by a jokester.

Meanwhile members of the department extinguished the blaze, in an unoccupied house, with slight damage.

Decision Awaited On Bail for Factor

CHICAGO, July 21.—(AP.)—The question of whether John Factor, alleged operator of a $5,000,000 stock fraud in England, can be admited to bail will be decided Friday by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, thus bringing to a close the first round of a legal tilt between his attorneys and those for the British crown.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

The Very Philanthropic Mr. Maxwell

OVER IN Brooklyn all the neighbors refer to Mr. Maxwell as a very charitable man. Almost anyone who knows him will tell you that he is most kindly and phinalthropic. This is a most unusual development because, until a short time ago, the same people would have given you a decidedly different impression.

When they spoke of Mr. Maxwell in other days, they called him an old skinflint and a money-hoarder. They said he grasped everything that came his way—and a lot of things he had no business touching. What, then, could have happened to make them change their minds? Let's see:

It was about 25 years ago that Mr. Maxwell came to this country from Germany. He wasn't overburdened with money by any matter of means—but what he lacked in that direction he made up in plain business sense.

Over in the old country Mr. Maxwell had worked in various restaurants. He knew plenty of angles about that business and, strangely enough, he decided to stick to it when he landed in America. He saved and he worked. And when he was through saving and working, he worked and he saved. At the end of several years of tireless labor Mr. Maxwell realized the ambition of a lifetime. He became the owner of his own restaurant.

Mr. Maxwell settled in Brooklyn. After looking over the New York field, he came to the conclusion that he would be foolish to pay most of the money he might make to a landlord. So he picked a site in what was then a sparsely populated section of Brooklyn, a section where rentals were not high and a long lease was very cheap indeed.

As the years went by his wisdom was demonstrated in many ways. His lease, for instance, could have been sold over and over again for many times the price it had cost him. The population was increasing at a terrific clip and property was growing very valuable. But Mr. Maxwell refused to sell.

He was serving the best meal his customers could buy for the money. His place was gaining prominence — and prominence meant more money in the till. Little things he did, however, annoyed his neighbors. As he grew, for example, he gave better service to the outsiders who visited his place. He refused to trust anyone at any time. He was unwilling to serve the patrolman on the beat with so much as a cup of coffee. And so on and so forth.

But did Mr. Maxwell mind what the neighbors said? Not by several million miles. He had no competition—and if they didn't want to eat at home, his was the spot they would have to visit. So, with each passing day, he grew just a little more blustery.

"If you don't like it," he told more than one customer, "you are invited to go somewhere else. I'm giving you the very best food in Brooklyn. You have no reason to complain." . . .

The inevitable happened. A new restaurant opened just across the street. The prices were lower than Mr. Maxwell's—and the food was very fair. Our hero laughed at the spot for some months, but in his heart he knew that the new place was putting a nice hole in his profits.

Then came another blow. Still another restaurant opened only two doors from him. This third eating-house had prices that were still lower. And in the face of this extreme competition Mr. Maxwell's business fell away at an alarming rate.

No longer did Mr. Maxwell march about and bluster at his customers. Now he smiled at everyone who entered his place and asked them about the service and the food. He couldn't do enough for his patrons. And yet the business continued to fall away.

Then, to cap the climax, old man depression came driving along at a mile-a-minute clip. Not only the Maxwell spot but his two competitors were hit squarely below the belt. The three of them were hardly able to stagger along. If they were able to break even on a week they thought they were doing a million-dollar business.

Suddenly, one of the competitors had a brilliant idea. Into his window went a huge sign.

"All you can eat," it read, "for only 70 cents!"

That sounded good to his customers, and he began to do most of the business in the neighborhood. Two days later the second competitor had a sign in his window:

"All the best food you can eat," it read, "for 65 cents!"

Mr. Maxwell sat in his empty restaurant and looked on glumly as the two places went into a price war. When one spot cut to 60 cents for all the food a customer could eat, the other went to 55. Every two or three days found one of them cutting 5 cents from the price. And all this, mind you, was built around the idea that each patron could eat as much as he or she wished.

Our friend refused to enter the price war. He was losing money. But he, at least, had put aside enough funds through the years to permit him to carry on. His competitors, he knew, were not so fortunate.

"How can they go on?" he argued to one of his few friends. "They are both selling all the food you can eat for as low as 40 cents. I know they are cutting each other's throat. I know they are losing money on each meal. They must. And if they get customers who are hungry enough, they'll go broke in a week."

Mr. Maxwell repeated the last words over and over again. It was evident that he liked the sound of them. And as he muttered them to himself he grew suddenly thoughtful. Very thoughtful. He, too, was struggling with an idea.

The following morning the neighborhood had a sudden shock. Crowds of men stood in front of Mr. Maxwell's restaurant. In the window was a huge sign.

"As always," it read, "we go our competitors one better. Because of the depression, all unemployed men will be fed free of charge!"

There wasn't any catch in Mr. Maxwell's sign: just a small stipulation. Instead of Mr. Maxwell feeding them, each man was given 40 cents to visit either one of the two other restaurants. And each man was advised to put away as much food as possible.

You can imagine the result. The word spread—and before two hours had passed Mr. Maxwell was besieged by the hungriest-looking collection of mortals you have ever seen in all your days. Each man was given 40 cents and his instructions. And with none of them knowing where his next meal was coming from, you may rest assured they carried out those instructions to the letter.

In three days, at a cost to him of some $500, both of Mr. Maxwell's competitors were gone. He is now doing the thriving business he once was.

And the neighbors have a new opinion of him, too. Because he fed the unemployed for three days, they refer to him as "that very philanthropic Mr. Maxwell." . . .

GIRL, TWO MEN HELD IN FRAUD

A girl was held here and two men were arrested in Philadelphia last night, suspected of fraudulent use of a charge account and the theft of an automobile.

Margaret Kane, 27, was arrested at her home, 728 Copeland street, where police said they found clothing purchased from downtown stores with charge account tokens stolen from Mrs. Hanna Curl, 801 South Millvale avenue, with whom one of the men roomed.

William Sherman, of 801 South Millvale avenue, and H. A. Reimer, of 5242 Baum boulevard, were arrested in Philadelphia, police said, while driving a car declared stolen from the Kamin Motor Company, Forbes street and Shady avenue.

Reimer, police said, is accused of using the charge accounts to obtain clothing for Miss Kane and himself.

BEER RUNNER SUSPECT HELD

R. Schwartz, 37, of 906 Locust street, arrested by state police while driving an alleged beer-laden truck through New Alexandria, Pa., was in the custody of prohibition agents today. Five half-barrels of beer were found in the truck, it was said, which, with the prisoner, was turned over to the agents.

A 100-gallon still was reported confiscated at 1016 Gilmore way. There were no arrests.

Raymond Matzel, 26, of 4807 Yew street, was arrested, agents reported, following the seizure of 2,280 pints of home brew in his home.

Curtis Widow Left Estate of $40,000

Chicago Votes Tag Day For Alfonso

CHICAGO, July 21.—(AP.)—The Chicago City Council went on a tag day spree last night, and before it had finished its members found that they had passed ordinances for tag days for the following:

The Brewers' and Bartenders' Union.

Tom, Dick and Harry, unemployed.

Alfonso, ex-king of Spain.

The Chicago American League baseball team, which is in last place in the club standing.

All of the ordinances were subsequently revoked after it developed that a group of aldermen had plotted their introduction to demonstrate their opposition to what they described as an abuse of the tag day privilege.

JOCKEY BEATEN IN KIDNAP PLOT

NEW YORK, July 21.—(INS.)—"Buddy" Ensor, of Baltimore, Md., well known as a jockey, was in a serious condition in Fordham Hospital today following a beating administered by gangsters who, according to Ensor, were planning to kidnap Eddie Cantor and George Jessel, actors, and Nils T. Granlund.

Ensor spent most of last evening searching for the trio, according to waiters in various restaurants and night clubs. He was found severely beaten later in a clump of weeds near Pelham parkway and City Island road.

Since Ensor was found he has not been able to tell a coherent story. Hospital authorities said he was suffering from a fractured skull.

Cantor and Jessel have both received threats before from gangsters.

MERCHANT TAX DATA SCANNED

Two special investigators attached to the County Board of Mercantile Appraisers have been checking on volume of business reported by Allegheny County merchants in 1930 and will report to the board tomorrow.

One investigator has been working since April 20 and the other was sent to Pittsburgh two weeks ago by state officials, who have been conducting a campaign to determine the accuracy of returns. Cases which have arroused the suspicions of assessors are receiving attention. A number of errors in classification are being rectified.

M. Swartz, chairman of the Board of Mercantile Appraisers, said that no information regarding the investigation will be issued unless authorized by the State Department of Revenue.

Why Buy Ordinary Butter, Wrapped the Ordinary Way, When You Can Buy DONAHOE'S 93 Score Butter Wrapped With Dry Ice?

What a difference in taste and flavor over ordinary butter these hot summer days!

No matter how good butter may be when you buy it—the softening in the heat on the way home and the rehardening in your refrigerator most assuredly takes away the "bloom" of any butter—it cannot have all its pristine flavor, aroma and the exquisite bouquet that make the poet call it "imprisoned fairy gold from nature's richest storehouse."

No Extra Charge for Dry Ice Wrapping that will keep butter firm for two hours

Small extra charge if you desire sufficient Dry Ice to keep butter hard chilled for more than two hours.

RICKENBACKER VISITS CITY

Eddie Rickenbacker, noted flier and automobile speed king, spent several hours in Pittsburgh last night when the plane he boarded at Indianapolis en route to New York could not proceed because of weather conditions. He arrived at Bettis Field by a Transcontinental and Western Air plane, and continued to New York shortly afterward by train from Pennsylvania Station.

He declared that no mission had called him to Pittsburgh and that he was traveling to his home in New York from Indianapolis.

CHICAGO, July 21.—(INS.)—Twenty policemen found using stolen city motor license tags on their private automobiles today faced suspension and possible dismissal.

Policeman Saves $10 in $7,000 Bank Holdup

CHICAGO, July 21.—(INS.)—In line with the high city officials shouting for economy, Policeman James Peterson is very saving.

When four badits held up the West Side Atlas National Bank yesterday, a girl employe picked up $10 dropped by the fleeing robbers and hand it to the policeman so he could hire a taxi to chase them. Peterson frugally took a passing car and later returned the $10 bill, after a fruitless half-mile chase.

Customers fought for $400 dropped by the burglars and the $10 that Peterson brought back was all the bank recovered. Total loot in the noonday holdup with 50 people in the building was $7,000.

Heart Attack Kills Louisville Banker

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 21.—(AP.)—Embry L. Swearingen, 68, retired banker of Louisville, died of a heart attack today at his summer home at Cape May, N. J.

APPEAL $82,600 BRIDGE AWARD

A claim of $250,000 damages against the City of Pittsburgh in connection with the reconstruction of the Tenth Street Bridge is involved in an appeal by the Oliver Iron and Steel Company from an award by the board of viewers filed in Common Pleas Court. The viewers awarded the company $82,600 damages.

The claim was based on the loss of property taken in street widening for the south approach to the bridge, damage to other property by change in the street grades, damage to the company's office building by shutting off light and air, requirements for changes in location of equipment and the loss of river frontage.

Sugar Man's Widow Leaves $1,000,000

LONG BEACH, Cal., July 21.—(AP.)—An estate of more than $1,000,000 is distributed in New York City, California and Hawaii by the will of Margaret Brewer Fowler, on file today for probate. Mrs. Fowler, who died at Chino, Cal., July 13, was the widow of Eldredge M. Fowler, Hawaiian sugar plantation owner.

The major portion of the estate is bequeathed to a step-daughter, Mrs. Kate Fowler Merle-Smith, of New York. A collection of rare paintings was given the step-daughter's husband, Van Santvoord Merle-Smith.

Lumber King Cuts 2 Children in Will

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—(INS.)—Two of his three children were cut off in the will of Charles F. A. Talbot, lumber king, who died July 14, it was discovered when his will was filed for probate.

The $2,000,000 estate is left in trust for the benefit of the widow, Mrs. Julia G. Talbot, and Mrs. Elinor T. Cooke, wife of Capt. Henry Cooke, commandant of Annapolis Naval Academy. Mrs. Cooke will receive the entire estate on Mrs. Talbot's death.

California to Vote On Race Track Bets

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—(INS.)—Initiative petitions for the purpose of submitting the question of legalizing betting on horse races and creating a California racing board to govern the sport, were being prepared for circulation throughout the state, it was learned today.

The proposed law would legalize the certificate method of betting such as now used in New Orleans and some Canadian provinces.

Head of Crusaders Sued for Divorce

RENO, Nev., July 21.—(AP.)—Ruth Ogden Sabin has filed suit for divorce from Charles H. Sabin, Jr., head of the Crusaders, anti-prohibition organization, and son of the chairman of the board of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York. She charged desertion.

Mexican Chamber Urges Stable Silver

OPPOSE LANG'S STREET PLAN

Grading, paving and curbing of Wilkesboro avenue, where Public Works Director Edward G. Lang has made his home for several years, has met opposition in a petition presented to Council.

Petitioners declare that when they purchased their property there was to be a 50-foot street, consisting of a 30-foot roadway and two 10-foot sidewalks. They say the Public Works Department plan calls for only a 22-foot roadway, not in the center of the street.

Properties would not be improved under the plan, the complainants said.

Lang, whose job is to improve the city's streets, has lived on the unimproved thoroughfare for 37 years, he said yesterday, adding:

"I've been so busy trying to repair other streets in the city that I haven't had much chance to repair the one on which I live."

Council will grant a public hearing on the complaint, it is believed.

7 Slain, 5 Wounded In Raid on Gang

KANSAS CITY, July 21.—(INS.)—John Calo, 23, Kansas City gangster, was dead today and five others, three of them officers, are suffering from wounds and other injuries as a result of a battle staged last night when 10 federal prohibition agents and six patrolmen staged a raid on a gang hide-out and liquor headquarters here.

Drown Wins Praise For Preventing Drowning

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(AP.)—George Henry Drown was officially commended yesterday by Secretary Adams, of the Navy, for helping to save a bather from drowning. Drown, a resident of San Diego, Cal., was cited for saving a woman off the coast at Coronado. Others commended were Lieut. John A. Edwards, Edgefield, S. C., and Albert J. Davis, aviation machinist's mate, and Woodie W. Smith, fireman. Davis lives at San Diego, Cal., and Smith in the Bronx, New York City.

3 REARRESTED IN TAXI PLOT

Three men discharged in Central Police Court today on a complaint by one taxicab driver, were rearrested on warrants sworn out by another driver.

They are Stephen Rapack, 36, of 204 East North avenue; George Sieding, 27, of 140 South Twentieth street, and Joseph Kosurovich, 28, of 1011 Freyburg street. They denied charges of A. G. Keefer, taxi driver, that they had conspired with him to take his cab at Eighteenth street and Monastery avenue early today after pretense of a fight between him and the three. They testified Keefer had made the proposition himself.

Magistrate Leo Rothenberg discharged the three. They were turned over to Justice of the Peace J. C. Parkhill, of Sharpsburg, on charges of aggravated assault and battery preferred by C. R. Judd, also a taxi driver.

PAJAMA REVUE AT PICNIC

Business cares will be forgotten in the East North Side tomorrow while the Business Men's Association of that section is holding its seventeenth annual picnic at West View Park. Weather permitting, a record-breaking attendance of 20,000 is looked for, and plenty of thrills have been arranged for the entertainment of the enormously big throng.

Mr. Zak

The beach pajama revue will be a novelty and it is reported that scores of the pretty girls not only of the East North Side, but throughout all Pittsburgh, have already selected unique creations for the parade. Prizes will be offered for the prettiest and most practicable.

There is to be a public wedding in which the bride is a mighty handsome girl. Frank J. Zak is chairman of the picnic committee.

Graham's Estate Willed to Widow

PHILADELPHIA, July 21.—(AP.)—Mrs. Pauline M. Graham will receive the income of the estate left by her husband, Congressman George S. Graham. Graham's will, probated today, leaves an estate listed at $200,000 and upward.

Upon Mrs. Graham's death, the income is to be equally divided among three daughters. Upon their death the principal is to be distributed equally among the children of the daughters.

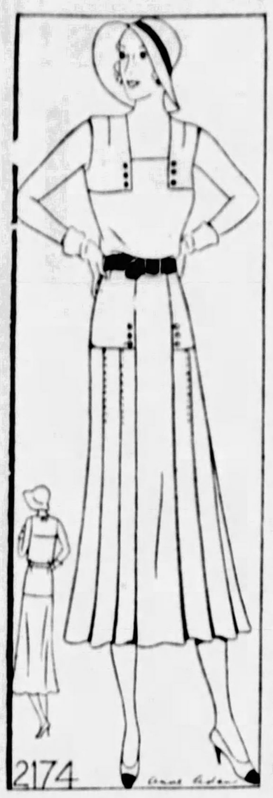
Repeating Clever Details
Pattern 2174
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern



By ANNE ADAMS

The smartest feature of a cleverly designed frock is made doubly smart by repetition. The shoulder yoke that suggests a tiny bolero is cut square in the front and trimmed with buttons, and is straight in the back. On the skirt the same lines are repeated. This frock is typical of the frocks being worn at the smart resorts as an all-day frock in crisp linen, cotton or shantung, or in flat crepe. It is charming, too, accompanied by a jacket to form an ensemble.

Obtainable only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 14 requires 3⅞ yards of 36-inch material. Yardage for every size, and simple, exact instructions are given. No dressmaking experience is necessary to make this model with our pattern.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

THE PATTERN CATALOG features an excellent assortment of afternoon, sports and house dresses, lingerie, pajamas and kiddies' clothes, also delightful accessory patterns. PRICE OF CATALOG, FIFTEEN CENTS. CATALOG WITH PATTERN, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS. Address all mail and orders to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

1.—Enclose 15 cents in coins.
2.—Write clearly NUMBERS of patterns and SIZE wanted.
3.—Write or print your NAME and ADDRESS plainly.
4.—If you want SUN-TELEGRAPH Style Book send 10c extra.
5.—Address your request to

TRY BROUGHTON PAIR SEPT. 14

TROY, N. Y., July 21.—(AP.)—District Attorney Frederick K. Filley, of Rensselaer County, today said that William Schemnitzer and Stanley Chero, of Broughton, Pa., would be tried September 14, for the killing of Serg. John E. Frey of the New York state police.

Both youths have been indicted for murder in the first degree and, if convicted, must be sentenced to death in the electric chair.

Frey was shot and killed March 18 on the Troy-Rensselaer road while he and State Trooper E. C. Updyke were taking Schemnitzer and Chero to the county jail as suspects in a robbery.

We Now Present

By Darrell V. Martin
Radio Editor

COL. THEOLORE ROOSEVELT'S heroic charge at San Juan Hill is to be dramatized on WCAE at 9 o'clock tonight . . . The Virtuosos, on WCAE at 8:30, introduce the Jubilee Singers in a group of quaint spirituals . . . Mayor James J. Walker, Ed Wynn, Henry Burbig and other celebrities are to be featured on WJAS at 10:15 as part of the inaugural program from Columbia's television station W2XAB in New York . . . Ted Husing is to be guiding light for those who make their way about the television studio for the first time . . . as you know, there is no illumination in the studio except that created by the photo electric cells in the televisor . . . of course only the audible part will be relayed over the network . . . perhaps 10,000 amateurs in the East will see Ed Wynn in character . . . We know you will like Grace Mitchell on KDKA at 6:30.

Vote Early and Often

We're interested in the campaign for president being conducted by the "Gloom Chasers" on a motorman's platform. Here are some of the larger planks:

A personal moratorium lasting 50 years; seven days' vacation with pay each week for radio announcers; rubber tires for elevated trains; beat Will Rogers!

* * *

Wonder what has happened to Raymond Knight's campaign? There must be something cuckoo about a fellow who will forget that he's running for president.

* * *

Question a Day:

What is Cab Calloway's right name and do you think he has a hotter band than Duke Ellington?—"Sadie Blake," North Side.

Answer—Hot cha! Cab's first name is Cabell and the rest is OK. We think it would be worth three times the price of admission to hear Cab play "The Tiger Rag" and Duke "Black and Tan Fantasy" in competition. Ed Harvey whispered last night that they were wearing asbestos suits in the KDKA studios when Cab played "Minnie the Moocher"—by special permission of the fire underwriters.

* * *

The youngest of Lou Abel's child radio actors has the most euphonic name in radio—"Carrie Cheer." Next comes Little Jack Little.

Studio Lights

Vaughn de Leath has been engaged to take Jessica Dragonette's place when radio's charming prima donna goes vacationing the first of August . . . Jessica is to be away 3 weeks . . .

Earle Sande, famous jockey, re-enacts early days on the track in a dramatization of his career over WJZ at 8:30 tonight.

We've heard of the carpenter going to work without his tools, but how would you like to have been in Ted Husing's place recently when he arrived in Boston to cover the tennis tournament, sans microphone . . . a special one was shipped to him by airplane . . .

Twenty-five band leaders are to take part in the celebration for Edwin Franko Goldman on KDKA tomorrow night at 9:30.

Ben Bernie has picked up Ruth Etting's Ziegfeld Follies' hit, "Shine On Harvest Moon," for a specialty on WJAS at 10 tonight.

Francis Owen was out golfing . . . just as he gained his stance and prepared a hefty swing, he let down the driver gently and paused a moment . . . others in the foursome wondered what it was all about . . . an ant had perched himself on top of the ball . . . when the ant departed, Francis socked that ball for 215 yards.

The cleverest of all continuities we have heard on Pittsburgh stations in a long while was Claude Morris' "Blue Monday" affair yesterday . . . it was impromptu of necessity when artists scheduled for 6 o'clock did not arrive . . . Claude sat down at his trusty typewriter and produced an ingenius sketch, which had for its theme a phonograph record playing "I Ain't Got Nobody."

Ted Pearson, the boy you've heard often on NBC programs originating in Chicago, has joined the WTAM staff . . . Ted had to leave Chicago after a group of station visitors were so embarrassed to find him taking a sun bath au naturel on the roof of Merchandise Mart.

There's Cass Ward Whitney's favorite story about the singer who went to Salt Lake City to make his debut . . . he sent one of his invitations to "Brigham Young and Family" and the night of the concert there wasn't even room for the singer's brother to get in.

Seth Parker Sez:

I always calculated a dog would do more to make a president of the United States out of a boy than most anything else.

The Loud Speaker By Louis Reid

NEW YORK, July 21.—Among all who assail the eardrums, crooning tenors are said to receive the most fan mail. It pours into them in a tidal wave all day long. And do they welcome it? It's their mutton.

The best letters are saved, stored away as souvenirs, to be brought out and cackled over when the c. t. are old and doddering . . . We remember Leo Ditrichstein as a sensational Lothario in a play, increasing his heart action by mulling over old love letters . . . there might be an idea for a play in a crooning radio tenor with the first act showing him at the height of his popularity and the finish disclosing him decrepit and deserted, surrounded by his fan letters.

Wonder if Hoover's talkative cabinet members get any fan mail, or those Senators and Representatives who march so relentlessly to the microphones?. . . Probably not. Not strictly fan letters, but, of course, any number of letters asking for favors . . . Much of the variety of the American scene escapes the listener, but he can cup an ear ever to praise and palaver. They're the standbys of the microphone. Rarely is there a hostile bark on the air waves . . . Or even expert bubble-puncturing . . . Even Will Rogers pulls his punches when he faces the loudspeakers . . . Wonder how many times "Kiss Me Again" has been aired since the dawn of broadcasting. I'd like to have a dollar for every time.

Jerome Kern's "Ol' Man River" is now listed as a Negro spiritual. It is his most enduring melody, the only piece by a Broadway music show tunesmith since Victor Herbert that promises to achieve immortality . . . . Of all violin solos Kreisler's "The Old Refrain" is heard most often on the loudspeakers . . . . Wonder if we'll ever hear it from Kreisler . . . .

And now it's Seth Parker who has gone Hollywood . . . . Seth will be a relief from the gangster films . . . . Trace the origin of many jazz numbers and you will find the notes of "Annie Laurie" . . . . A hotel to be really modern now must be wired for radio. If there are not receivers in the bedrooms there is at least a broadcasting band in the grill or roof garden . . . . Even the snootiest hotels are now regularly on the microphone menus. They need the publicity.

Find No Convict Labor in Russia

MOSCOW, July 21.—(AP.)—British investigators of the Russian lumber industry said yesterday they had failed to find evidence of the use of forced labor.

Returning to Moscow from a three weeks tour of northern Russia for the British lumber trade, E. P. Tetsall, chairman of the group, said they had found nothing in the nature of convict labor.

Youth, 16, Rescues Woman in Pool

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 21.—Diving into the water as she was sinking for the third time, Louis Harkins, 16, of Mt. Pleasant, saved an unidentified woman from drowning in the waters of Freeman's Falls near Mt. Pleasant. Witnesses said the woman dove into 11 feet of water although she had previously told them she could not swim.

YOU NEVER KNEW BRAN COULD BE SO DELICIOUS

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is a delightful surprise. It is as good to eat as it is good for you.

This appetizing ready-to-eat cereal protects and relieves you from constipation—and from the headaches, the dizziness, the lack of "pep" that go with it.

Start the whole family on this health-habit tomorrow. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN, eaten daily, will prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In severe cases, eat ALL-BRAN with each meal.

Delicious with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron, which brings color to cheeks and lips. At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

NEW AIR MAIL PLANE DELAYED

The plane Miss Kansas City, inaugurating 24-hour mail and express service between Newark and Los Angeles, was held at Bettis Airport for nearly two hours early today owing to unfavorable weather reports. The ship, with Pittsburgh mail, took off at 4:35 a. m. for Columbus, its next stop.

It was due to reach Kansas City around noon. There its cargo will be transferred to the regular day mail plane scheduled to arrive in Los Angeles late tonight. The scheduled flying time for the 2,638 miles is 22 hours and 8 minutes.

Departure of the plane from Newark was delayed nearly 30 minutes because of the inaugural ceremonies witnessed by Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, and officials of the Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc. The plane, an all-metal low winged monoplane was christened by Mrs. Eddie V. Rickenbacker, wife of the war pilot.

Record Heat Fails To Abate Divorces

RENO, Nev., July 21.—(INS.)—Mass production in Reno divorces continued unabated in spite of record heat and 28 cases were on the calendar today as an overflow from Monday when a new high mark of 118 was established.

Baby Daughter Born To Wife of 'F. P. A.'

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—A daughter was born today to Mrs. Franklin Pierce Adams, wife of "F. P. A." the New York Herald-Tribune columnist.

OBITUARY

Edward Hall Sanborn.

Funeral services for Edward Hall Sanborn, 69, who died Saturday in Jefferson Hospital, Philadelphia, were to be held today at his home, Valley View Farm, Chalfont, Bucks County. He was secretary and treasurer of the Berwind-White Coal Company and the Havana Coal Company. He was a member and past director of the Franklin Institute and a member of the Art Club and the White Marsh Country Club. He leaves three sons, Robert P. Sanborn, of Essex Falls, N. J.; John B. Sanborn, of Hartford, Conn., and Edward H. J. Sanborn, of Baederwood, Pa., and a daughter, Mrs. Charles G. Thornburgh, of Rosslyn Farms.

Wheat Slump Laid To Over-Production

WASHINGTON, July 21.—(Universal)—The main trouble with wheat prices is that the world has been producing more wheat than it has been consuming for several years, James C. Stone, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, declared last night in a nation-wide radio address over the Columbia chain.

Stone said there are many signs pointing to better wheat prices and better times generally.

Hotel Men Advised Laws Need Revision

BOSTON, July 21.—(AP.)—The American Hotel Association was told by its counsel, Frank A. K. Boland, at the opening session of its annual convention today that co-operative efforts were needed to obtain revision of antiquated hotel laws, many of which, he pointed out, were predicated on the assumption the business was regulated by liquor laws.

HELD IN ROW AT CHESWICK

Cheswick police last night arrested Robert W. Galbrath, 23, of 1401 Bell avenue, North Braddock, charged with being a suspicious person, following an alleged argument with Joe Gensaner, of Cheswick, an automobile salesman for the A. W. Kennedy Motor Company, of Cheswick, in which Galbrath was said by police to have drawn a gun.

Galbrath, accompanied by Miss Mary Huchison, 21, of Corey avenue, North Braddock, had bought a car at the Kennedy agency. The couple returned to the agency last night, and Galbrath engaged in a heated conversation with Gensaner when, it is said, he pulled an automatic pistol from his pocket. Patrolman Polscak, of the Cheswick police department, took the pistol from Galbrath and lodged him in the Cheswick jail.

Cannibals Kill Belgium Official

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, July 21.—(AP.)—Dispatches to the newspaper Dis Burger by way of Johannesburg and Elizabethville today said a cannibal tribe near Leopoldville had killed and eaten M. Mallot, the Belgian district commissioner of Leopoldville.

3 Indians to Die For Part in Revolt

THARAWADDY, Burma, July 21.—(AP.)—A special tribunal, trying the second group of persons accused in connection with the Tharawaddy rebellion of several months ago, today condemned three to death, 45 to deportation and acquitted 27.

Draws First Pay In 18 Months, Loses It

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 21.—A worker at the Standard Tin Plate Company mill at Canonsburg got his first pay in 18 months but it did him no good. He boarded a bus at the mill entrance, went home, and then found his two new $20 bills were gone—lost on the way home.

Mexico Puts Ban On Alien Workers

NOGALES, Ariz., July 21.—(AP.)—Dispatches received here by the Herald from Mexico City said many foreign workmen will be denied entrance to Mexico under a new labor code to be placed in effect September 14.

Laborers and immigrant workers not having 10,000 pesos (approximately $4,000) to invest in some industry are placed in the class to be denied entrance.

12 NEW NURSES FOR MAYVIEW

Monongahela's loss will be Pittsburgh's gain when 12 student nurses at the General Hospital there are transferred to the City Hospital at Mayview, Mrs. Enoch Rauh, public welfare director, told Council yesterday.

The Monongahela hospital training school will close August 1, Mrs. Rauh said. The student nurses have asked permission to transfer to the Mayview hospital to continue their training. Mrs. Rauh said:

"We have accommodations for the young women. They ask nothing for their services but instruction and maintenance.

Student records of the nurses have been approved by the directress of the Mayview training school.

New Castle Voters Bemuddled by Aspirants

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 21.—So many petitions have been taken out by candidates for various offices to be voted on at the September primaries, that voters asked to sign them are finding it difficult to keep track of the candidates whose petitions they have signed. The number of candidates for various offices this year is the largest in the history of the county.

Viewers to Appraise U. S. Hospital Site

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., July 21.—(AP.)—Five commissioners will make an appraisal today of property condemned in Wayne County, near here, for the U. S. Veterans' Hospital, authorized by the last Congress. The property is that of the Wilson heirs and was formally condemned in Federal Court yesterday.

CLEAN LICENSE PLATES URGED

A campaign to clean the rear license plates on automobiles as a means of aiding police in law enforcement was begun today by the Pittsburgh Motor Club among employes of 1,000 gasoline stations in Western Pennsylvania.

Attendants often wipe windshields for patrons and have been asked also to apply a rag to the license plates. C. H. Roth, secretary of the Motor Club, declared the campaign will make it easier to detect stolen cars and arrest hit-and-run drivers.

Heavy Rains Flood Durango, Mexico

DURANGO, Mexico, July 21.—(AP.)—Torrential rains flooded the southern section of the city last night, causing several buildings to collapse. One person was killed.

U. S. PLANES AID IN NICARAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, July 21.—(AP.)—United States Marine Corps airplane patrols today reinforced National Guard troops delegated to put down insurgent uprisings which have occurred in several places in Nicaragua during the last few days, resulting in eight deaths.

A large party armed with pistols and machetes entered the town of Rama on the Escondido River Sunday and, after sharp fighting, was driven back by National Guardsmen. Three of the invaders and one guardsman were killed.

About the same time 250 men under Pedro Altamirano, Sandinista chieftain, sacked the small mining town of Santo Domingo in Chontales department, according to official reports. Police killed one of the insurgents.

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

(Copyright, 1931, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

This Town of Ours

Joan Bennett and Carman Pantages massacred each other over J. Considine, Jr., at his Malibu Beach shack, smashing to smithereens costly gifts, jewels and other Trophies of Love . . . The divorcing Loretta Young has shelved all suitors for Ricardo Cortez. . . . The reports that Connie Bennett and the Marquis de la Falaise will be sealed shortly in Yurrop can't be true, considering his decree from the glorious Swanson won't be final until fall . . . Although he announced often that he was broke, the late D. Belasco left over $1,500,000 . . . The B. Basfords, 3ds (Pearl Regay) will tell it to a judge.

Aimee MacPherson is plotting a Page One sensation . . . How come "Miss Broadway" hasn't rec'd her $1,000 prize yet? . . . Because whose girl didn't win? . . . Why did Pathe News take back its camera from Post and Gaity? . . . The Dick Keenes (Ethel Bryant) got their final decree a wk ago . . . Harriet Colby, of the Library Guild, is back in circulation . . . Miss Joyce sails on the 26th . . . Those five prop elephants in the "Follies" rise through trap doors . . . Robert Stellar, of Mohawk Press, and Ella Landre, of Kansas City, were sealed last wk . . . The "Nate" Raymonds (Maymie Love) were secretly divided in the Bronx two months ago—her new heart being Prince Sileim Hileim, of Turkey, with whom she is sailing this wk for The Old Country.

Earl Carroll's left-hand man, Bernard Lohmuller, and a very young siren in "Vanities" will be riveted any day now . . . May Christie's wardrobe was burgled at a fashionable Long Beach club . . . The new cycle in moom pictures will deal with nurses and hospital patients . . . Marjorie Beebe, ex-Mack Sennett lass, was in a cab crash—taking 7 stitches in her pretty lips to remember it by . . . The Frederick D. Frieds' (of Wall street) heir is almost here . . . Rita White's debut at the Para was deferred because there was a cough in that carload . . . "Newly Rich," the flicker, is titled "Forbidden Adventure" on the road . . . Rudy Vallee will ape what columnist in "Scandals?" . . . "Ballyhoo," the new mag, which boasted "No Advertising," is soliciting insertions for the October issue. Gotta eat!

Mrs. Josh Cosden, who dropped a fortune backing "The New Yorkers," will "angel" Courtney Burr and Norman Bel Geddes next season . . . E. Ray Goetz has dropped the "Folies Bergere" for a Cole Porter musical . . . Lyda Roberti's kid sister, in Hollywood, and L. Snyder, a Newark att'y, will Lohengrin it . . . A. Gordoni, the broker, and Marcella Johnson, who has gone blonde, are Svitt and Haht! . . . Probably no good-lookers in E. Carroll's new revusical—he keeps taking out Ziegfeldolls . . . Dorothy Burgess' new honey is Jacques du Bujac, ex-Frances Williams' boy chump . . . Audrey Henderson and Edward Sutherland, the director, are youguessedit! . . . Grant Withers saved Marjorie White's life when she fell off a yot . . . Pinchot will be happy if he can unseat Hoover, no matter the price.

Recommended to diversion seekers: Fred Astaire's first vocal platter: "New Sun In The Sky" (Band Wagon) . . . "Murder By The Clock" at the Paramount . . . "A Holy Terror" at the Roxy. . . . The Castillian Royal on Pelham Pk'way, a la "Hot Feet" . . . Red Nichols' disk of "Just A Crazy Song," plenty good . . . L. Holtz at the Palace . . . "That's a Bowl o' Cherries," a Lew Brown clown chune in the forthcoming "Scandals" . . . "Was I Drunk, Was He Handsome (and did my mother gimme hell?)" in the "Follies" . . . Any of the "3rd Little Show-Offs" . . . Guy (Nykr) Fawkes on the Starr Faithful Case . . . The Club Napoleon cuisine, and the new parlor game "Blankety-Blank," for ladies who no longer blush.

Katharine Brush, one of the better-looking novelists, has already made $80,000 on her new novel, "Red Headed Woman," due in the fall . . . Tip to ship news lads: Ask Elizabeth Hawes, the American couturiere (dressmaker to you!), about the "hot" news when she arrives on the Aquitania . . . Theatrical folks in London are bitter over George Jean Nathan's "impudence" . . . They keep insisting that Ona Munson and Lubitsch Have Gone and Done It, but don't quote me . . . Grace Perkins and J. Isreals, 2d, novelists, both in ailing rooms, are convalescing . . . One of the sports writers has the face of his darling painted on his suspenders . . . The Great Neck and Manhasset Bettah Clahss have gone "native," but only around 4 or 5 a. m. . . . "He's so British he drops the three aitches in hollyhochs!"

Iris ("Follies") Adrian is giving a Prince of Egypt a headache. . . . Coolidge goes fishing in a straw hat! . . . Ruth Waterbury will edit "Movie Mirror" . . . Erich Von Stroheim paid all the fines over that Kenneth Harlan rumpus at Malibu, but the rags overlooked his generosity . . . Why in the world do people sing loud in this weather? If they'd only name the key! . . . The New York Repository, the paper printed by the Telly to hold the World's AP franchise, has printed the same editorial for a month . . . The Maury Orrs have reconciled . . . All the coin made on the picture, "2 Hearts in ¾ Time," is being lost on the Baltimore and Philly runs . . . It's a boy at the M. Simmons . . . Vera Milton, of the "Follies" ensemble, told Helen Morgan: "The trouble with this show is that you and I haven't enough to do!"

A concrete example of how slow journalists are in Paris—the suicide of that Princess happened on a Chewsday, and was reported on a Friday . . . Mr. Dreiser will lose his "American Tragedy" quarrel . . . Now that Ziegfeld is in the money again, he will be bombarded with several lawsuits for cash . . . The first time Seabury, the investigator, handed out cigars to reporters was when that witness was killed by a subway train . . . Macy's contributed the costumes to "Shoot the Works," in which Heywood Broun will not only dance—but sing! . . . Anybody want my tickets? . . . Hoover Moratorium Plan is being credited to Owen D. Young by the whisperers . . . That Helen Morgan "suicide" rumor, which bothered every rag at 3 a. m., was started by one of her pals, who is studying to be an imbecile.

Because June MacCloy banged her genman fren's nose (John Whiting) it is bandaged plenty . . . The best Atlantic City hotels now offer three days' bed and board for $49.50 to combat the $50 cruises of the liners . . . M. Lachmann is now writing for Fox in H'wood . . . Detroit is just beginning to hear that one about times being so tough men are running around with their own wives! . . . And they stifle yawns! . . . The Patrick ("American Tragedy") Kearneys have phffft! . . . The beautiful friendship of Alice Hughes, of the Evetelly, and Leonard Hall, the movie oracle, is slowly rotting into love.

Will Rogers and Harry Carey Seen as Peers Among Wild West Guild

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.

HOLLYWOOD, July 21.

Riders of the range are due for a shock. Silver Harr, an old-timer, says the best cowboys in the world live in Hollywood.

Mr. Harr, who represents the 33 Club, an organization of film riders, says he can muster 100 "top hands."

Harry Carey

"Funching cows is hard, lonesome work and the pay isn't high," he explains. "When a rider gets to be good he comes to Hollywood. Here he takes more chances, but he gets more money for it."

The return of the Western has brought prosperity back to these Hollywood cowboys. One by one they are coming back from the Wild West shows, the ranges, or from whatever occupation they managed to find when the talkies ruined their livelihood. In those days, Harry, ironically enough, was driven to selling insurance for automobiles.

Except for the fortunate few who have become proprietors of riding academies, the Hollywood cowboy doesn't own his own horse. It would be too difficult to get the animal to location. But he thinks nothing but riding and he hangs out with his own clain certain rendezvous.

He also expresses frank opinions of the western stars of the screen. According to Harr, Will Rogers and Harry Carey are the cowboys' idols. And they have just as strong dislike for certain ex-range riders who now want to me mistered. As for the synthetic western star picked by the studio for his good looks, if he isn't regular they lay for him in the chase scenes and dump him so expertly the director never can be sure.

Ken Maynard is the best rider among the cinema western heroes, says Harr. Among the non-professionals he lists George O'Brien as first. And he thinks Tom Keene, given more experience, will be a top-notch boy.

Is it a laugh, perhaps, that these film riders hold their club meetings in the Hollywood Conservatory of Music?

LATEST GOSSIP

Though it may be settled by the time this is printed, Barbara Stanwyck has walked out on Columbia. She threatens to retire. Close friends of the actress say Frank Fay wants her to go to Europe and that the couple are sitting pretty as far as money is concerned, having taken $250,000 out of Hollywood . . . Irene Jones, daughter of F. Richard Jones, Mabel Normand's old director, is starting a gown show August 1 . . . Mrs. Harry Leon Wilson plans to sponsor a puppet show in Beverly Hills . . . The Daryll Zanuck polo team took the Uplifters on again yesterday. Will Rogers played against them. A Hollywood trade paper wonders unkindly whether Zanuck kicked the goal he made a week ago . . . Pathe is holding two meetings a week to see if someone can't suggest how to get the old silent technique into the talkies . . . Dorothy Mackaill told an intimate friend she doesn't intend to marry for at least a year . . . And Polly Moran is heading East for a six-weeks' personal appearance tour. Her departure makes this a duller community.

Miss Stanwyck

CROCODILE TEARS

A story filters back of a gag Al Jolson pulled on Catalina Island. Along with several friends, he rented a fishing boat for the day. As they were leaving, Al noticed the owner's name was Harry Warner.

Rushing up to the bewildered man, Al gave him a sympathetic handclasp. "Aw, gee, Harry," he said, "have things gotten as tough as this?"

ASTHER IMPROVES

Now that he is honestly applying himself to learning English, Nils Asther is making excellent progress, according to reports from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

The Swedish star, along with Jose Crespo and several other foreign players, is receiving voice coaching from Oliver Hinsdale, one-time director of the Dallas Little Theater. Mr. Hinsdale will be remembered for his feat of taking the Dallas players to New York and winning the Little Theater competition three times in a row. His duties at M. G. M. are to teach stage technique to inexperienced players. There is some talk of his taking troupes to nearby towns, but this will have to wait Mr. Thalberg's approval.

'Tis Triangle Again in Warner

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Transgression" opened yesterday on the Warner talk screen. It is the eternal triangle dealt up in the eternal movie style.

While the cat's away, the mice will play, you know. So with husband away off in India, the little wife in Paris goes on a romantic spree with another fellow. And this all leads to a night in Spain and a tragic sequence.

Kay Francis, Paul Cavanagh and Ricardo Cortez are the principals, with Miss Francis being the lady who is indiscreet, Mr. Cavanagh being the very patient and forgiving husband and Mr. Cortez being the philandering one. All of them give good performances, limited as they are by lack of originality in story treatment.

"Transgression" has many familiar episodes. You get the idea of having seen it before.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

While the Golden Rod, Capt. Menke's show boat, was playing in the South, it was experiencing one of those dull nights every theatrical enterprise suffers occasionally. Two men were idling away time in the box-office, the ticket seller and the Cap'n, himself. The audience was slow arriving. It was near curtain time. Two women bustled down the gangplank. At the ticket window one inquired anxiously if there were still two seats remaining.

"I believe there are," said the pasteboard vendor. "Ah, yes, here are two very good ones."

It was the first sale of the evening.

SCIENTIST FINDS 'LOST TRIBE'

LOS ANGELES, July 21.—(AP.)—Discovery of a "lost tribe" living in underground villages in the remote interior of the Southern Sahara Desert was announced here today by Dr. Arthur Torrance, Los Angeles physician, author and explorer.

Dr. Torrance, who returned recently from 18,000 miles of exploration through Central and Northern Africa, contends man evolved from a lower type of human animal, but his origin was in its present form. Man's origin, he said, may be in the southern part of the Sahara rather than in Central Asia.

Dr. Torrance said he first located the habitat of the "lost tribe" in 1923, but was unable to penetrate to the native center because of hostile desert nomads. Definite evidence was claimed this year.

Bell Ringer, Vic. Faust, Home

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Vic. Faust was welcomed with open arms last night. Well, with open mouths, anyway. All shouting "Ray!" and "Attaboy!" and all laughing. The welcoming committee was aboard Capt. Menke's showboat Golden Rod, at Montrose, and it included a large number of Pitt summer students and members of the faculty. The ceremony, informal, to be sure, was one of the 'tween-acts features incidental to the presentation of that sterling and well-known drama, the title of which is—now what is it?—the title of which is—ah, yes, here's the program—the title of which is "Lady Audley's Secret."

DON'T BLAME MR. FAUST

Vic, you know—or maybe you don't—went away from here last winter to be a featured performer in a New York revue that had in it another good actor, Ted Healy. It wasn't long before both of them were out of jobs, but Ted had evidently had some kind of a pull, for he stuck a little longer than Vic. That is, until the revue flopped. But they couldn't blame Vic for that, because he wasn't in it then.

Anyway, he was back among friends again last night, sweetly chiming "Believe Me, If All Those Endearing Young Charms" on the Swiss bells and hammering out the dulcet harmony of "Listen to the Mocking-bird" on the little wooden whatchamuhcallit. Vic was home again. The audience was with him. And HOW! What can New York ever hold for Vic again after such a triumph?

NOT A REAL SECRET

You wouldn't be much interested, we know, in having us go into details about "Lady Audley's Secret." It wasn't any real secret, anyway, because a coupla other guys knew what it was and a third suspected. But this much we shall tell you. Lady Audley wasn't any lady, as we judge dames. She was a da-a-a-angerous woman. Really a villainess, if there ever was one. And you may be assured she got her pay, too, for all her dirty work, and that virtue again proved to be its own reward.

Next week "The Girl From Out Yonder" or something like that.

ASK SOUTH SIDE TRAFFIC LIGHTS

Pointing to several automobile accidents, one a fatality, residents of South Twenty-sixth and Sarah streets, South Side, have asked installation of traffic lights at the intersection. Council was informed today.

Since South Twenty-fifth street was closed because of the high tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad interfering with traffic, automobile travel has increased greatly on Twenty-sixth street, the petitioners declared.

Council will refer the request to the Department of Public Safety.

Double awards will be paid to entrants in the winning list who have secured and submitted one NEW six months' Home Delivery or paid-in-advance Mail Subscription.

There is an open class in which $1,000.00 is to be given away in prizes, irrespective of the subscription angle. Should, however, your set of answers be selected as one of the winning sets, and you have turned in a NEW subscription, you will get a DOUBLE AWARD. This means that if you win the first prize—$200.00—and have turned in a NEW subscription, you will be paid $400.00—the DOUBLE AWARD. And the same ratio will apply to the entire 135 cash awards announced in the list. If you are qualifying for the DOUBLE AWARD list of prizes send in your subscription immediately.

Bear in mind that $1,000.00 will be given away at the end of the contest—subscriptions or no subscriptions. Don't miss this opportunity to earn some much needed cash.

READ THESE SIMPLE RULES

(1) Under the title, "Fiction Title Test," the daily and Sunday Sun-Telegraph will publish a series of cartoons to run consecutively for 40 days, starting Sunday, July 12. All of these cartoons will represent the title of a popular novel, and prizes will be awarded to readers who submit the neatest, most original and most nearly correct sets of pictures and answers.

(2) A total of $1,000 in cash prizes will be awarded in an open class and an added $1,000 is also offered to be drawn upon to provide for double awards to entrants turning in one NEW six months' home delivery or mail subscription order for the daily and Sunday Sun-Telegraph.

(3) This offer is open to all except employes of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and their families. You pay nothing. Files of the Sun-Telegraph are available at the Public Library or at the office of the Sun-Telegraph, and you may make tracings of the cartoons if you desire.

(4) Answers in the contest are not to be submitted until the entire set of 40 has been printed. After the last (No. 40) cartoon has appeared, entrants will be allowed 15 days to submit their sets of answers. They are to be addressed to the "Fiction Title Test" Editor, Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

(5) All answers submitted become the property of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and none will be returned. The judges will be appointed by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and their decision will be final. In case of ties, a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

Booze Causes Unhappiness In Numerous Homes

What's your bootlegger's number?

And what's he charging for Scotch?

You don't want to tell? Then I'll do the telling.

Here, today, is a report on what America is paying for Scotch. It's not dry or wet propaganda. It isn't written by a prohibitionist or a cocktail lover. It is the simple, unexaggerated picture of what is happening in thousands of American homes since illicit booze became the great adventure.

They tell some pretty tragic stories of the Old Bad Days when saloons were here. I saw those old bad days. Maybe you did, too. Some of the stories were true. But here's a story that wasn't happening then... the story of booze in the quiet, decent, respectable American home.

UNABLE TO SAVE

What has brought booze into that home?

And who is keeping it there?

Answer that for yourself.

"Dear Sally:

"Just what would you say about a man—who has a family of three besides himself and his wife—who makes good wages, and then spends between seven and 10 dollars every week on his own selfish appetite for rotten booze?

"Then crabs because his wife can't make ends meet, and save something out of what's left?

"I am so mad—so darn mad, I don't know what to do. I could beat him, if I thought it would do any good.

"I have raved and wept and pleaded, by turns, and even threatened to walk out and leave him. I guess that is what I should do. I should quit talking and do something.

"He gets $54 every week. I get about $47, or perhaps $45, of it to pay bills and try to save a little. I haven't been able to save a cent for two months now. He worked all winter, and we have almost nothing to show for it.

COMES HOME DRUNK

"I have even tried going with him on these parties, and I'll admit I get some fun out of it, but it means spending even more money and we can't afford it. Please print this letter in your column, because he reads it, and I want to know what you think about it.

"We have been married 21 years, and we haven't even a home to show for it. We have been paying on one for the last four and a half years, but it is so hard since he started in spending so much for booze that I am getting to the point where I just don't care. I could say a lot more, but it would be tiresome to read, and wouldn't do much good.

"I could knock him over or beat him when I think about it.

"Sometimes he is so sweet, and then he has to spoil it all by coming home all slopped up with rotten hooch.

"I guess I had better let up now because this letter is pretty much of a mess. I don't know which way to turn or what to do. Please help me if you can.

"LOLETA."

What's the answer?

I don't know, Loleta. I can tell you, perhaps, why your husband drinks. He drinks because it's a way out. A way out from weariness and worry and boredom and discouragement and self-loathing. In the old days of the saloon, a decent man hesitated a long time before he took that way out. The average saloon was a loathsome place. The man who frequented it was branded.

But now—the saloon has come to the man. We wanted temperance when we voted for prohibition. We got—the bootlegger. Once, booze owned the saloon back door. Now it has the run of every back door.

MUST WORK WITH HIM

You can't keep booze away from your man, Loleta—not as long as this country's won't recognize and can't control the bootlegger. But perhaps you can keep your man away from booze, if you'll work with him instead of against him.

He's a decent sort. He does earn a good wage, and he does give you most of it. Couldn't you put a little more adventure into his life—a little more of real fun and freedom to take the place of the false adventure and fun and freedom of booze?

Couldn't you praise him into going straight, instead of trying to punish him into it?

Can't you make some challenge to his strength that will offset the bootlegger's challenge to his weakness?

Maybe you who read this, have faced, or are facing, the same bitter fight. If you have, can you help Loleta in hers?

Five human beings in misery—who's to blame?

Success and Adversity Great Tests for Revealing Character, Says Fay King

HE'S GOT SO HIGH HAT IT'S DISGUSTING
TOO BAD. HE ALWAYS SEEMED SUCH A REAL SORT, TOO!
I HAVE A WORLD OF ADMIRATION FOR HER. SHE'S BEEN WONDERFUL SINCE THEY LOST ALL THAT MONEY
I KNOW, AND TO THINK I ALWAYS THOUGHT SHE WAS JUST A FRIVOLOUS, EXTRAVAGANT LITTLE FOOL!
YOU NEVER CAN TELL HOW SUCCESS OR ADVERSITY WILL EFFECT ANY ONE!
FAY-KING

By FAY KING

We never know what we can do until we have to and we often surprise even ourselves by the way we can manage in a crisis.

Many persons who get all excited and upset over petty, trifling things have proved themselves wonderfully calm and capable in the face of real trouble.

Some who seem shiftless and wasteful can economize better than those who are more prudent, when it is necessary.

I've known persons who were accused of being shiftless and frivolous become admirably sensible and reliable when it was up to them to be responsible.

Success and adversity are the two great tests in life which can best reveal the shallowness or depth of character.

And the results are often nothing less than amazing.

Lillian Tackles Madge for an Explanation

So Lillian had seen that something was wrong!

I might have known, I told myself, with a feeling of contempt at my lack of insight. During the many years of my close association with Lillian, I never have known her perceptions or her intuition to fail her in an emergency. Yet I fatuously had believed I had so camouflaged the sinister visit of the Chinese messenger to the kitchen, that Lillian had suspected nothing.

"Just what makes you think we need a cyclone cellar?" I asked.

She flashed one of her old impish smiles at me.

"You lack the poker face, old dear," she said, "as I have told you many times before. Besides, Katie is too anxious about you since the baby came—to say nothing of standing in mortal terror of Katherine's rules—to summon you to the kitchen for anything so trivial as a row with a tradesman—the very transparent excuse you gave when you came back.

"You needn't blush," she added, and I was conscious that my cheeks were crimson. "Harry and Dicky and even your father are playing the roles of second act sleuths to perfection, and there is an air of 'deep, dark mystery' about the whole place which could be cut with a cheese knife."

She stopped and looked at me meditatively.

"I just was getting ready to tell you all about it," I said, "but in order to make you understand what has happened I shall have to dip into the past in a way that I am afraid will give you pain."

"I may yell in a dentist's chair, but I never kick the drill out of his hand," she retorted grimly. "Go ahead, I am ready for anything, even the knowledge that Marion is involved in something which may grieve me terribly."

"Don't be an anointed idiot, just because you know how," I snapped voicing an oft-repeated comment of my mother-in-law's. "You no doubt will be annoyed at Marion, but I give you my word that she has done nothing which should really grieve you."

"All right, all right," she said impatiently, "I'll take your word for it, but get along with the story."

"It goes back to the death of Marion's grandmother," I said. "Do you remember the box which the dying woman gave the child?"

Far back in the brilliant depths of her eyes there flamed a sudden comprehension.

"That old lock-box!" she exclaimed. "I remember. I was the most prized possession Mother Morton had. I always supposed it held the pitiful keepsakes which an old woman treasures. What about it?"

We are beginning to think it holds something far more valuable than sentimental keepsakes." I said gravely and then using as few words as possible, I told her of Marion's bringing the box to me when she went away to school the year before.

"She told me then," I said, horribly embarrassed, for relating this to Lillian was a task most distasteful to me, "that her grandmother had told her she must never show the contents to you—in fact—to anyone, if she could help it—but the prohibition was special and emphatic concerning you."

"That was because the poor old woman was obeying the injunction her son must have left upon her. There weren't many hates, you know, as lively as that with which Tom Morton favored me."

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Wild hairs that wander away from the eyebrow proper are doomed to be plucked out. But eyebrows are not slimmed down much, except at the far end where they should do a graceful fade-away to a fine point. Applications of vaseline or brilliantine will provide a glisten to these eye arches. A bit of mascara will darken them.

Want a tonic for a wind-beaten portrait? Here it is, and welcome. Mix the juice of one lemon with three tablespoonfuls of high-grade olive oil. Apply to the face, neck, hands and arms with absorbent cotton that has been wrung out of hot water. Tap in briskly. Over the face place a mask of absorbent cotton, leaving a gap for the nose. Cover with steaming hot towels. Remove, friction with massage cream. Fresh as a daisy!

Petticoats are back again. Will wonders never cease? The long frock is clingy and draggy without a long foundation garment. Corsets are getting corseter, alas. That change also is due to the extended robe with wide godets. Truth is, the waisty frock requires a shape. Looks a bit as if we are skidding back to other dear, dead years. Dead, there's no denying that. But their dearness is doubtful.

Treatment for acne; bathe the face at night with a bland soap and warm water. Be gentle. Rinse away the soap suds with tepid water, drying the skin surface carefully without much friction. Into the skin rub ointment of zinc oxide, which is healing. Before breakfast drink a glassful of orange juice. Eat lettuce, half a head, once a day. Don't neglect the daily bath, using a firm bathbrush. Cut down on fats and starches.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Simple Tumor Often Causes Undue Alarm

"Tumor" is the word commonly used in describing a swelling of the tissues. As a matter of fact, it is derived from the Greek word meaning swelling.

Dr. Copeland

Frequently the name tumor is thought to refer to the swelling due to cancer. It is for this reason that many a person becomes unduly alarmed when told by the physician that he has a tumor.

One of the most simple types of tumor that I can tell you about is known as a "sebaceous cyst." These cysts, or tumors, occur either singly or in groups. They vary in size from a tiny swelling to a sac two inches or more in diameter.

Sebaceous cysts are most commonly seen in the scalp. They also occur behind the ear, in the eyebrow or wherever hair is found. Though found in young adults, they are most common in middle age.

The condition is caused by a blocking up of the duct of a sebaceous gland, a gland of the skin. The material manufactured by the gland gradually accumulates within its envelope and produces the tumor.

The tumor grows rather rapidly, but sometimes has long dormant periods when it does not seem to grow at all. One of these cysts, or tumors, may attain a very large size if left alone.

It may become inflamed and rupture, discharging the contents of the sac. This gives but temporary relief, because the sac will fill again in a short time.

There is only one thing to do for this condition. The cyst and its contents must be removed. In addition to removing the mass, this procedure guards against its recurrence.

The operation is very simple and can be done in the doctor's office. There is no pain attached to it, as it is usually performed under local anesthesia.

I advise having such tumors removed. A cleanly done little operation amounts to nothing. If the swelling is left alone and the sac permitted to rupture, in addition to its becoming inflamed it may become infected. Once infected, it may cause great misery and discomfort.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Livening Up Those Dull Evenings

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Could you kindly advise me of an interesting and pleasant way for both girls and boys to spend the evening? I find that most young people find bridge boring and easily tire of it. I would be very much obliged if you could solve my problem for me. I know they love to dance, but one cannot very well dance all evening.

GLADYS.

How about the ever-present backgammon? I agree with you that sometimes young people tire of bridge, and so many bridge-hounds have become backgammon-hounds. Of course I can't understand how anyone ever tires of dancing, but I suppose I must grant that, if you say so.

I suggest that you visit your nearby library, and see what books they have on games to play, and "ice-breakers" in general for parties. Many of these, old and new, are more amusing than sometimes we remember that they are.

And many ingenious hostesses nowadays—although it may seem odd to say so—make a practice of visiting toy shops and department stores where games are sold, to buy, very inexpensively, games that are usually in the nature of "guessing" games, the many, many forms of "tweny questions." They come disguised in all kinds of ways, to make one think, and to make that thinking fun. Why not look up some of these, in library and in store, and see how your guests react to them?

A Matter of Convenience

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

How soon after the arrival of the baby is it customary to send announcements?

MRS. P.

These announcements are sent out as soon as it is convenient. And friends realize, of course, that they may, because of circumstances, be sent days or even two or three weeks after the birth.

REAL ESTATE

A trade deal involving two large properties in Mt. Lebanon and Bellevue has been consummated by the Union Real Estate Company, downtown brokers.

The Mt. Lebanon property, an apartment building known as Charles Hall, 100 Academy avenue, has been deeded by Louis Merwitzer to O. W. and T. S. Brown in exchange for a building at Balph and Lincoln avenues, Bellevue. The Bellevue building houses nine store rooms and bowling alleys. The Mt. Lebanon apartments building is a six-story brick and steel structure of 48 suites and garage accommodations for 12 cars.

According to A. J. Aberman and Thomas S. Christo, representatives of the Union Real Estate Company, the exchange totaled $425,000. The Union Real Estate Company has also been named renting agents for both properties. The aggregate annual rental for both buildings is set by the brokers at $56,000.

A commercial property located at 59 Fullerton street and 1501-13 Wylie avenue has been sold by Edward C. Kuhn, of New York City, to Joseph Stephen for $26,000, according to the Lawton Real Estate Company, brokers. The property consists of seven store rooms and offices erected on lot 24x132 feet.

The same brokers have sold for James Strothers to Lillian M. Neelan an eight-room house at 543 Winfield street, Twelfth Ward. The purchaser gave in part payment a dwelling built on a seven-acre plot in Highland avenue, Oakdale. The consideration, the realtors say, was $13,500.

A home at 1801 Cliff street has been sold through the Lawton Real Estate Company by Samuel Marcovsky to Elias Tobia.

NO. 401.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing an additional Agreement between the City of Pittsburgh and County of Allegheny in connection with the construction by said County of a public highway bridge over the Ohio River, from a point in the West End of the City of Pittsburgh to a point on the North Side of said City near Manhattan Street, said bridge to be known as the West End Bridge.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works be and they are hereby authorized and directed, in behalf of the City of Pittsburgh, to enter into a contract with the County of Allegheny in the following language:

AGREEMENT.

MADE this ..... day of ....., 1931, between the CITY OF PITTSBURGH, a municipal corporation of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, party of the first part, hereinafter called the City, and the COUNTY OF ALLEGHENY, a political subdivision of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, party of the second part, hereinafter called the County.

WHEREAS, By virtue of an agreement between the City and the County executed under date of November 30, 1929, the City has given its consent to the construction by the County of a public highway bridge over the Ohio River from a point in the West End of the City to a point on the North Side of the City of Pittsburgh near Manhattan street, said bridge to be known as the West End Bridge; and

WHEREAS, Under the terms of the said agreement, the City is required to "curb, pave and lay the sidewalks of both the approach and the low level portions of Carson street West affected;" and

WHEREAS, It is necessary and desirable that a certain agreement between the City and the County, executed under date of April 22, 1930, be amended and supplemented in certain particulars.

WHEREAS, The City desires to construct a retaining wall and stairway on South Main street between Carson street West and the River; and

WHEREAS, By reason of the restricted area in which the construction of said curbing, paving, sidewalk and retaining wall is to be done and the fact that the County will let a contract for similar curbing, paving, sidewalk and retaining wall construction in the same or immediately adjacent areas, and

WHEREAS, The reconstruction by the County of the Bridge of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Company across Carson street West in connection with the general program of construction of the West End Bridge has obviated the contemplated reconstruction of this bridge by the City of Pittsburgh, in order to improve the traffic conditions on Carson street West, which reconstruction by the City it is estimated would have cost at present prices Twenty-five Thousand ($25,000) Dollars; and

WHEREAS, Further study of this project by the City and the County has indicated the desirability of increasing the widths of Steuben and South Main streets at the bridge approaches, and the re-establishment of grades on Independence and Greenleaf streets; and

WHEREAS, It has become necessary by reason of the foregoing to relay certain water lines owned by the City of Pittsburgh as provided in said agreement dated April 22, 1930.

NOW, THEREFORE, IT IS MUTUALLY AGREED AS FOLLOWS:

1—The County will include in its contract the said retaining wall and stairway on South Main street and all curbing, paving and sidewalks for which the City is responsible under the said agreement of November 30, 1929, in conformity with County Plan No. 12969, identified by the signatures of Norman F. Brown, Director of the Department of Public Works, and of Edward G. Lang, Director of the Department of Public Works of the City, copies of which are on file in the offices of the Departments of Public Works of both County and City. The said work shall be constructed in accordance with the County's specifications for such work and in accordance with such plans as may be prepared by the County and approved by the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City.

2—The City shall have the right to inspect the said work and the material entering into it at any time during the construction.

3—The City agrees to reimburse the County for the work so done, paying for [illegible] quantities of said retaining wall and curbing, [illegible] respective [illegible] to amount to a [illegible] Thousand One Hundred and Forty Thousand ($140,000) Dollars, said reimbursement to be made by the City within thirty (30) days after the actual completion of the said work and upon submission of a final estimate by the County to the City, but in no case shall said reimbursement be required to be made by the City before the 1st day of May, 1932.

4—The City agrees to pay to the County as a contribution to said reconstruction of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway Bridge the sum of Twenty-five Thousand ($25,000) Dollars, said payment to be made by the City not before the 1st day of May, 1932.

5. The County agrees to do, and the City agrees to reimburse the County for, the work of making such alterations as may be necessary in its water lines, the work to be done in conformity with plans and specifications furnished and approved by the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City at an estimated cost of not to exceed Thirty-five Thousand ($35,000.00) Dollars, said reimbursement to be made by the City on or before the first day of May, 1932.

6. The City agrees to enact the necessary legislation for the widening and opening of all streets as affected by the bridge approach construction and for the establishment of the grades thereof in conformity with County Plan No. 12969 aforesaid.

7. The County agrees to pay all property damages arising out of all changes to streets occasioned by the bridge approach construction, including damages arising from opening, widening, establishment and re-establishment of grades, except for the widening of Carson street West, as provided for in the agreement of April 22, 1930.

8. The County further agrees to bear the physical cost of all improvement work required to carry out the bridge approach construction as shown on County Plan No. 12969 as provided in the agreement of April 22, 1930, it being the true intent and meaning of this contract that the entire cost of the same shall be borne by the County except as specifically stipulated to the contrary to be borne by the City.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, the parties hereto have caused this agreement to be executed the date and year hereinbefore written, the County by its County Commissioners with the corporate seal affixed hereto duly attested by the Chief Clerk of the County Commissioners and the City by the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works with the seal of the City affixed hereto and attested by the Mayor's Secretary and the Director's Chief Clerk, the City by authority of Ordinance ..... approved the ..... day of ....., 1931, and the County Commissioners by authority of Resolution ..... passed the ..... day of ....., 1931.

County Official Held in Gun Fight

STRAY BULLET HURTS WOMAN ON PORCH

Carrick Police Open Fire To Subdue Armed Man Following Domestic Row

Harry Closs, 46, assistant superintendent of county bridges and a former Carrick justice of the peace, was held under $1,000 bond today as the result of a gun battle with police near his home, 102 Kirk avenue, Carrick, last night.

Armed with a shotgun, Closs fought off police for more than half an hour, finally surrendering when, police say, Sergt. Roy Brandt sent a shot close to his right arm, the first shot police had fired directly at him.

During the fight, Mrs. Lydia Johnson, 68, a neighbor, was wounded while sitting on her porch at 2406 Edgar street.

WIFE TELLS OF ROW

Magistrate John J. Sweeney, in South Side Police Court, continued a suspicious person hearing and placed Closs under bond until physicians at the South Side Hospital determine whether Mrs. Johnson's wound was inflicted by a shotgun slug or a police bullet.

Sweeney said the hearing probably would be held one week from today.

Last night's shooting was the aftermath of a family quarrel, witnesses testified.

Mrs. Clara Closs, the prisoner's wife, told Sweeney that her husband came home intoxicated and, following an argument, threatened her, her son, William, 16, and her mother, Mrs. William Willis, of 2434 Brownsville road, who was a dinner guest.

Mrs. Closs said:

"He came home fearfully intoxicated. He said he didn't want anything to eat. When I insisted, an argument took place and he struck me in the face. My mother said to him 'You shouldn't hit her.' Then he struck her."

POLICE OPEN FIRE

Mrs. Closs said she then tried to get the keys to her husband's automobile away from him by saying she wanted to send their son to the store.

Finally, she said, he gave William the keys and went to his room and got the shotgun.

Warned by her son, Mrs. Closs testified, she and her mother hid and the husband started chasing the son.

Sergt. Brandt, passing, attempted to stop Closs. Unable to do so, he called for reinforcements. Brandt said he took a revolver away from the younger Closs, who said he had it to protect himself.

When Police Lieut. Walsh and Patrolman Shaughnessey arrived, they said, they found Closs hiding behind a tree.

Coal Company Must Move Mine Refuse

An order requiring the Logans Ferry Coal Company to remove within 60 days a pile of mine refuse, or "gob," from the property of Letitia M. McCready, of Plum Township, was handed down by Judge Frank P. Patterson in Common Pleas Court. He directed that no further deposits be made on the property. The company is engaged in mining coal from two tracts under the 62-acre farm of petitioner, who complained that the refuse was heaped beyond the line of the company's tracts.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 21.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

This is sorter "Give the Down and Out a Chance" Day. They pounced on Ma Kennedy (Aimee's mother) after the poor soul had tried to scare up some fun and amusement. They started to examine her sanity, but they couldn't find anyone in Hollywood capable of making the test.

Will Rogers

Can't see much satisfaction (only for the politicians to have something to point to with pride in years to come) in sending old man Fall to the pen. He got the $100,000, but he evidently did not put up oil lands for security, for he has lost the ranch to Doheny for the same $100,000. Course everything wasn't exactly on the up and up, but that is one case that was tried entirely by politics.

Yours, WILL.

POLICE CHIEFS CONVENE HERE

The official welcome of Pittsburgh is being extended police chiefs of Pennsylvania at their eighteenth annual convention in the William Penn Hotel today. The visitors gathered at a noon luncheon to hear greetings from Mayor Charles H. Kline, with Col. G. J. Shoemaker, Harrisburg superintendent of police, making the response.

Little action was expected at the afternoon's business session. Most of the time was to be devoted to appointment of committees.

Needs of Pennsylvania police in their fight against crime will be discussed.

A dinner tonight scheduled Judge A. B. Reed, of Common Pleas Court, on the speakers' list with City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt.

A reception at Pittsburgh Lodge No. 11, B. P. O. E., was to conclude the convention's first day.

TRAIN SERVICE CUT WITHOUT WARNING

Panhandle Abandons Six Locals, Adds Two New Runs; Patrons Protest

With practically no notice to patrons, a new Panhandle passenger schedule was inaugurated yesterday by the Pennsylvania Railroad. Many persons, unaware of the change, were inconvenienced and delayed as a result. Under the new schedule Bridgeville residents claim there is an interval of more than four hours between homebound trains in the afternoon.

They point out that there are none leaving Pittsburgh for Bridgeville from noon until 4:23. The new schedule shows a net cut of four trains in the Panhandle suburban district, six being taken off and two being added. Those eliminated include two Bridgeville runs, two Carnegie runs and two Washington runs.

Two trains have been added for Hills, Washington County, one leaving Pittsburgh at noon and the other leaving Hills at 12:55 daylight time.

The official announcement of the revisions says:

"Changes in leaving time of other trains were made to compensate for trains removed."

VERONA CHIEFS FOR CANUTI

The candidacy of Attorney Frank F. Canuti, for judge of Common Pleas Court was indorsed at a meeting of more than 300 members of the Verona Political Club in American Legion Hall, Verona, last night.

Assistant District Attorney Joseph Bonidy, of Westmoreland County; N. Caruso and R. Navarro, and Mr. Canuti were speakers. Mr. Navarro presided. In outlining his platform Mr. Canuti scored court delays and the long summer vacation of the courts.

Police Patrol, Auto Crash; $15,000 Asked

Charging negligence in operation of a police patrol, Joseph Morris, of Pittsburgh, asked $15,000 damages for injuries in a collision between an automobile in which he was riding and the patrol, in a suit against the City of Pittsburgh filed in Common Pleas Court. The collision occurred September 25, 1929, at South Twentieth and Sarah streets, the suit stated.

Fifth Avenue Store Robbed Second Time

TUBE CITY VOTE SUIT BEGUN

A test suit was instituted in Common Pleas Court today to expedite assessment and registration of voters in McKeesport.

William S. Sullivan, Jr., of McKeesport, filed suit asking for a writ of mandamus to compel the County Board for Revision and Assessment of Taxes to place his name and that of any other person not now assessed on the assessment lists so they be registered to vote.

At present, if a resident of McKeesport is missed by the regular assessor's canvass, he has to go to the tax board's office in Pittsburgh to be placed on the list.

The suit aims to have a subordinate assessor placed in McKeesport with the power to add bona fide names to the assessment lists.

BAIL GRANTED HERB DOCTOR

Dr. H. M. Allison, 609 Chestnut street, a licensed herb doctor, convicted in Criminal Court of practicing medicine without a license and sentenced to 60 days in jail by Visiting Judge Frank L. Harvey, of Clarion, is free today under $1,000 capias bail, pending an appeal of his conviction to the Superior Court. Judge Harvey refused Allison's motion for a new trial.

Allison was charged with exceeding the authority of his certificate, which accords him the right to administer herbs, by giving drugs to a young Negro girl patient, and later by signing her death certificate.

EIGHT LEADERS DENIED JOBS PLAN FIGHT

Signing of Contracts by Mayor Spurs Action; Concert Set for Tonight

Eight city bandmasters, who failed to share in the award of contracts for band music in city parks, are conferring with their attorney this afternoon to decide on a course of action. It was intimated an injunction would be asked to prevent the employment of the bands of Charles Pasetti and Danny Nirella, with whom Mayor Charles H. Kline signed contracts last night.

Ten of the city bandmasters submitted identical bids for the work and it was expected the contracts would be equally distributed among the 10.

SUPPORTED BY LANG

This plan, it was said, had the support of Public Works Director Lang. However, the Mayor's music committee recommended the division of contracts between Nirella and Pasetti.

Last Monday the rejected band leaders aired their grievance before Council and the matter was dormant until Supt. W. C. Batchelor, of the City Bureau of Recreation, today announced that Mayor Kline had signed the band concert contracts with only two band leaders.

Attorney Don F. D. Ivernois, for the rejected band leaders, said definite action would be decided upon at this afternoon's conference.

CONCERT TONIGHT

The concerts begin tonight, the first being at Kosciusko Playground with Nirella as conductor. Supt. Batchelor said he is now arranging for larger concerts, the first of which will be given tomorrow night. Tonight's program:

"The Star Spangled Banner."
March, "Nibelungen" ....Wagner
Overture, "Phedre" ....Massenet
Suit de Ballet, "Coppelia"..Delibes
Melodies from "My Maryland" .....Romberg
Community Singing.

Tear Gas Released, Balks Bank Meeting

Twenty automatic tear gas jets in the Citizens Trust Company, Bellevue, were accidentally released last night, filling the banking rooms with the gas, and interfering with a board of directors meeting. R. R. Woodburn, the vault custodian, discovered the trouble when he opened the doors to admit directors for their regular weekly meeting. No one was in the building when the gas let go. The directors held their meeting in the Surburban Realty Company store across the street.

Fumes of Ammonia Fill Avalon Building

Ammonia fumes from a refrigerator in the meat market of O. R. Schilling, 6 California avenue, Avalon, seeped through the four floors of the building, early today, alarming several occupants. Schilling, summoned by police, shut down the refrigerator and stopped the escaping gas.

Dawes Is Smart; Stays Home to Escape Diplomacy

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Charley Dawes is our smartest ambassador. While the others are scrambling around Europe, old Charley is back home where there is very little diplomacy.

We've argued France and Germany into shaking and making up. They're just as happy as neighbors can be on opposite sides of a spite fence.

And does the peacemaker get the worst of it? Yep. All except the debt. And he gets none of it.

This latest difficulty has solved the non-employment problem of American goodwill ambassadors. In the old days we could handle any situation with one. Now, they are marching four abreast.

We have a real fight on our hands tomorrow. It's between Mickey Walker and Jack Sharkey and it will not be ruined by arbitrators.

It revives the old question. Can a good little man whip a good big man? We're betting on Walker because we know that by the fourth round Sharkey will be fighting Mickey, Teddy Hayes and Jack Kearns.

COUNCIL MAKES PLANS FOR VACATION

Early Recess Indicated As City Heads Are Asked To Submit Legislation

City Council may take a summer vacation after next Monday's meeting.

Councilman Robert Alderdice moved yesterday that the Mayor and heads of all departments be instructed to have all legislation requiring Council's attention for the next two months in the city clerk's office by next week. He said:

"Council ought to take its vacation soon."

Several weeks ago President John S. Herron said in an interview that because of the Supplies and Public Works departments probes it was unlikely Council would recess.

If Council decides to adjourn until September it is probable no member will journey far from home.

Councilmen Robert Alderdice, Robert Garland and Charles Anderson will be busy, they said, mapping out their re-election campaigns for the September primaries. Other members will assist the Kline organization.

Council Gets Offer On Ramp Repairs

A proposal of Charles S. Davis, a consulting engineer, to perform services for the city in connection with repairs to the Duquesne ramp was in Council's hands today.

Davis offered to work for $50 per day. He would examine the structure for $300 and would prepare plans and execute a contract for repair for $9,000.

The request was referred to the finance and public works committee.

BRIDGE RAZED, 'CHICKEN HILL' ISOLATED

65 Families Denied Access To Stores, Doctors While Improvement Is Under Way

Sixty-five families in the West End, living some distance from street cars, have been deprived of an automobile outlet by the tearing down of a bridge.

The bridge at Caster street was razed, according to Public Works Director Edward G. Lang, in connection with the Independence street improvement. The locality is the "Chicken Hill" section.

Public Works Department engineers are preparing plans to rebuild the bridge, but some time will elapse according to Lang, before the job is completed. The span cannot be rebuilt while Independence street is being improved, it was said, because of a peculiar grade condition.

Meanwhile the neighborhood is dependent on a lone grocery, owned by Charles Muck, of 340 Junius street, for supplies, residents say. Muck and his three children deliver the goods to customers.

According to residents the fire hazard is acute and physicians refuse to climb the steep hillside to attend patients. Deliveries of milk and ice have ceased, it is said.

Earl Bebout, of Isabella street, told police he witnessed the alleged theft.

BRIDGE RALLY BOOST FOR ARMSTRONG

Avalon Citizens Expect to Hear Commissioner Talk On Span, But He's Absent

Five hundred Avalon citizens filled the borough hall last night with the expectation of hearing County Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong discuss a proposed bridge between Avalon and North Avalon, but what they heard were boosts for Armstrong's candidacy for re-election.

Armstrong did not appear. His boosters, District Attorney A. T. Park, Judge W. H. McNaugher, Judge W. Heber Dithrich, County Solicitor Mortimer B. Lesher and Representative Michael A. Musmanno, turned the meeting into a political rally, lauding Armstrong as the "master builder."

In a brief reference to the bridge question Lesher promised the commissioners would act soon.

John Faulkner, chairman of the North Avalon Community League, which called the meeting, today said the people went largely to hear Armstrong discuss the bridge.

One citizen interrupted the meeting to say:

"I protest, if that bridge goes through you can have my property at its assessed valuation."

He was drowned out by applause and the speakers continued boosting Armstrong. Burgess Grant Ritchie presided.

PROMPT ACTION ON TOWN HALL NOW URGED

Dismissal of Dauphin Suit Leaves Only One Barrier To Building Construction

Dismissal yesterday of the suit seeking to halt the approval of a bond issue for a town hall on the Nicola site in Schenley Farms, leaves only one barrier to erection of the building and has brought demand on the County Commissioners that they start preparation of detailed plans for the building.

MAGEE'S SUIT

The suit dismissed yesterday by Judge William M. Hargest, of Dauphin County, had been filed in behalf of a taxpayer, John H. Palmer, by former Mayor William A. Magee, on the ground that proper proceedings had not been observed by the county commissioners in voting for the resolution for the loan of $6,000,000 for the hall.

Judge Nargest dismissed the suit and placed the cost on the appellant. In his opinion, he held that while several minor errors were made by the commissioners in procedure, the errors were not of sufficient importance to invalidate the bonds. The decision sustains the contention of County Solicitor Mortimer B. Lesher that it is the intent of the Commissioners and not routine technicalities which should be given consideration.

APPEAL FORECAST

Magee has another taxpayers' suit pending in Allegheny County. He has indicated that he will probably appeal the Dauphin County decision.

Attorney Oliver K. Eaton, representing a group of Schenley Farms property owners, whose suit against the town hall is entirely separate from that of Magee, has announced that he will appeal to the State Supreme Court, a recent decision dismissing his suit in Allegheny County.

PAVING PLEAS GIVEN COUNCIL

Requests for grading, paving and resurfacing of streets have been made of City Council and the Department of Public Works by several property owners in petitions to be acted upon today.

Grading, paving and curbing of Arcadia way, from Altamont way to Athea street is asked by the department at the instigation of residents of the section. The project is estimated to cost $3,000.

Other projects asked include: widening of Andover Terrace from Bryn Mawr road to Alpera street, Fifth Ward. Property damages are estimated at $1,000. Property owners told Council a fence on a retaining wall at the side of the street is so close to the curb that automobiles strike it. It is proposed to widen the thoroughfare two feet.

Resurfacing of Ligonier street, Sixth Ward, and the resurfacing of Denny street, Sixth Ward.

Sewer on Gifford street at McGook street, to cost $4,200.

Catholic Groups Hold Picnic at Kennywood

The joint outing of the Knights of Columbus and the Catholic Daughters of America was scheduled to be held at Kennywood Park today. This picnic, held annually, draws thousands from all sections of Western Pennsylvania. David Martin is chairman of the committee in charge, and others are Louis F. S. Cook, Catherine J. Monahan and John P. Killeen.

The Verona-Oakmont community picnic, under the auspices of the boards of trade, will be held at Kennywood tomorrow.

Chinese to Study Railroading Here

H. K. Chang, one of the 10 young Chinese chosen by their country to study American methods of railroading, has been assigned to the Pennsylvania Railroad, Central Region, it was announced yesterday. He will be associated with the office of J. B. Baker, chief engineer of maintenance of ways here.

3 Get Hearing for Election Judgeship

Three candidates for appointment as judge of election in the Sixth district of the Fifth Ward, to succeed William H. Brown, resigned, are to have a hearing before Judge James H. Gray, in Quarter Sessions Court Thursday. The trio includes Charles P. Sims, John Jones, Jr., and Arthur L. Taylor.

Duquesne Appoints New Business Head

Dr. Albert B. Wright has been appointed head of the school of business administration of Duquesne University, it was announced yesterday.

Dr. Wright is a graduate of the Illinois Wesleyan University. His graduate work was done at the University of Illinois and Duquesne University.

Surpassing Rival, Woman Finds 168 4-Leaf Clovers

When Mrs. J. H. Isherwood, R. D. No. 1, Rosedale, Verona, saw in the Sun-Telegraph recently that a young woman had found 34 four-leaf clovers in Leonardtown, Md., she decided that her clover-finding record was much better than that.

In a patch of clover in her yard, Mrs. Isherwood found 168 four-leaf clovers and nine five-leaf clovers, she says, and had them on exhibition in her home for some time.

BETHEL PICKS CANDIDATES

Bethel Township moved a step nearer its first-class status last night with the adoption of a political platform and slate of candidates for township offices. Reported by the Bethel Township Citizens' Association, the following candidates were suggested:

Felix A. Gunther, Charles D. Wallace, Orrie F. Murray, A. W. Devlin and Mrs. Faye McMasters, for township commissioners; Jasper Phillips and Dr. Roy Sleppy for justice of the peace; Howard Dietrich and Robert Hurst, for constables, and Richard Studt, for treasurer.

LINCOLN SCHOOL REUNION OCT. 9

Several generations of Pittsburghers, including some well known members of mercantile and professional circles, on October 9 will meet at a reunion of those who attended the old Lincoln School, Lincoln and Franks-town avenues. Charles A. Finley, head of the Traction Conference Board, is chairman of the general committee.

The school, built 65 years ago in the old Twenty-first, now the Twelfth Ward, is being replaced by a new building. As a last gesture of farewell to the landmark, at a meeting last week, at Finley's home, committees were selected to plan an elaborate program in the old school before it is torn down.

War Veteran Freed On Peddling Charge

Jack Anderson, 37, World War veteran, of 3818 Bates street, arrested yesterday while peddling novelties in the Hill district, was discharged by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg, today.

Anderson had no permit when accosted by police, but produced one when arraigned this morning.

A wedding of much interest to many Pittsburghers, since the bridegroom is the son of a Pittsburgh family, took place yesterday afternoon in the West. The bride was Cornelia Adams, daughter of the Charles Pelham Adamses, of Topeka, Kan., and the bridegroom was Dr. John Speer Donaldson, son of Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Donaldson, of Pittsburgh.

The ceremony was simple and dignified, with the Rev. Dr. Stephen S. Estey officiating, in the library of the Adams home, in the presence of the immediate families. The library was banked with pink and yellow roses and gladioli and cibotium ferns.

Attend Bride

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a simple frock of primrose yellow mull, and carried a colonial boquet of Ophelia roses and white sweet peas. Constance Bone, the maid of honor and only attendant, wore primrose pink organdie and carried an old-fashioned nosegay of pink rosebuds. Rodgers Donaldson, of Pittsburgh, was his brother's best man. Preceding and during the ceremony Mrs. Ona Miller Briefer, of Kansas City, Mo., played the harp.

After the ceremony there was a reception for 125 guests in the garden of the Adams home. Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Donaldson attended the wedding.

This morning Rodgers Donaldson and the bride's brother, Edward Adams, leave for a trip to Colorado and Wyoming.

Society news for late July concerns, as one might expect with such Alp-climbing mercury as we have here nowadays, what Pittsburgh folks in the many popular resorts are doing.

Events at Resorts

Commodore Maitland Alexander and Mrs. Alexander and their daughter Madelaine have arrived at Islesboro, Me. And the arrival of the commodore there is always the signal for the opening of the yachting season.

News come from Saranac Inn, New York, that among the guests at a recent luncheon and contract party given by Mrs. Harrington Mills, wife of the president of Saranac Inn, were Mrs. C. J. Ramsburg, Mrs. George Bissell and W. Eugene Gary.

* * *

On the committee for a bridge party to be given at Spring Lake Beach, N. J., Thursday for the benefit of the Ann May Hospital, is Mrs. T. Clifton Jenkins. This past week-end Mrs. Jenkins and her daughters, Dorothea and Elizabeth, had a house party at their summer place, "Swanhurst."

Hospital Benefit

From gay Southampton comes word that the Edward Purcell Mellons, of New York, gave a dinner Saturday night at Villa Maria. And among their guests was Thomas A. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, brother of the host.

Did you know that Miss Katherine Edwards and a party of friends flew down to Washington last week for luncheon at the National Woman's Country Club of Washington?

More and more entertaining is filling these summer days, in honor of Lillian Lafbury, daughter of the George Lafburys, of Baum boulevard, whose marriage to Merlin Vincent Wills, of New Kensington, will be an event of August 15.

Guest at Affairs

I have already mentioned several that took place during the past week, and on Saturday Virginia Hall, a classmate of the bride at Pennsylvania College for Women, will give a bridge in her home in Wellesley avenue in honor of the bride-elect. On Saturday, August 8, Mrs. L. S. Cotton, of South Bryant avenue, Bellevue, who is to be matron of honor, will give a bridge luncheon in her home. On August 10, Catherine Goldsworthy, of Sheridan avenue, will give a tea in her home and Mrs. David Blair Caldwell, of McPherson boulevard, will be hostess at a swimming party and buffet supper on August 12.

Mrs. Kemble L. Riddle entertained Saturday in Webster Hall. Miriom Kennedy will be hostess at a party on Friday in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association.

McKeesport Girl Honor Guest at Ohio Luncheon

Miss Jeanette Austin entertained in her home in Cleveland recently with a luncheon at which her engagement to John Harrison Hosch, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Harrison Hosch, of Gainesville, Ga., was announced. Honor guests at the luncheon were the hostess' two house guests, Miss Louise Schmidt, of McKeesport, and Miss Emily Price, of Marion, Ind., both former Wellesley College classmates.

Former Pittsburgh Man Married to Ohio Girl

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Lillian Katherine Butler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Butler, in Painesville, O., to Thomas Edward Duddy, son of Mrs. M. J. Duddy and the late Mr. Duddy, of Cleveland, formerly of Mt. Washington, which took place July 6.

Mrs. Elmer Deeds Guest Of Honor at Bridge

Mrs. Park Deeds, of Wilkinsburg, and Mrs. J. M. Coleman, of Braddock, were hostesses at a party given Saturday afternoon at Millbank in honor of Mrs. Elmer Deeds who will sail on July 29 for Europe. Bridge and 500 were played.

Woman Loses $53 To Purse Snatchers

Purse snatchers robbed Mary Kirner, of 204 Broadway avenue, Carnegie, of $53 as she was walking in Sherwood near Zephyr streets, early today. The girl reported to police that the men escaped in an automobile.

Louise Griswold Becomes Bride Of Doctor

One of summer's loveliest weddings took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the home of Ralph Griswold, of Sewickley, when his sister, Miss M. Louise Griswold, daughter of Mrs. W. H. Griswold, of Washington, became the bride of Dr. George A. Dean, of Fairport, N. Y., son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Dean, of Buffalo, N. Y. The Rev. John N. Lukan, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, of Sewickley, officiated.

The home was a bower of saffron gladioli and delicate baby's breath, cibotium ferns and bamboo. Mrs. Rose Leader Chislett, contralto, sang, accompanied by Earl Mitchell, pianist.

Frock Of Mull

The bride wore a charming gown of white point d'esprit. Her veil of tulle and old rose point embroidered with seed pearls, fell in soft folds from a bandeau of shirred tulle and pearls. She carried butterfly roses and white Scotch heather showered with lilies of the valley.

Miss Rebe L. Biggs, of Trumansburg, N. Y., was the maid of honor, and wore a gown of blue lace with a matching hat of horsehair braid, and carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses. Oliver Griswold, of Washington, brother of the bride, served as best man, and the two small flower girls were nieces of the bride, D. Romola Griswold and Patricia Anne Griswold.

The bride's mother wore a gown of platinum grey georgette with a matching hat, and the bridegroom's mother chose green chiffon with a matching hat. Both wore shoulder sprays of yellow roses.

There was a reception and wedding dinner immediately after the ceremony, with the bride's table laid with a cloth of lace, centered with saffron gladioli and baby's breath, supplemented by tall white tapers.

After a wedding trip to the New England States, Dr. and Mrs. Dean will reside in Fairport, N. Y., about September 15.

Pittsburgh guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stotz, of Ben Avon; Mr. and Mrs. John Dambach, Mr. and Mrs. John Chislett and Miss Josephine Hunter and Mr. and Mrs. Jo Ray, all of Pittsburgh.

Girls From Six Countries At Scout Leaders' Camp

The nucleus of a new little league of nations, all the members of which are learning co-operation in the kitchen as well as the council room, is now in process of formation on a Westchester County hill known as "Red Oaks" to the students at Edith Macy, the national Girl Scout Leaders' Training Camp at Briarcliff Manor, N. Y. Six countries, including the United States, are represented in this league which is really a Girl Scout troop living in the encampment "up the hill." The others are China, England, Porto Rico, Mexico and Guatemala.

Just what each hopes to take back in Girl Scout ideas or methods from Camp Edith Macy none had exactly decided, but all agree that the spirit of democracy as practised in America is one with which they would gladly infect their fellow countrywomen.

Speaking specifically of her own country, Miss Leon added that Porto Rico is badly in need of such a recreational leisure time program as that of the Girl Scouts, which is now being introduced there with the co-operation of Governor and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt.

Chilean Navy Hunts Missing Cable Ship

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 21.—(AP)—The Chilean Navy searched the Pacific off Coquimbo today for the West Coast Telegraph Company's cable ship Retriever which, according to unconfirmed reports, had capsized and sunk.

Officials of the company said the report was unfounded. Meanwhile efforts were made to determine where it originated.

Members of Pen League to Meet At Ligonier

The furious rays of the sun are driving many clubwomen out of the city during the summer, as well as society women. Those clubs still holding gatherings during July and August are having outings and luncheons at summer places and boat rides, since papers, no matter how interesting, pall with the mercury aspiring to the century mark.

A summer event for the Pittsburgh branch of the League of American Pen Women will be held tomorrow when Mrs. W. L. Rigg will entertain members at her summer home, near Ligonier. There'll be a luncheon.

AUTUMN MILLINERY MODE TO REQUIRE PERFECT GROOMING

—Sketched in Paris—

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, July 21.—When is a hat like an elevator? When it goes up and down. This minstrel-like riddle just about describes the new millinery mode that is so anxious to get started that it can't wait till autumn. So consequently we find that a hat style that is regarded as an autumn highlight is making its appearance already. And perhaps it is just as well, for it is a radically different shape than those to which we are accustomed and it will consequently take some time getting used to.

But it is vastly becoming, make no mistake about that. It is a hat that requires elegance and grooming if the wearer is to do it justice, and if it is to do justice to the wearer. It needs long, svelte clothes of beautiful cut and design and perfectly dressed hair, for one side of the head is completely revealed by the sharp angle of the brim.

* * *

SKETCHED TODAY are two new hats. The upper figure shows a smart summer hat of white pique. Parallel insets cross the top of the crown over a foundation of black grosgrain ribbon, visible at the front, between the rounding ends of the inset pieces. A small, crisp bow of grosgrain decorates the side front. The second drawing shows one of the new hats, a forerunner of the autumn trade. This model is done in black picot straw and is by Mme. Jose. The crown is very shallow and melon-shaped, fitting snugly over the top of the head. The narrow brim rolls up very sharply at one side and over it are curled three little feather breasts, in red, white and green.

NEW YORK, July 21.—After spending an early summer vacation in Europe, Dr. Jeanette Cohen, of Cathedral Mansions, Pittsburgh, returned yesterday on the Laconia. Dr. Cohen passed most of the time in England and France, while abroad.

Veteran Pilot Dies In Forced Landing

BATON ROUGE, La., July 21.—(AP.)—Kirtley Jones, 38, veteran pilot for the Wedell Williams Air Service, Inc., was killed last night as he attempted to make a forced landing near Seegan Station, 10 miles south of Baton Rouge.

Women Outnumber Men, Bay State Census Shows

BOSTON.—Women outnumber men in Massachusetts, the fair sex comprising 51.2 per cent of the total 1930 population of 4,249,614, while the mere men furnish the remaining 48.8 per cent, according to statistics issued by the federal census bureau.

The women have been leading the men of Massachusetts in this respect since 1910 when the respective percentages were 50.8 and 49.2. Slowly but surely, Jill is leading Jack up the population hill in the Old Bay state.

Other figures issued by the Census Bureau reveal that the per cent of adult population is increasing. It is now at 63.2 per cent.

Native-born whites, who make up 73.9 per cent of the population, showed an increase of 3.2 per cent from the 1920 figure of 70.7 per cent, while foreign-born whites showed a decrease of 3.2 per cent over the same period. It was pointed out that more of the foreign-born whites are becoming naturalized.

Negroes and representatives of other race groups showed no increase in population over the 1930 figures.

Miss McCommon Is Married to Boston Man

The marriage of Miss Frances Vernon McCommon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ross McCommon, of Sheridan avenue, East End, to George Van Dyke Emerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Emerson, of Boston, Mass., took place Saturday evening in the home of the bride's parents. The Rev. George C. Fisher, pastor of the Highland Presbyterian Church, officiated.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin and old lace embroidered with seed pearls, and a veil of tulle finished with a cap of tulle caught with orange blossoms, and a pearl chin strap. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Nancy Isable Riale, of Kennett Square, Pa., who wore pale green organdie with a pink picture hat, as maid of honor, and Miss Muraine Haythorn was bridesmaid, wearing flowered net over blue, with a blue picture hat. Gildas Metour was best man.

After a motor trip Mr. and Mrs. Emerson will make their home in Buffalo, N. Y.

Miss Katherine Schulte To Marry J. W. Amon, Jr.

The engagement of Miss Katherine Schulte, daughter of Charles H. Schulte, of Bellevue, to Joseph W. Amon, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Amon, of the North Side, was announced at a bridge tea given by her sister, Mrs. Irwin G. Sarver, of West View, in her home Saturday afternoon. Five tables were in play. No lumps or coarse ice crystals mar the smoothness of Meadow Gold Ice Cream

Buy it in the wrapped, sealed "carry-home" package

IT'S THE ice cream sensation of the day . . . this new way of freezing that brings velvety smoothness, a richer, creamier texture to Meadow Gold Ice Cream. Not a single lump or ice crystal mars its delicious flavor.

Made of good things

Meadow Gold's "smooth-freeze" method brings out to the full the rich dairy products of which this finer ice cream is made. Sweet farm cream . . . pure milk . . . vanilla and chocolate flavors made right from the beans . . . fresh fruits in season — real fruits always. There's never a substitute used in making Meadow Gold.

Buy this smoother, more delicious ice cream in the Meadow Gold wrapped, sealed, "carry-home" package. Let the children have all they want of Meadow Gold Ice Cream. It's good for them.

Ask your dealer

The dealers who offer you Meadow Gold have been selected because they give this ice cream the same scrupulous care as it receives in the making. Ask for it at your soda fountain.

Club Fights for Robbie. Clark's Great Hurling. Drab Season for Blake. Tax as Fight Factor. Retzlaff vs. Hamas. Polo Growing Here.

ROBINS RESENT SLAMS AT MANAGER

IF THE BROOKLYN players were given a say in the matter, Manager Wilbert Robinson would stay right on the job from which it is generally understood he is to be ousted at the close of the present baseball season. The Robins, to a man, are strong for their veteran boss, and when they come to Pittsburgh for a string of six games in four days, starting with a doubleheader tomorrow, they will be on their toes in an effort to keep up a drive in which they have won 23 of their last 32 games and which they declare was born of a feeling of resentment toward the critics who have been crying for Robbie's scalp.

Wilbert Robinson

From Capt. Glenn Wright down to the most obscure sub, the Flatbush pastimers have rallied to the defense of the portly pilot. As one scribe who sounded their sentiments puts it, Robbie is not a driver like John McGraw or Joe McCarthy. His players don't fear him. He isn't "Mister" Robinson to them. He's just plain Robbie, and there isn't a player on the squad not heart and soul with him. If hustling to win can hold his job for him they're out to go the limit.

WRIGHT AND HIS mates believe that Robbie has been the victim of unjust criticism and say it was because they resented the attacks made on him that they pulled themselves together and launched a winning drive. That spurt was, in effect, according to the former Pirate shortstop, who has been mentioned as a possibility to succeed Robinson, a vote of confidence in Robbie from the players.

"They blamed Robbie for that terrible slump we were in at the beginning of the season," Wright says. "That was silly. Could Robbie go up there and hit for me? Could he go up and hit for Frank O'Doul? Of course not. We were all playing bad baseball for no reason at all. It wasn't Robbie's fault. We all got burned up at the raps he had to take because we were going so poorly. This spurt is just our way of telling some of the baseball writers to lay off knocking Robbie." "Robbie's an ace for my dough," Johnny Frederick adds. "When we were losing he took the rap for us. Now that we're winning I don't see any one giving him any credit. He's a great guy, Robbie is."

WHILE THE WINNING streak of William Watson Clark, Brooklyn southpaw, was being halted at seven games yesterday, that of Fred Marberry, Washington righthander, was being extended to eight straight.

Marberry, with nine victories to his credit, is charged with only one defeat this season, having lost to the A's on April 24. But he has been lifted from three other games, and yesterday's event was only the third full contest he has pitched. He scored three of his victories as a relief hurler.

THOUGH CLARK DID not succeed in winning as many consecutive games as Marberry, his pitching has been of a much higher quality than that of the Washington flinger. Even when the Cubs stopped him yesterday he allowed just three hits and was beaten only by a 1-to-0 score. The work of the Robin southpaw since his last previous defeat on May 5 has not been surpassed by any hurler in the big show. In his seven straight wins and yesterday's defeat he allowed a total of only 10 runs for eight games. He pitched three shutouts in the string, allowed one run once, two runs three times and three runs once.

Fred Blake

THE ACQUISITION OF Pitcher Fred (Sheriff) Blake from the Cubs by the waiver route doesn't promise to help the Phillies a whole lot unless there is a vast change for the better in the form of the one-time Pirate.

Blake has been one of the greatest pitching disappointments of the season. He hasn't won a game nor gone the distance. He started five times and was lifted on every occasion. Other appearances were made in relief roles.

THE PIRATES OBTAINED Blake on waivers from the Reds in 1920, but dropped him after using him in only 13 innings of relief work. He was with Rochester the next two seasons, with Seattle in 1923, and joined the Cubs in 1924.

In seven and a half years with the Bruins he won 81 games and lost 88. His best season was that of 1928, when he won 17 games and lost 11. Last year he won 10 and lost 14. It is said the Phils will have to drop a player to make room for Blake, as they were reported up to the limit of 25.

IN THE OPINION of Luis Guiterrez, manager of Kid Chocolate, it is not an injured eye, but the income tax, that will keep Max Schmeling from meeting Primo Carnera or any other opponent this year. The larger the income the heavier the tax, and Guiterrez thinks Schmeling has figured it will be to his financial advantage not to fight again until 1932. It is estimated that Max will have to pay not more than from 6 to 10 per cent on the sum he got in Cleveland, but if he should take on another fight this year and make two or three times the amount he received for defeating Stribling his tax would be up around 25 per cent. Guiterrez says if he waits until after January 1 his tax will be only one-half, and that's what he predicts Max will do.

NEW YORK PROMOTERS scent a coming heavyweight natural, with Charley Retzlaff, of Duluth, and Steve Hamas, former Penn State athlete, as the principals. The Queensboro Club plans to use the men in separate bouts in a couple of weeks and then throw them in together soon afterward.

Since Retzlaff and Hamas stopped Ralph Ficucello and Ted Sandwina on the same card last week, arguments among the eastern fans as to the respective possibilities of Charley and Steve have reached fever heat. Admirers of Hamas are going so far as to compare him with Jack Dempsey at the same stage of the latter's career. Retzlaff battle which the promoters think will draw a crowd of proportions to bulge the walls.

POLO IS RAPIDLY gaining in popularity in Pittsburgh. The activities of the Pittsburgh Polo Club have caused the ancient game to win favor among local sportsmen, and big things are expected at the new field on Squaw Run Drive, Fox Chapel.

George Vang

The Pittsburgh Polo Club was formed a little more than a month ago from among members of the Pittsburgh Hunt Club, and it has been giving local society plenty of thrills in exhibitions of horsemanship and skill with the mallet and ball. To become a member of the polo club, you must first be a member of the hunt club, though not all members of the hunt club are poloists.

COL. GEORGE CHERRINGTON, manager of the hunt club, outlines a busy program for the polo club. Games will be played each Saturday afternoon until October, and a number of well-known teams will be brought here for engagements. The Pittsburgh team is gaining rapidly in experience and hopes soon to acquire further strength by the addition of a number of valuable recruits. The present playing roster includes academy and eastern university players and other local horsemen. George Vang, of Monongahela, who has shown a penchant for speed-boating and rare ability to ride horses, has been one of the prominent figures to give impetus to polo in this city. David I. McCahill, Sr., who sponsored the present hunt club, and David, Jr., who is a brilliant local player and who was captain of the Shadyside Academy team last season, are leaders in society's adoption of the game here.

BUCK IN LEAD UNTIL END IN FOURTH

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

"I'm the happiest fellow in the world. I always thought I could do it and Frank Klaus, my manager, made me do it. Give him all of the credit."

"I was caught with a sleeper, a fluke punch, when I was winning all of the way. I'd like to fight him again, any day in the week."

Jimmy Belmont

Those, respectively, were the statements of Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, and Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, at the end of their grudge battle in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, last night, which resulted in a sensational technical knockout victory for Belmont after 1 minute 23 seconds of the fourth round.

Up to the final blow, a left hook flush on the jaw, with Belmont crowding in and McTiernan's back to the ropes, McTiernan was a mile ahead on points. He had won the first three rounds with a spectacular display of close-range fighting, featuring a thudding right-hand attack to the body, and was continuing the barrage until Belmont suddenly lashed out and rushed in swinging. He leveled off with a right and Buck sent in one of his own and Belmont then drove home the finishing left to McTiernan's unprotected jaw.

REFEREE STOPS BOUT

Buck, a 10-to-6 favorite in the betting to win the long-awaited clash, dropped forward as if shot, landing with his face on the canvas. Dramatically, as Timekeeper A. C. Couch pounded off the seconds with the gavel close to where he fell, Buck slowly began to pull himself together, and, at nine, he dragged himself clear of the floor, but he was out on his feet and Referee Grayber wisely rushed in and grabbed him and halted the bout. McTiernan did not know until he was told later exactly how the battle ended. His rising was

THOMPSON PRO GOLF LEADER

OAKLAND BEACH, CONNEAUT LAKE, Pa., July 21.—Playing through intermittent showers, Jack Thompson, professional at the Tippecanoe Country Club, Youngstown, posted a 37 on the outgoing nine of his morning round to maintain his nine strokes advantage over his nearest competitor as the Oakland Beach professional tournament entered its final 36 holes.

Ted Luther, of Corry, compiled a total of 35 to move into second place, nine strokes behind the flying leader. Al Alcroft, Youngstown, who trailed in second place yesterday, faltered this morning, using 38 to land one stroke behind Luther.

Thirty-two of the original starting field of 40 teed off this morning for the last two rounds. However, it is apparent that Luther and Alcroft are the only two who have the slightest chance of overtaking the blond coungstown shotmaker.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: AN INCANDESCENT LAMP CAN BE LIGHTED WITH A MATCH—The lighted match when placed in front of the photo-electric tube, or "electric eye," causes a slight current in the photo tube. This faint current is amplified in a Thyratron vacuum tube amplifier so that the current is sufficient for operating a switch attached to the 1,000-watt incandescent lamp, which is operated from the ordinary house circuit. With this apparatus, as little as ten-millionth of a watt can control a maximum output of 10,000 watts—an amplification of 10,000,000,000 fold. The apparatus has been constructed for experimental research in the laboratories of the General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Hornsby, Schalk, O'Doul Get $50 Fines

CHICAGO, July 21.—(AP.)—Manager Roger Hornsby and Coach Ray Schalk, of the Cubs, and Outfielder Lefty O'Doul, of the Robins, have received notice from President John Heydler, of the National League, that they each have been fined $50 for the run-in with Umpire McGrew in the first game of the current series Saturday. Hornsby and Schalk were banished from the game in the first inning and O'Doul was ejected in the ninth.

MISS HUNTER GOLF VICTOR

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 21.—Heavy rainfall during the afternoon marred the annual invitation tournament for women golfers at the Nemacolin Country Club yesterday. Two hundred eight women were entered.

Anjeanette Hunter, of Oakmont, was medalist with a gross 90. Her handicap of four gave her a net 86.

Mrs. A. J. Wyant, Edgewood, and Mrs. F. I. Saunders, Youghiogheny, tied for first and second low net, with cards of 77.

Mrs. H. E. McCamey, Field Club, won the visitors' low net prize. Emily Reed, Oakmont, won in the first division with net 80. Mrs. R. K. McConnell, St. Clair, and Mrs. D. A. Garber, Stanton Heights, tied for second in the first division with net 87 each.

ANDERSON RECOVERS

ROCHESTER, Minn., July 21.—(AP.)—Heartly (Hunk) Anderson, Notre Dame senior football coach, was discharged from a local hospital yesterday after several weeks of treatment for meningitis and appendicitis. He will remain here at least until August 1 for further treatment.

JACK, MICKEY END TRAINING

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—With $85,000 in the till, weather fine, and the athletes in fine trim and growling at each other, the 15-round duel of Jack Sharkey and Mickey Walker, the good big man and the good little one, seemed headed today toward financial as well as artistic success.

Big Jack and Little Mickey meet tomorrow night at Ebbets Field over the 15-round championship route for the left-wing heavyweight crown, as opposed to the right wing which Max Schmeling rules. Schmeling, named champion by the New York State Athletic Commission after he defeated Sharkey on a foul, has since been deposed by the solemn solons and the Boston sailorman set up in his place.

Sharkey, with only the four rounds he toyed with Schmeling before planking one low as a fighting record for almost two years, seems to be razor-edge fit for his match with the retired king of the middleweights. He wound up his training yesterday at Pompton Lakes, N. J., slightly under 200 pounds in heft, trim in body, his boxing skill sharply tuned, his hitting touch deft and sure.

Sharkey has been in training since March 19, the early work being devoted to preparation for a bout with Primo Carnera that was ruled out by the federal court.

At Orangeburg, N. Y., Walker wound up his training work in probably the best condition he has attained in recent years. He will weigh around 170 pounds, almost 30 less than Sharkey, but he has the chest and shoulders of a heavyweight. Both are close to the 30-year-old mark and their ring careers date back over 10-year periods.

While what little betting there was featured Sharkey at 2 to 1—, and most of the experts think it should be 50 to 1—the apparent lopsidedness of the match has failed to dampen the interest of the faithful. With continued fine weather, a gate between $150,000 and $200,000 is in prospect, large money for any match at this time.

The Hearst Milk Fund, promoting the match with Jimmy Johnston, has decreed that there shall be no broadcast.

Willie Hoppe Is Signed for Movies

LOS ANGELES, July 21.—(AP.)—Willie Hoppe, holder of many world billiards records, has been signed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to make special short subject talking motion pictures. Hoppe will demonstrate the technique that made him the world champion 18.2 balk line player.

JOHNNIES TOP FAIRMONT

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 21.—Only two games were played in the Middle Atlantic League yesterday, three other scheduled tilts being rained out.

In the local battle, the Johnnies crushed Fairmont, 6 to 2, and at Cumberland, Md., the Colts blanked Scottdale, 3-0.

Girl Sets New Shot Put Mark

DORTMUND, Germany, July 21.—(AP.)—Fraulein G. Haublein, of Elberfeld, bettered the world record for women in the shotput yesterday, tossing the eight-pound ball 13.16 meters, or 43 feet 2⅛ inches.

SERIES FINAL WITH BRAVES CALLED OFF

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Rain washed out the final game of the Pirates-Braves series today, the Beaneaters preparing to depart for Chicago after having played only two of the four scheduled games. Yesterday's contest was scratched off the card due to rain, and the Bucco officials called off today's fray at 2 o'clock when a right husky fall of rain struck the city.

It was announced that the game will be played off when the Braves come through here on their final Western swing. Tomorrow, the Brooklyn Robins will come to town, opening their stay with a doubleheader.

ROBINS IN STRIDE

Uncle Robbie's club had played brilliant ball the past month. They are a hard crew to figure. Last year they were generally picked for a second-division berth, but when August rolled along they were fighting the Cardinals for the first-place honors.

The critics thought so well of the Flatbush boys this year many of them assigned Uncle Robby to a lofty berth, but the team went into a nose dive in the first month of the season. Eventually, however, the Robins found themselves and now they are considered flag contenders in some quarters.

Personally, I do not think the Robins stand a good chance in the flag fight. I picked the Redbirds in the spring training period, and I'll have to stick to them. Gabby Street has one of the best teams in the game; in fact, I think the Cards are every bit the equal of the Athletics with Charley Gelbert in the lineup. Over a long stretch of battles, I believe they would take the A's, owing to the durable slab staff owned by the Cardinals.

Nevertheless, the Robins should be given much praise for the manner in which they have shaken off their second-division habits. Uncle Robbie's pitchers are functioning well, and his proved hitters are beginning to come through for him.

PLAY SIX GAMES

The Brooklyn fighters must take on the Pirates in six clashes, dual attractions being listed for tomorrow and Saturday. The series should be extremely interesting, inasmuch as the invaders still think they have a good chance to cop. Then, again, the Pirates are making a hard effort to get their team up to a nobler crest.

The Giants will be the last of the Seaboard clubs to reach the city. The aggressive McGraw and his colorful outfit are due to open here next Monday.

U. S. Netmen Sail For Home Tomorrow

PARIS, July 21.—(AP.)—The American Davis Cup tennis forces, with the exception of Frank Shields, packed their racquets today in preparation for embarking tomorrow on the Ile De France for New York.

Shields will appear in an exhibition doubles match next Saturday, in connection with the Davis Cup challenge round between France and England. He expects to participate in the tournament at Le Touquet next week, when he will have a chance to meet several of the French Davis Cup players.

Knoxville Given Mobile Franchise

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 21.—The franchise of Mobile in the Southern Association has been transferred to Knoxville, Tenn., effective today. Mobile was forced to give up its place in the league owing to lack of support.

Today Knoxville will meet Chattanooga, with a double-header booked for tomorrow.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

WASHINGTON, July 21.—An outfit that has exceeded all the Dow Jones averages and Babson charts this season is the Boston Braves. The experts elected them the assistant doormat of the National League at the start of the season, but the Braves have been moseying amongst the fringe of the first division all summer and the home town is nuts about the team.

Nick Altrock

Boston may be called the Athens of America, but that's because it has so many Greek restaurants. Just give it a ball club with half a chance and it's a second Brooklyn, only the Boston fans hurl library books instead of pop bottles.

SIMPSON GETS HEARST AWARD AT DINNER

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Walter Simpson

Walter Simpson, the 17-year-old caddie at the Washington County Golf and Country Club, who will be the honor guest at a dinner to be held by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph at 7 o'clock tonight in Webster Hall, as a result of his feat in recording a par 66 to win the fourth annual junior amateur tourney for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy, and other prizes in the event staged at the Schenley Park municipal links, June 30, credits J. P. Shaw, member of the Washington club, with the needed encouragement that spurred him on to victory.

"I was out in 37," says modest Walter, in retelling the story, "and I didn't think I had much of a chance as I faced the homeward holes. Mr. Shaw, who had been following my play, told me if I didn't score a lot of 3s and win the tourney he'd be off me for life—and who would like to lose the friendship of a fine man like Mr. Shaw?"

So Simpson batted out four 3s on the next four holes, then dropped a putt for a 2 and took another 3 on the fifteenth hole to start a homeward trek that totaled 29 strokes and won him the beautiful William Randolph Hearst Trophy, a set of five steel-shafted irons and a gold medal.

Weather permitting, the Spanish Garden in Webster Hall should be a colorful scene tonight as the prize-winners and officials of the tourney gather about the festive board.

BURKE MAIN SPEAKER

John Jay Burke, city office manager for the Allegheny County Parks, the man who has built up Schenley Park as a clearing house for private club players, the fatherly soul who has encouraged junior golf as honorary director of the tourney in its four years, and the man who eats, sleeps and works for golf, will be the main speaker of the evening, and will present the winners the spoils of their battle, won in a field of 413, which played in the tourney proper, and from a total field of 675 entries. Vern Swartsfager is to be master of ceremonies.

Alec Roni, of Castle Shannon, who was second, with 68, will receive a driver and golf medal; Frank Podmilsak, who won the playoff for third place, will receive an iron and a silver medal, and Dave Wilson, Stanton Heights caddie, who won the fourth place playoff with a 69, will receive a bronze medal.

The Castle Shannon Golf Club will receive the club caddie team plaque, and the individual members of the team, Roni, John Pecovich, August Buckey and John Kletch, will be awarded gold medals. The Beaver Valley team, runnerup, Winston Wertz, Sam Nalesnik, Arthur Zubrawski and Al Nesbitt, will receive silver medals.

KAUFFMANN TO ATTEND

Other honor guests will include Carl F. Kauffmann, former national public links champion; the three former Hearst champions; Joe Curto, Joe Stevenson and Anthony Myers; Bill Farren, KDKA sports announcer, and J. S. Pollock, chairman of the green committee, and J. P. Shaw, of the Washington County G. & C. C.

Other guests will include:

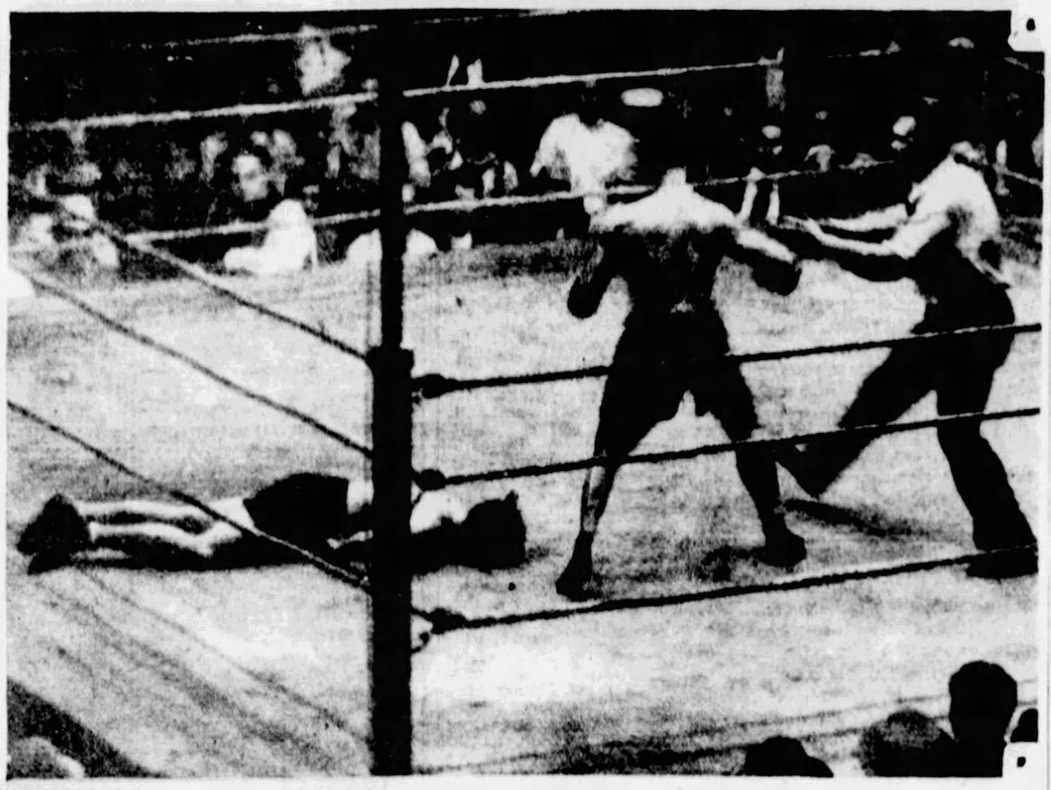
Dramatic Ending of McTiernan-Belmont Feud—Buck Knocked Out!

BELMONT McTIERNAN REFEREE GRAYBER

McTIERNAN BELMONT REFEREE GRAYBER



SECOND ROUND

Buck McTiernan blocking Jimmy Belmont's right and pounding his own right to the body in the second round of their grudge battle at the Meyers Bowl last night.

McTIERNAN REFEREE GRAYBER BELMONT

Loser up at count of nine after knockdown in fourth round. Referee Grayber noted his groggy condition and immediately stopped the bout, giving Belmont credit for a technical knockout victory. The defeat of McTiernan was the dramatic ending of a local feud.

KNOCKDOWN AND FINISH OF M'TIERNAN

instinctive, and the round was not yet half over.

Explaining the finish later, Belmont, who appeared extremely nervous and fidgety when he entered the ring, in contrast to the complacent McTiernan, said he had gone into the bout in great shape and confident his punching powers would win for him. He said he was not in distress from McTiernan's heavy body pounding and simply was awaiting a chance to score cleanly.

"Earlier in the fight I noticed that Buck was inclined to drop his right hand," he said, "and I was just short with a left hook that would have turned the trick then. In the fourth round, I got the opening I wanted for the punch and it was all over."

LOSER FORCES FIGHT

McTiernan, who was seconded by Johnny Ray for the first time, intimated before the bout that he would return to boxing in this battle. He said he was certain he could outbox Belmont and did not intend to take any chances fighting because of the importance of scoring a victory. However, he crossed up this dope by making a fighting go of it from the start. He kept on top of Belmont and did not give him a chance to swing and tied up Jimmy inside while he belted away lustily with rights to the body.

The second round was a repetition of the first, and in the third Jimmy got over his first good punch during some mixing in a neutral corner. Buck recovered immediately and continued to press the fighting, and for a whole minute just before the bell did not let Jimmy get out of the corner. Belmont finally backed him across the ring with a rush and a series of lefts as the round ended.

Then came the fourth round, with McTiernan continuing the master until the final blow went home.

McTiernan, after the bout, explained his fighting instead of boxing.

"My idea," he said, "was to hammer Belmont about the body until he weakened and dropped his hands, when I planned to shift the attack to the jaw. He beat me to it."

As the battle ended, Manager Klaus led Belmont across the ring, and he shook hands with Johnny Ray and Belmont with McTiernan, thus ending the bitter feud that had had the fans buzzing. Whether or not the pair will meet again remains to be seen. The contract for last night's bout called for a return match in the event McTiernan was the loser. In view of the fact that Buck was far in front on points until he was clipped, a rematch in due time would not be out of order.

McTiernan outscaled Belmont by five rounds at 3 p. m., weighing 152¾ pounds against 147¾. It was their first meeting as professionals, although they had boxed twice as amateurs several years ago, with McTiernan losing the first bout on a foul and winning the second by a technical knockout.

SEASON'S LARGEST CROWD

The crowd last night was the biggest of the season at the Bowl and might have been larger but for the threatening weather right up to time for the first bout to go on. The boxers were paid off on net receipts of $5,038.

Eddie Brannon, Negro, of the Hill, 137¼, won all of the way over Eddie Edelman, reputed Eskimo, of Alaska, 130¼, in the eight-round semi-final, put on after the main bout. Edelman had no class and was just a punch absorber and spoiled the battle by running and covering. He is a southpaw of very little ability.

Meyer Frager, of the North Side, and formerly of Chicago, 134¾, handed Jimmy Dontella, of Johnstown, 130¼, a beating in the six-round second bout, the bell saving Jimmy after a knockdown for a count of nine in the fifth round, and Carl Montebano, of Braddock, 159½, knocked out Jack Kelly, of North Lima, O., in 1 minute 13 seconds of the first round of the opener. Due to the two knockouts, the show was over by 10:15 p. m.

Joe Keally alternated with Grayber as referee, Frank Ferris and Jock Simco were the judges, A. C. Couch and Tommy Grant the timers, Ray Eberle the announcer and Dr. M. R. Goldman the commission physician.

It was announced that Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, recent conqueror of McTiernan, will box Bucky Lawless, of Auburn, N. Y., in the main bout at the Bowl next Monday night.

Between Rounds

Andy Andrucci, of Homewood, has been matched to box U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, in the second bout and Young Bordell, of New Kensington, to meet Al Farone, of the West End, in the opener to complete the card for the Jimmy Thomas-Willie Davies return bout show at Hickey Park, Thursday night. Young Rudy and Ray Lyle are in the semi-final.

Apples Meyers, Meyers Bowl promoter, left after last night's fight for New York to take in the Jack Sharkey-Mickey Walker battle at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, tomorrow night.

Marty Gornick, of Whitaker, who recently knocked out Joey Lawrence in Dayton, O., has been signed for a return 10-rounder there with Johnny Curtin, of Dayton, as his opponent Wednesday night of next week. Mike Dundee will box Spug Meyers in the other feature bout and the winners of the two events will make up the windup at a later show.

Billy McCarney, part manager of Champion Max Schmeling, was a visitor in Pittsburgh yesterday, en route to New York. Eddie Mead and Joe Lewis, of Cleveland, were spectators at the Bowl battles.

Johnny Jadich, who defeated Tony Herrera at the Bowl Monday night of last week, will return there August 10, either in a return go with Herrera or against another good lightweight.

Buddy McArthur, McKeesport lightheavyweight, who knocked out Billy Bruno at Hickey Park last Thursday night, is gunning for a match with Tiger West.

Sharkey Lesko, McKeesport welterweight, now is under the management of Bernard Kelly, Jr., who has him ready for fights.

Billy Holt and Larry Madge will box the six-round semi-final to the K. O. Kelly-Joe Walters bout at Franklin, Pa., Thursday night. Freddie Boylstein meets Benny Burns and Hans Roberts engages Eddie Allen in the two preliminaries.

Tony George boxes Jimmy Dean, Harry Leppke meets I. T. Battles and Smith Harding battles Paul Morosky in preliminaries to the Maxie Strub-Herman Perlick bout at Erie, Friday.

STARS TO PLAY IN NET EVENT

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Seekers after honors and trophies in the second annual Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pittsburgh Public Parks tennis championships must file entries before midnight tomorrow or remain outside the coveted pale of competition for the handsome Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Public Parks men's and women's singles challenge cups and the right to represent the Steel City area as all-expense-paid guests of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph at the National Public Parks championships, in Detroit, the week of August 17.

Three dangerous mixers in the men's troupe were listed among yesterday's entries. Two—Ward Murphy and Milton King—will scrimmage at Olympia, with the third, Herbert Lomask, billed for Schenley. Ruth Staiger, 1930 Riverview premiere, likewise was a Monday comer. She once more will cavort on the North Hills surfaces.

By special ruling of the tournament referee, entry blanks placed in the mail and postmarked before midnight Wednesday will be accepted as valid.

The list of latest tourney entries:

Milton S. King, Olympia; Ward Murphy, Olympia; Herbert Lomask, Schenley; Ruth B. Staiger, Riverview; Edward Schafer, West; Joseph Schotz, Olympia; John McDonald, West; Frank Markey, West; Charles Vollmer, West; Saul Spiegel, Schenley; Merrill J. Goldstein, Schenley; Thomas Murphy, Schenley; Lester Hafner, Schenley; Kenneth Nelting, Frick; Max Haustath, Frick; Robert Weghurst, Frick; Arthur R. Smith, Highland; Oscar A. Spirer, Highland; Sol Kurtz, Highland; Louis F. Buran, Riverview.

Homestead Grays at North Side Civics.

By TOM BIRKS

One of the outstanding battles of the season will be played at Langley High School Field this evening when the Homestead Aces and Reliance Life clash in what should be the deciding game for the first half championship of the West Penn loop.

Manager Jack Fertig has primed Conley for the game, while Gormley or Spencer surely will take the mound for Reliance. Reliance must beat Homestead in this game, win over the Martins, at Garfield, and then go into a playoff and beat Homestead again before the title will be in the bag.

At the Union High School stadium Turtle Creek and Swissvale Community will do their stuff in a local derby.

The North Side Civics are scheduled for two games this evening, one with Book Shoe, and another with the Homestead Grays. They will pass up the league game to play the Grays, who defeated the Crafton Church League All-Stars last evening, 12-4.

Only two games will be played in City League. Dormont meets the North Side Buicks at Pleasant Valley, and the J. L. Thomas nine hooks up with Homewood.

SIMENDINGER INJURED

CAMDEN, N. J., July 21.—(A.P.)—Kenneth (Si) Simendinger, 30, former Holy Cross football star, lay seriously injured in a hospital today as the result of an automobile accident yesterday. X-ray photographs revealed the former fullback had sustained three fractured ribs, and a possible fracture of the skull. His left ear was almost severed by flying glass.

S. A. R. GOLFERS AT STANTON

The Pittsburgh Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, is holding a one-day golf tourney, the only competition slated for this immediate district today at the Stanton Heights Golf Club. Dr. H. R. Decker is in charge d'affairs. Dinner is to follow this evening.

Tomorrow two important tournaments are on the slate. Aside from a record field beginning battle for the undefended Western Pennsylvania junior championship, at the Alcoma Country Club, the largest number of entries ever to place their names on the lists for a Pennsylvania golf association one-day handicap medal play will compete at the Edgewood Country Club.

The youngsters will endeavor to qualify in the titular fight for Regis Wolff's crown at 36 holes medal play tomorrow. Match play against par, in foursomes, with prizes for low net and gross, and special awards to those who are able to score 75 or better, will be held at Edgewood.

The first players will tee off at 8:45 at Edgewood tomorrow, with the last scheduled to get under way at 5:32. Entries, however, did not close until noon today at the P. G. A. office, 1101 Farmers Bank Building.

O. D. Bleakley, of Wanango, is an added starter tomorrow at Alcoma. He plays at 11 o'clock.

Cubs Ready to Bid $50,000 for Shires

CHICAGO, July 21.—(AP.)—The Chicago Tribune said today that William Wrigley, Jr., owner of the Chicago Cubs, is preparing to bid in the neighborhood of $50,000 for Arthur (The Great) Shires, first baseman of the Milwaukee Brewers, of the American Association.

The Milwaukee club hopes to receive at least $75,000 for Shires, the Tribune said. Not only is the Cub owner anxious to obtain him, the newspaper continued, but the Cleveland Indians, Pittsburgh Pirates and Boston Braves are ready to place bids.

BALLOON BALL TO STAY

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.)—The days of the balloon golf ball may be numbered, as many close observers believe, but it is due for quite a few more flights before anything is done about the protests that have piled up since its adoption this year by the United States Golf Association.

Speculation was revived by the publication of reports that the association was about ready to consign the over-sized sphere to the scrap-heap, but the fact is that no official action has yet been taken, nor is any decision immediately in sight.

This much can be said on the authority of Herbert H. Ramsay, president of the United States Golf Association and the dominating figure in its councils. As to what the future may hold, or what conclusions may be reached after more complete analysis of reports from all parts of the country, Ramsay is diplomatically silent.

The best guess right along has been that the balloon ball will continue to be official for the rest of the 1931 big tournament season. It still holds good. At the same time it will cause no great surprise if the powers-that-be in American golf decide to alter the golf ball specifications for 1932.

Rajah Benches Hack Again—Third Time

CHICAGO, July 21.—Hack Wilson, home run king of the major leagues last year, has been benched for the third time this season for failure to hit.

GOLD MINE NET DECLINES

TORONTO, July 21.—While semi-annual operating statement of Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines merely referred to a sharp decline in earnings as a temporary reduction, it is stated in well informed mining quarters that the decline was due to the fact that no high-grade ore was drawn in the second quarter. In fact, the Schuemacher shaft, through which this ore is hoisted, has been closed for deepening and reconditioning which will take another month to complete, and all ore for some time has been drawn from low-grade workings.

However, 51 machines have been put on development of new ore characterized as high-grade in the Schumacher section, and beginning in August, ore of considerably higher grade should be going to the mill.

Difficulty in Borrowing Stock Keeps Down 'Bear' Activities

One of the several conditions which are operating to hold down the volume of "short sales" just now is the continued extreme difficulty experienced in borrowing stock for delivery against such transactions. And the trader who finds it difficult to make delivery in such instances has little hope for consideration, it is understood, for he must either buy the necessary stock or be "bought in" by the firm to whom delivery is due. This condition, according to gossip current in trading circles, does not apply so much to the average boardroom trader, but has served to discourage anything in the way of substantial bear selling.

Determination of the Interstate Commerce Commission to hear the testimony of the opposition side, in the freight rate increase petition now before it, immediately upon completion of taking of supporting testimony, indicates a disposition to expedite action in the matter. It had been planned originally to begin hearing of opposition testimony August 31, but evidently the commission is making allowance for the professed "emergency" character of the situation.

With the stock selling several points under the subscription price, some people profess to be a little bit mystified by the continued activity in Associated Apparel Industries "rights" quoted at ¼. The "rights" accrue to shareholders under an offering recently made whereby they are privileged to subscribe in the ratio of one new share for each share held for new stock at $10 a share. The stock, however, is selling substantially below the offering price in the open market, moving around 7¼ to 7½, thus it would seem eliminating any real value for the "rights" inasmuch as it is possible to buy the shares in the market much cheaper than by exercising the "rights."

On the basis of estimates prepared by the emergency committee on railroad investments of life insurance companies and mutual savings banks, taking the ratio of the first four months to the full year in past years, and with non-operating income estimated, one house has arrived at the following as indicated share earnings for a number of representative carriers. The following roads are expected to show little or nothing earned for the junior shares this year: St. Paul, Baltimore and Ohio, Northwestern, Illinois Central, Cotton Belt, Southern Railway, Wabash, "Katy," Nickel Plate, Northern Pacific, Pere Marquette and 'Frisco. Atchison is expected to earn about $4 a share, Atlantic Coast Line, $7.54; Chesapeake and Ohio, $3.37; Rock Island, $2.50; Delaware and Hudson, $7.56; Lackawanna, $2.90; Union Pacific, $8.69; Norfolk and Western, $14.42; Pennsylvania, $1.45; New York Central, $1.92, and New Haven, $5.77.

While advices on the leading basic industries including steel, copper, oil, etc., are not encouraging, there have been several domestic developments which have been rather satisfactory in the past week or two. Interests who are inclined to look for a better stock market have enumerated these to their followers with the advice that unless something else happens to offset these leading stocks could be purchased on a scale during reaction. Among the favorable developments to which they call attention are a moderate increase in electric output for the week ended July 11, improvement in retail sales in various lines, evidence of material betterment in the shoe and tanning industries.

That the oil situation may be approaching a climax, is the view in some financial quarters. The developments in the industry in the past few days are likely to prove beneficial unless something new comes up. Conditions are reaching the point where it may be possible to reduce production to such an extent that the output will be under current consumption. This would permit a reduction of stocks above ground and work out to the advantage of the entire industry in the long run. The oil situation has been unsettled for such a long time that a change for the better of conditions would be the most important domestic influence in many months.

NEW FINANCING MEDIA MAY APPEAR

International Corporation To Raise Capital to Lend Poor Countries Proposed

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, July 21.—With the recent vast shrinkage in market value of numerous European, Latin American and other foreign bonds, it may be necessary for bankers to invent new media for financing countries which are still short of capital.

With existing foreign bonds selling at an enormous discount, it is not feasible to float new issues of the same type at this time. Even the outstanding issues are relatively unwanted and debtors could not afford to pledge present yields to new investors.

Mr. Rukeyser

To meet the situation, several new ideas have been proposed. The chief of them is to form international lending corporations, which should raise capital by selling their own bonds in rich countries and then relend funds in poor countries.

Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, who knows finance, has sponsored such a program. In alluding to this suggestion, John T. Madden, director Institute of International Finance, in a paper prepared for the Investment Bankers' Association of America, points out:

"In order to break this vicious circle caused by the decline in the bonds of countries that need more capital; a number of plans have been suggested, the most important of which is the so-called Norman plan, after its most important protagonist, Montagu Norman. The Norman plan would endeavor to restore the international flow of capital by mobilizing the resources of the great central banks and the great financial and industrial concerns in an effort to direct foreign lending channels where it would bring the greatest economic benefit, thereby helping to restore the economic structure of the borrower.

SPECIAL BANKS

"This plan envisages the creation of a special bank which would issue its own bonds in capital rich countries and invest the proceeds in foreign countries, particularly in those which have been hard hit by the present economic depression. The Norman plan has encountered considerable opposition in the United States and France on the ground that these two countries would furnish most of the capital without having full control over the use of the money. It is as yet difficult to foretell the fate of this plan.

"In the meantime, leading bankers in the United States and Europe have recognized the fact that the resumption of the international flow of capital is one of the important prerequisites for revival in business and have taken steps toward this end."

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Bulls Active — Local Stocks Recede

MARKET EASES AFTER EARLY ADVANCE

1 to 3-Point Gains Shown By Leaders as Trading Expands Substantially

NEW YORK, July 21.—(AP.) — A little professional bullish activity was injected in the dormant stock market today.

Bulls naturally failed to attract any important following, with the London conference showing few signs of reaching an important turn, and next week's dividend announcements by the two leading steel makers hanging over the market.

Trading expanded substantially for a time over yesterday's five-year minimum, but the sidelines remained the most popular section of the market. The list eased off slightly, and trading diminished after midday. Gains of 1 to 3 points, however, were recorded.

The market failed to make notable response to President Hoover's proposals to the London conference, which in brief, advocated maintenance of the present volume of foreign credit in Germany, and the selection of a committee, possibly by the Bank for International Settlements, to consider the further credit needs of Germany, including the conversion of some of the Reich's short term credits into long term obligations during coming months.

While these suggestions may have been disappointing to interests seeking the immediate extension of additional large credits to the Reich, they were substantially in accord with the views of some of Wall streets leading bankers.

The continued drain upon the Bank of England's gold stock emphasized the far-reaching unsettlement created by the German crisis. About $12,000,000 in metal was taken from the Bank of England today for shipment to the continent, largely to France.

The second quarter earnings statements, now appearing, continue to include a few bright spots. Hershey Chocolate reported first half net of $5.43 per share, against $4.36 in the like period of last year. Brokerage wires carried forecasts of General Electric's first half statement, indicating that dividend requirements were nearly earned.

Call money in the New York market was a little firmer, with no concessions reported from the official rate of 1½ per cent.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED

Pierce Arrow Omits.

SUGAR MARKET STRONGER

NEW YORK, July 21.—Effective tomorrow, National Sugar Refining Company, American Sugar Refining Company and Arbuckle Brothers have advanced refined sugar 10 points to 4.75c a pound.

The strong sugar market during the past week drew attention to the fact that sugar has now experienced a 50 per cent recovery from the record low price created in September last year. Raw sugar, selling at slightly more than 1½ cents a pound, c. i. f. New York, compares with the record low of 1.04 cents. Trade circles estimate that the improvement in price has given to the 1930-31 crop an additional value of $313,000,000, figuring on an approximate total world production of 28,000,000 tons.

JUST PLAYING AROUND -:- By Lewis Allen Browne

Kitty Threatened by Angry Friend of Escort

CHAPTER XXII.

Should I have been grateful when wealthy and aristocratic Thad Parsons, admitting his mistake in marrying Arline Sargent, informed me that he would divorce her and then marry me?

Perhaps I should have felt a glow of happiness. After all, Thad did love me best and I knew it. He had been tricked into marrying Arline, as he explained, and now, only six months a bride, she was named as co-respondent in a sensational divorce case.

But somehow I wasn't grateful at all. It wasn't because Thad had broken my heart. I knew by this time that it had never been true love on my part. But Thad did break my pride.

"Didn't you hear me, dear?" Thad asked as I remained silent while thinking this over.

His chauffeur was driving slowly around the winding asphalt in the park.

"I said that I intend to divorce Arline at once and then I shall marry you."

"Now isn't that sweet of you!" I finally answered.

Poor Thad! He recognized the tone of sarcasm in my voice.

"I've explained how I felt duty bound to marry Arline, you must know that I loved you, and you alone," he pleaded.

"Who could doubt it, Thad," I cried, heatedly, "you loved me so much and so truly that you let a snobbish, reckless and even worse sort of a girl cajole you into marrying her. The . . ."

"But dearest . . ."

WON'T MARRY HIM

"Just a minute, Thad. The biggest laugh that was ever handed me was when you told me how Arline feared she was compromised! Wasn't that just too bad, now!" I laughed bitterly.

"You speak as if you knew something about her."

"There's the Lawlor case. Believe me, it didn't surprise me."

"Then you had seen things before . . . you knew about her affair with Curt?"

"One week-end at the Lawlor's was enough for that," I told him and then I would say no more.

"I take it," he said, "that I am not forgiven . . . that you won't marry me when I am free."

"No, Thad, I won't marry you. After we were married you might be out with some other girl in a boat and get stuck on a reef at low tide. That would compromise her and you'd have to divorce me and marry her."

"I didn't know you could be so bitter, Katie."

"I didn't know you could be such a fool, Thad. You didn't have to marry Arline. The truth is you were afraid your swell friends would look askance at you because you married a working girl, a dress model."

Synopsis

Because Katherine Mason believes life isn't worth living for a girl unless she can play around and have a gay time, she jilts Peter Thompson, who is poor, expecting to marry wealthy Thad Parsons. Thad suddenly marries snobbish Arline Sargent. Katie doesn't mind as much as she expected she would, and keeps up her parties with several wealthy friends. At the same time she keeps her job as a dress model. Susie Lawlor, a friend of Katie's, suddenly names Thad's bride of six months as corespondent in divorce action. Thad calls on Katie, tells her he will divorce his wife and marry her.

Now Go On

"Perhaps time will heal your bitterness, make you change your mind. Meanwhile I shall divorce Arline and wait and hope. At least we aren't enemies."

"Never. I wouldn't have accepted those gorgeous pearls if I hadn't still felt friendly toward you."

"That's good," he said and then to his chauffeur, "drive back, please and then to the club."

WANTED AS WITNESS

"So you have moved to the club, have you?"

"Naturally."

Just as the car was stopping in front of our apartment block Thad kissed me. I didn't resist, and I certainly didn't cling to him and return the kisses.

Viola was all eagerness when I came in, to hear about it. I told her of the peculiar proposal of marriage from a married man, and of my refusal.

"Hot Pazooka, Katie," Viola cried, slapping me on the back with a hearty thud, "you are all right—I like your spunk."

Two nights later Susie Lawlor called on me.

The moment I saw her at the door I wanted to slam the door and tell her to keep away. I knew what she was after.

I also knew that I had made a great mistake telling Thad Parsons that I had "seen things" between his wife and Curt Lawlor when I was at the Lawlor place for a weekend. That was before Arline tricked Thad into marriage.

"You know why I came, Katie," she finally said.

"I can guess, and I can guess who sent you. You didn't know my address. Thad Parsons has been talking with you."

Susie nodded. If I expected to see her forlorn and hurt I was very much mistaken. If I expected her to be bitter with Arline, that was another mistake.

"Arline did me a good turn, the little fool. It was a mistake, my marrying Curt, but I was loyal and decided to stick it out, until this came up. What you saw at our place was plenty. I want you to be a witness for me, Katie."

"You know that I don't want to do that," I protested.

"I thought you would be willing to help me."

"Ordinarily, yes. But think how it would look—everyone knows that Thad was going with me, and we were crazy about each other. Everyone will say that I testified against his wife solely to get square with him."

"Oh, no, they wouldn't, my dear. They would say that you did it to help Thad—he's left her already. He'll get his divorce—"

"Then they'll say worse things—they'll say I am trying to help frame his wife so as to get him—your husband's smart lawyer will see that and make a big sensational point of it," I argued.

THEORY PROVES RIGHT

Susie Lawlor seemed startled at this phase of the situation.

"I'll talk to my lawyer about it, Katie. I never thought of that. I don't actually need your testimony. I've got the goods on both of them. I wanted to show that I was long-suffering and patient for a long while, knowing what was going on."

"Then if you don't actually need me I surely won't testify. I can always say that I don't remember or that I simply saw them walking together on the beach or sitting chatting in the arbor—and there is nothing in that to help you," I declared.

Susie Lawlor agreed, and we parted good friends.

"I suppose you and Thad will marry, sometime?" she asked, at the door.

"Never, Susie, never," I assured her.

I had been right about it, Susie telephoned me soon after this, when I was at work.

"You were right, my dear. My lawyer says you were bright to think of that point and that if you testified against Arline it could be made to appear like an attempt at a frameup," she said.

So that danger was over and I was thankful.

Viola changed her mind and declared she would testify if Susie Lawlor needed her.

"Go to it, old dear," was my comment, and Viola did visit Susie Lawlor about it. No one could say she had any reason to frame Arline. It was decided that they might use her testimony.

Dear fat Chubb agreed that I was lucky to get out of the mess.

And so did Forrest Malvern when, a few nights later, we went to see a show and then to a night club for some dancing.

To my surprise I saw Arline at the show. She had a girl with her. I didn't know the girl.

"It's dollars to cigaret coupons," Forrest said, "that those two will meet a couple of Johns after the show and go places."

"She wouldn't dare, with this Lawlor case coming up so soon," I ventured.

THREATENED BY FANNY

"She has nothing to lose, Katie—she knows she is in for it and that Thad is through with her," he argued.

After the show, while we were waiting for Forrest's car, we looked everywhere to see if Arline and her friend met any men. They did not, but got into a taxi almost right ahead of us.

Forrest took me uptown to meet some of his friends and around 2 o'clock we went to a certain night club that I had never heard of or read about.

The show they were putting on when the head waiter took us to the table Forrest had reserved was certainly the most brazen thing I ever saw, both for nudity and questionable songs.

Forrest danced with me three times before ordering. When the champagne was brought and he tasted it he made an awful grimace.

"I'll see Ross, he's the manager—they've got good stuff and should have given it to me," he complained.

I was sitting there, watching the dancers, when I felt a hand on my bare shoulder. The hand pinched, the nails cut in. I turned in alarm and found myself staring up at Fanny Dutton. Her eyes were glaring and at the same time red with too much drink. Her face was flushed and she certainly looked as though she would love nothing better than to strangle me right there.

"You cheap little skate," she cried, "you lay off my man or I'll kill you!"

What is Kitty's reply to Fanny Dutton's angry ultimatum? Read tomorrow's absorbing installment.

DAILY SHORT STORY

'Voyanne!'

(All names of characters in this story are fictitious.)

Crystal-Gazer Discloses Startling Secrets

Lucy Pecksniff hated her name.

Lucy did not know her real name. You would be surprised at the number of people in this world of ours who do not know their real names.

Lucy had been adopted. The name of the family was Pecksniff. They did as well as they could by Lucy, but beyond a high school education and a few hundred in cash after they got through with living, that was all.

Lucy knew that she had been adopted, but she never knew her real name. She was thinking seriously of changing it, not by marriage. She wasn't keen on that.

So Lucy went to Hamston, a small city in a distant part of the state, and found employment.

First she worked as cashier in a restaurant. Then she became an assistant in a beauty parlor. She learned a great deal in the beauty parlor. Customers talked and she listened. Women came in and talked together about other women just departed from the shop.

Lucy read the newspaper constantly.

The owner of the beauty shop was the wife of one of the minor city office holders. He told his wife everything in secret, which was how Lucy came to know about it, because his wife related it to the four girls who worked there.

One of Lucy's customers was employed on the daily paper. She wouldn't have anyone except Lucy give her a facial or fix her hair. She chattered a great deal to Lucy about her work and most frequently on the age-old fact that a good newspaperman, or woman, is valuable for knowing what not to make public.

YEARNS FOR ADVENTURE

Lucy learned volumes of things that it was thought best not to print.

For five years Lucy worked steadily in this beauty shop. It was a good shop where good work was done. Mrs. Blane, who owned it, was not the sort to call it a "Shoppe."

Lucy made few acquaintances, kept to herself, saved money and yearned to have adventures, nice excitable adventures of a perfectly thrilling but proper sort.

One didn't have adventures slopping ungents and creams on feminine faces.

Mrs. Martin, who kept the boarding house where Lucy lived all this time, had a son who had been extremely kind to Lucy. He began his law studies in the law school after Lucy came there and he was admitted to the bar.

Fred Martin was managing to get along quite nicely for a young lawyer.

Then he fell in love with Viola Arthur.

Viola's mother was of the Clayton-Arthurs. She had quite a fortune, inherited, and lived in one of the handsomest houses in the city.

Viola wasn't snooty like her mother. She was a wholesome, clever little girl, but always somewhat self-effacing and also obedient.

She was frankly in love with Freddie Martin.

When her mother learned of this she made quite a scene.

Lucy learned about this from Nora Harris, maid at the Arthur home. Nora was anxious to captivate the dashing Nick Burns, owner of a paying garage, and so she became a profitable patron at the beauty shop. She told Lucy some very startling things about Mrs. Arthur.

GETS GOOD IDEA

According to Nora, poor Viola was heartbroken and often crying. Her mother had risen in her autocratic might and told Viola not to be a fool. She wouldn't be disgraced by having her daughter marry the son of a boarding-house keeper.

Oh, Lucy Pecksniff certainly knew a great deal.

One evening, reading a story about a crystal-gazer, Lucy had a sudden idea that made her sit right up and gasp.

The idea seemed like a great adventure, and yet it was simple enough, if one had a little nerve.

The idea was for Lucy to go away. To explain that she was going to the Coast or Canada or some distant place to live with relatives. Then she would go to New York, purchase clothes and equipment, and come back to Hamsden as a crystal-gazer.

Why not?

She certainly could tell a lot of things, because she knew a lot of things.

For six more months Lucy studied palmistry, astrology and read up on dream-books, general fortune-telling and all of that.

Then she told her story about going to live with a rich aunt in Manitoba.

Lucy went to New York, where she registered at the woman's hotel as "Lucille Palmer."

It was a nice name and her own initials.

A few months after Lucy left Hamsden a Miss Lucille Palmer came to Hamsden. Her hair that had been a pale brown was now a striking black. Her eyebrows were black. Her complexion was olive, a Latin olive instead of the rather washed out Lucy Pecksniff fairness.

Lucille opened a little place. They weren't so strict there and then about fortune-tellers.

The "office name" she took was "Voyanne." It wasn't so very correct, but she liked it.

It wasn't so very long before Mrs. Smith would tell Mrs. Robinson about this "Voyanne."

"Most amazing, astounding, fairly make you shudder, the truthful things she tells."

The fame of "Voyanne" spread.

One day Mr. Curtis Darnton came to see Voyanne, professionally.

Mr. Darnton was the commissioner of the small but more or less efficient local police.

Voyanne...Lucille...Oh, let's stick to her real name, Lucy, well, Lucy gazed into the crystal in the dimly lighted velvet hung room. By pressing her foot on the right spot under the rug a pale ghastly green light slowly diffused the crystal ball.

"You ask about your next enterprise," Lucy said, in her husky voice she had worked hard to perfect, "it will probably go through, if you are sure of your men. I see many truckloads of liquor coming down from Canada, I see them housed in the City Stables. I see brown envelopes fat with money handed to you. If you can trust your men your enterprise will succeed. It appears to be connected with a direct partnership in this liquor traffic—I see 10 trucks in one night hidden at your orders and much money coming to you."

Mr. Curtin Darnton stared with bulging eyes.

"Do—do you keep these to yourself?" he stammered.

"If it is worth while," Lucy said, huskily. Lucy was learning rapidly.

"You advise me to go ahead, then?"

ATTENDS CHARITY FETE

"I do not know your men. If you trust them, it is safe."

Mr. Darnton came several times after this, always leaving five crisp hundred dollar bills, for he was succeeding.

When they came to "Voyanne" to set up a tent on Mrs. Arthur's lawn to be a part of her big Charity Fete, she went eagerly.

Mrs. Arthur wanted to make sure that she had no charlatan, she explained, so she went into Voyanne's tent first to find out.

Lucy went through a great deal of mysterious stuff and then spoke.

"I see a pretty girl—she is sad. I see a young man, he has law books—he is sad. He is sad because he is such a gentleman that he cannot tell what he knows. If he did he might be permitted to marry the pretty girl. The pretty girl is close to you—like a relative—like a daughter. The young lawyer is kept away—he is going to be a big man in politics, a rich man. Even now he might tell what he knows of your three visitors whenever the pretty girl is gone to visit, as she is often sent—the young doctor who laughs and accepts your money for his love-making—"

"How dare you!" gasped Mrs. Arthur.

"His name is Dr. Hadley. He boasts of his affairs with you. This young lawyer is in here. I see him now, he is desperately in love with the pretty girl, so desperate that he is planning now to go to you about what he knows—and there is a Mr. Titheringly, he was your husband's trusted friend, too trusted, even now you carry on your love affairs secretly—he is near now—"

"Woman," gasped Mrs. Arthur, "you are mistaken, you have me confused with—"

"I have you confused. I see myself now—I see the pretty girl coming to me and I am forced to tell her all so that she may marry the lawyer who is to become great and rich—"

MARRIES ARTIST

"No, no! Listen, how much was I to pay you for coming here these three days?"

"Ten thousand dollars, in cash."

"Why—why it was to be seventy-five dollars—I will make it five hundred—"

"Ten thousand dollars, you have forgotten. There are also some other things I must ask your friends about to make sure, things concerning you—"

"Yes, yes, I remember, the price was ten thousand. You will get it tomorrow and then be taken ill and go away, out of the city.

"Voyanne goes out of the city when the pretty girl and the young lawyer are married."

Which was just what Lucy Pecksniff did.

Viola and Fred were married within a month.

Lucy departed.

She has a wonderful beauty parlor now in the big city, Lucille Palmer's Beauty Parlor.

She hears a lot of gossip there. Now and then she gazes in the crystal ball for her wealthy customers. She tells them amazing things—things she picked up in the daily gossip.

Lucille Palmer is quite happy. She went to a costume ball as "Voyanne," and a clever artist had her sit for a portrait as "Voyanne."

She married the artist. He is doing quite well, but, of course, there is a thousand dollars spent for beauty treatment to every dollar spent for art, so she keeps up her shop.

Join This Movement

This little woman — Mrs. Wedgewood Taffelmier—is in charge of our Home Beautiful movement, which we hope will sweep the country. Volunteers working under Mrs. Taffelmier will go from house to house and snatch Spanish shawls off pianos, turn Maxfield Parrish pictures to the wall and touch matches to scalloped silk bridge lamps.

Fraudulent Assessments

Early Discovery of Preparations for Cheating Brightens the Outlook for an Honest Election.

Gov. Pinchot pledged himself during his campaign for the governorship to work for honesty in elections.

A step in fulfillment of that pledge has been taken by the Registration Commission recently appointed by Pinchot for the city of Pittsburgh.

Its investigators have unearthed numerous cases of fraudulent enrollment of voters. Non-existent voters have been assessed as residents of vacant lots and empty buildings.

The discoveries have been made so long in advance of the primary as to give assurance of purging of the lists.

To defeat the cheaters it will not suffice merely to strike phantom names from the rolls. Honest citizens must make certain that they themselves are assessed, and registered.

Town Hall Litigation

It Will Be a Relief When the Last Obstruction Has Been Removed and the Building Started

The Dauphin County Court yesterday indorsed the erection of the Town Hall on the Oakland site chosen by the county commissioners.

Notwithstanding this decision, opponents of the site announce they will continue the legal fight.

Taxpayers generally will rejoice when the last obstruction has been removed and building of the Town Hall on a suitable site has started. They care not so much about the location of the Hall as about getting the construction work done.

The delay, due to the litigation, is keeping men out of work. It is retarding Pittsburgh's progress.

The people voted by a large majority in favor of the Town Hall, and the sooner it is given them the better.

The Canonsburg Riot

National Miners Union Has Made Itself Contemptible By Interfering With Freedom of Speech.

The National Miners Union has placed the American Civil Liberties Union, the International Labor Defense and the newspapers which defended its right to freedom of speech and freedom of assembly in an embarrassing position.

It has itself trampled upon those rights in an outrageous manner.

The National Miners Union has alternately whined and raged when the police have interfered with its meetings. Lately, as a result not only of its own efforts but also of the intercession of other bodies, it has attained a considerable degree of freedom and has been allowed to parade and meet in Pittsburgh and other places without molestation.

The National Miners Union rewarded this extension of tolerance by interfering itself last Sunday with a meeting of the rival United Mine Workers at Canonsburg. National Miners Union hoodlums attacked the United Mine Workers speakers and broke up the assembly.

The National Miners Union has made itself contemptible by this violent assault upon freedom of speech and freedom of assembly, and has weakened the influence of any appeal it may make hereafter for the granting of such freedom to itself.

Heavy Lumber Imports

With Reforestation of Barren Acres Much of State's Requirement Could Be Produced at Home

The Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters has just issued some figures on lumber consumption which show forcefully the desirability of reforesting some of the many thousands of acres of barren mountain land in the state.

The department reports that the people of Pennsylvania are now consuming about one billion cubic feet of wood annually. We import 85 per cent of our lumber, 80 per cent of our pulpwood, 76 per cent of our mine timbers, and 55 per cent of our railroad ties.

Much of this wood could be produced in the state, on land that will grow trees, but is unsuitable for any other purpose—land that is now lying idle and that can be bought for $2 or $3 an acre.

The production of this wood at home would save Pennsylvania consumers many millions of dollars a year in freight charges; for the department tells us that the average freight haul for our imported lumber is 1,200 miles, for pulpwood 700 miles, for railroad ties 800 miles, and for mine material 900 miles.

Pennsylvania was for many years the leading state in lumber production, and could again produce vast quantities of wood if forests should be re-established on the old devastated timber lands.

Since it takes 50 years or more for trees to reach saw-log size, private interests have little incentive to re-forest the barren acres. It is a task for the Commonwealth.

The Ban on Firearms

It Is to be Hoped the Police Will Disarm Criminals as Well as Boys Shooting at Targets.

Stirred by the narrow escapes several persons have had from bullets shot, it is believed, by boys engaged in target practice, the police have decided to confiscate all firearms found in possession of people in the streets.

It is to be hoped that they will succeed not only in disarming boys who endanger the public by shooting at targets, but also criminals who carry pistols.

It has long been against the law to carry concealed weapons, but the numerous cases in which persons are shot and stabbed prove that thugs and holdup men laugh at the prohibition.

Perhaps the new law, effective in September, which regulates more closely the sale of firearms, will make it more difficult for evildoers to obtain them.

FRANCE DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

PARIS, July 21.—Paris always offers the unusual in human contact. Dining at the next table in a cafe is rue Duphot last night was an obvious mid-westerner—lonely and a bit garrulous. He apologized for his carafe of vin ordinaire by explaining champagne gave him "the heartburn."

He inquired where I might be from. I told him that originally I was from Missouri. "I'm a mite further west," he said, and added, "Colorado." After a few generalities he inquired my business and, being just as curious, I asked his. "I'll give you 700 guesses and $1,000 if you guess it," he replied.

Right away I gave up and it was a good thing, too. He sells glass eyes by mail. For a quarter of a century he has carried on with what he calls a Fit-U-at-Home Plan of disposing of artificial optics. For a few moments I thought I was being subjected to a bit of gentle kidding.

But from his pocket he extracted some circulars and eye charts glorifying himself—C. E. Biel, of Denver—as "the biggest distributor of artificial eyes by mail in the world." Then he warmed to his subject. He had entered the business because his wife had lost an eye and had difficulty being fitted properly.

He advertises chiefly in farm and small town papers and out of a collection of 80,000 eyes he manages, he says, to please the customer. He sends them an assortment of a dozen and if these fail to please, he sends a dozen more and so on until, as he expressed it, "one clicks."

The price is always $5 unless a customer desires one "blown to order." Then it is tilted to $12. Most glass eyes are manufactured in Germany, and he has been in that country visiting the manufacturers. I inquired if the depression had affected the glass eye business. He said it had.

Ordinarily a customer buys an eye every two years—if affluent an extra one like a spare tire. But orders are slumping. Suddenly he tossed a sample on my table, a leering, slightly blood-shot eye—perhaps for morning wear. Just as suddenly I lost all interest in my 5 franc 50 dessert.

No strip of Paris is so vitally and electrically alive at night as the grand boulevards from the Place de la Opera to the Bastille. The sidewalks are a bright gush of cafe lights. The acres of outside tables are filled and the pavements are packed with promenaders. It is the Paris that makes one forget the backwaters of black and depressing streets that thread the town like ugly, shotted veins.

My garcon for breakfast was a young fellow with a Valentino profile and the shy gentility of his native Russia. There are thousands of them here—artistocrats shunted to obscurity. I asked if he ever expected to return to his country. "Not," he said, "unless one may visit the scenes one loves after death."

The luxury mart of the world—the Rue de la Paix—home of Cartier's, Worth, Reboux, etc., expresses a pronounced droop. Its fashionable shops are just as briskly enticing. The crowds drift through its three short blocks' length but do not stop. Through windows one sees innumerable idle and sad-eyed clerks. No other section of Paris has been so badly hit.

Driving along Montparnasse toward The Dome this afternoon I heard a screaming "Hello!" [illegible] looked back to see a wavin[illegible] at the curb. It was S. J. [illegible] man, former New York columnist and now a citizen of the world. We foregathered at a Dome table to watch the flow of humanity passing that is the oddest in the world. Rachitic wrecks swathed in rags, winking Viennese and French cocottes, hatless boys with portfolios of drawings, wide-hatted whiskered artists with floppy ties and equally floppy morals, purple-nosed toy sellers, pock-marked villains, introverts, extroverts, panderers—the stagnant, thick scum of a world in perversion.

A black suited and black neck tied Dome waiter—funerally prophetic of the fate of habitues—dropped a card on my table. It was soiled and the name inked out. LISTEN, WORLD -:- -:-

By Elsie Robinson

Jim Allen's trees are golden with apricots. So's the ground beneath them . . . great, golden mounds of rotting fruit—

Makes you sick to see it. Good fruit like that, going to waste. Makes Jim sick, too, but he can't do anything about it. No use picking it. Wouldn't make a cent.

Terrible! But don't blame it on "the depression." We've been doing it for years. Every year it gets worse. More fruit spoiling on the trees, more vegetables rotting in the ground, more milk being poured into the rivers, more surplus merchandise piling up in warehouses. Why?

The Russians think they know why. They say it's because we have no plan . . . that each man raises or makes what he wants without a plan . . . and since it is all done by private capital, the government couldn't enforce a plan, even if it had one.

There is a little book called "New Russia's Primer," written for school children of 12 to 14 years, by M. Ilin. It tells those Russian school children about American waste. It tells about rotting apricots, and farmers burning corn instead of coal, and potatoes spoiling in the ground while children go hungry.

It tells a story about hats, to illustrate our American way of doing things . . . about how Mr. Fox and Mr. Box and Mr. Nox and Mr. Cox all decided to make hats. And how they went on making hats, madly, recklessly, without a plan, until stores and factories were swamped with hats and no one bought hats any more. Then, of course, the factories closed down, the good machinery rusted, thousands of men were thrown out of work, their children went hungry, and Messrs. Fox, Box, Nox, and Cox went bankrupt. Until presently, the old hats wore out, new hats were needed, new factories were built and the whole vicious, silly circle of waste started again.

That—say the Russians—is the result of private capital working without a plan. "And it can all be helped, children, if people will work together, cut out private capital, have a central government and a plan like our Five Year Plan."

As you read that story about hats, you will grow very uncomfortable. You will have to admit it is true, but it will make you mad to admit it. You will be furious because the Russians are teaching their children things like that about America. You will be even more furious when you see that they quote one of our own leading writers to support their case, Stuart Chase in his "Tragedy of Waste."

You will read that in 1920 "thousands of gallons of milk were poured into the rivers and creeks of Southern Illinois." "In October, 1921, placards were placed along the highways in the Middle Western States advising the farmers to burn corn instead of coal" . . .

You will read on and on. With each word you will get madder. Finally you will say—

"Pooh, that's just a lot of talk! America's all right. There's nothing wrong with the way we do things in America. They shouldn't let those Russians—or those fool writers — talk like that about America."

Then you'll throw that book down, hard, and walk outside.

And outside, what will you see?

You will see Jim Allen's apricots rotting on the trees.

And then what will you say?

German Economic Crisis

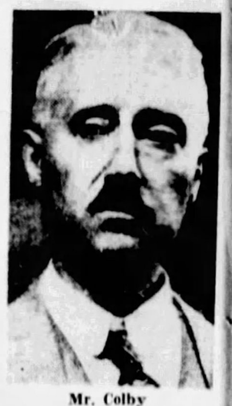
Primary Aspect of Germany's Position Is That She Is Great Debtor Naton,

By BAINBRIDGE COLBY

RETURNING from Europe, Mr. Kahn, of the great banking house of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., declined to express himself on the financial conditions in Germany.

"The subject is too vast and too serious," said he, "to be discussed lightly."

What are the facts? The question is not a German question. It is a world question. The possibility of financial catastrophe confronts all nations, WHETHER THEY ARE DEBTORS OR CREDITORS.



Mr. Colby

"THE PRESENT CRISIS," says Sir George Paish, in a most timely book, "IS UNIVERSALLY BELIEVED TO BE THE MOST SERIOUS THE WORLD HAS EVER EXPERIENCED, AND THE MOST DIFFICULT IT HAS EVER HAD TO ADJUST."

This statement proceeds from an expert whom the United States deemed worthy of consultation in connection with the drafting of the Federal Reserve Act, and who in 1914, at the request of this country, was sent by the British government to Washington to adjust the difficult and novel financial relations which had arisen from the war. He is one of the leading authorities on international finance.

THE world situation, which seems to defy understanding and to baffle solution, is the outgrowth of the war. But that is not saying much. Few of our people have a clear realization, or in fact any rational notion, as to just how the distresses of the nations are an inevitable result of the war, or, to speak more exactly, of the conditions and policies which followed in its wake.

The fact that so many men lost their lives in the war might suggest that there is a shortage in the world of manpower, but that supposition is negatived by the extent of unemployment in the world, with millions out of work, who could truthfully be described as an unusable surplus of manpower.

Again, it might be thought that the prodigious rate at which the wealth of the nations was consumed during the war, might explain the distress which grips the world. And yet the fact is that there is no shortage of commodities or of natural produce. The reverse is the fact. There are vast stores of all that human kind requires—surplus stores—unsalable, rotting, deteriorating, and withheld from use or commerce.

No. The world's plight is not due to causes such as these. The crisis in Germany does not arise from any dearth of men or goods.

GERMANY is but a single facet of the world situation—a single link, although an important one, in the chain of inter-related problems which bind the earth.

Once state Germany's problem and it is seen that it runs off, like the notes in a scale, in every direction, with inescapable difficulties and embarrassments to every other nation.

The primary aspect of Germany's position today is that she is the GREAT DEBTOR NATION OF THE WORLD.

The war had hardly ended when the Allied statesmen proceeded to draw up the bill for damages on the theory of Germany's sole responsibility for the war. It was a stupendous bill.

But no sooner did Germany, in her helplessness, address her energies to meeting it, than every nation took fright at the consequences to their own economic condition, should Germany succeed. It meant that every nation in the world would be inundated with German goods.

RIGHT here the position of the world became a critical one. The United States was not alone in throwing up the ramparts of a tariff of unprecedented height. England and the other nations of Europe followed suit.

The result was that Germany, needing an outlet for her goods if she was to live, began to reduce the prices of her wares in a vain effort to cope with the tariff barriers erected against her trade.

For a brief while Germany received some help from the willingness of other nations to supply her with credit, and with the avails of these credits, the early reparation payments were made.

But credits have to be redeemed. Loans fall due. Germany, unable to repay her loans, found her credit curtailed. This in turn reduced her purchases from other countries.

Her troubles found their reflections in the similar and related difficulties of other nations.

FRANCE, receiving a large proportion of her reparation claims from Germany in goods, is not obliged to buy from other nations, to that extent, and thus contributes to the contraction of the international market.

England, a creditor of France and Italy, is adopting tariffs to prevent the sale of continental products in the British market.

France is unable to make her normal purchases from England because of the large remittances she is obliged to make in gold on account of her British obligations.

The United States, the largest purveyor of loans and credits to Germany, is at a double disadvantage. It cannot maintain or expand its credits to Germany in the face of the obvious inability of Germany to redeem them; and it is barred from expectation of the repayment or reduction of its loans, owing to its self-imposed inability to receive German goods in payment or reduction of advances already made.

AT the same time we are suffering a progressive curtailment of our trade, owing to the dislocation of credits and accompanying trade paralysis in countries other than Germany, but which are experiencing, like ourselves, the effects of the unsolved German problem.

The question is—have we the economic understanding necessary for the perception of the true nature of this complicated and far-reaching problem?
